F.D.R. APPOINTS STETTINIUS TO SUCCEED HULL

Resignation Is Laid to Ill Health.

Hurley Named Envoy

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Patrick H. Hurley was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be American ambassador to China. Hurley, secretary of war under President Hoover, is in China now with Donald M. Nelson, the President's personal representative. Clarence E. Gauss resigned as this country's envoy to China at about the time that Gen. Stilwell was recalled. The President said the two events were not directly related.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—President Roosevelt today announced acceptance of Secretary of State Hull's resignation, and immediately appointed 44 year old Undersecretary of State Stettinius to fill the cabinet vacancy. The White House transmitted the nomination to the senate, which is expected to approve it expeditiously.

Mr. Hull, who is 73, resigned because of ill health, in accord with a decision he reached several weeks ago which was reported by THE TRIBUNE Nov. 3. Mr. Roosevelt visited the secretary yesterday at the Naval hospital where he has been under treatment for six weeks for a throat ailment. After talking with Mr. Hull and his physicians the President reluctantly accepted the resignation, which had been previously submitted.

After announcing acceptance of the resignation the President lunched with Mr. Stettinius. Shortly thereafter he received Sen. Connally [D., Tex.] chairman, and Sen. George [D., Ga.], ranking majority member of the senate foreign relations committee, both of whom favored the appointment of War Mobilization Director Byrnes as Mr. Hull's successor. There was strong pressure for Byrnes in both house and senate while Vice President Wallace was vigorously urged by Sidney Hillman's PAC by way of a build-up for the Presidency in 1948. Former Undersecretary of State Welles also had his boosters. But the President already had decided to promote Mr. Stettinius and his decision was quickly accepted by Democratic party leaders.

Stettinius Rise Rapid.

Stettinius has had a rapid rise in the Roosevelt administration after an inauspicious beginning. The war resources board of which he was chairman in 1939 worked out a plan of stockpiling essential war materials, such as rubber and copper, but the President pigeonholed it. His reputation as an administrator suffered from the failures of the office of production management in which he was director of the priorities division in 1941. Relieved of that office he was made lend-lease administrator and special assistant to the President.

In 1943, the President was com-

Dorsey Trial for Jon Hall Brawl Opens

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 27 (AP).—Tommy Dorsey was pictured as a man defending the sanctity of his home—and Allen Smiley as a friend who went to his aid—in questions asked of prospective jurors by defense lawyers as the band leader went to trial today on charges of assaulting Movie Actor Jon Hall.

Smiley, man about Hollywood, and Actress Pat Dane, Dorsey's wife, are his co-defendants. A grand jury indicted them as a result of an early morning brawl Aug. 5 at the Dorsey apartment after a party celebrating Mrs. Dorsey's 26th birthday.

Smiley's counsel, Jerry Giesler, disclosed in a remark to the tentative jury that "I'm representing my next door neighbor."

Hints Self-Defense.

Giesler, who represented Charlie Chaplin at the latter's Mann act trial, asked each of the eight women and four men seated as prospective jurors:

"If the evidence shows that Mr. Smiley came in late during the fight and believed that one of the parties was about to receive great bodily harm, would he have been justified in intervening and using force to stop the fight?"

"Will you try to look at the fight thru Mr. Smiley's eyes while he is on the witness stand?"

Costly to Dorsey.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Edwin Myers cautioned tentative jurors to "remember, Jon Hall is merely a witness, not the prosecutor. This is a criminal case—the state of California versus Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey and Mr. Smiley."

Isaac Pacht, attorney for the Dorseys, asked the jurors if they had any quarrel with the law that allows a man to defend the sanctity of his home and to repel by force an attack upon his person.

Pacht disclosed recently that it was costing the trombonist $6,000 weekly to keep his band here. Dorsey told reporters today that the band will leave without him to open an engagement Friday night at a Chicago hotel.

Hall's Story Altered.

The Dorseys watched the jury selection intently, but Miss Dane yawned frequently. She said she and her husband were out until 4 a. m. today. There are 25 challenges allowed each side and counsel agreed it might be late tomorrow before the prosecution opens its case.

Hall, who at no time has seemed anxious to have the case prosecuted, told the grand jury he was severely beaten. Only recently, however, he informed investigators for the district attorney that he was uncertain who hit him.

Greater Cigaret Famine in Few Months Predicted

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 27 (AP).—An even greater cigaret shortage in the next three months than in the last two was predicted today by Eric Calamia, president of the National Retail Tobacco Merchants' association. He told the Kansas City tobacco round table he believed the shortage started when the raising of a tobacco crop was classified as an essential industry by the government while the manufacture of cigars and cigarets is considered nonessential.

Miss Lamming Keeps Forger from Lamming

In yesterday's batch of mail at the currency exchange at 342 N. Clark st. was a check returned from the bank marked: "Forgery." It was for $38.65 and had been cashed Friday by a man who gave his name as Victor Marcus Hart of 2938 Archer av.

Miss Gloria Lamming, cashier, who had cashed the check, bit her lip.

"I just wish that man would come in here again," she said to herself. Then she glanced up—there he was.

He Has a Smile—and a Check.

Hart proferred a check for $74.95 drawn, as was the other, on the Goodman Brothers Yarn company, and smiled in recognition at Miss Lamming.

"I cashed my bonus check in here Friday," he explained. "This is my regular pay check."

"Yes, I remember," Miss Lamming said brightly. "Our armored truck is a little late today, but it should be here any minute."

The Business End of a Gun.

Hart became uneasy. "I think I'll go get a cup of coffee while I'm waiting," he said.

From a small trapdoor beneath the cashier's window appeared the business end of a .38 caliber revolver.

"If you make one move," she said, "I'll put seven slugs into you." Then she telephoned police.

One Worry on Her Mind.

Hart admitted to police that the checks were worthless and that he had cashed a total of $1,500 in bogus checks in the last two months. He also admitted, police said, that he was paroled from Stateville prison two years ago after serving eight years of an armed robbery sentence.

Miss Lamming was composed about the whole affair. "The only thing that worried me," she told the detectives, "was the gun. I didn't know whether it would shoot."

HERE'S LATEST NEWS OF THE SPORTING SET DOWN IN PIKE COUNTY

From Petersburg, in Pike county, Indiana, comes news of big doings recently among the sporting set. Fred Veeck, THE TRIBUNE'S Pike county correspondent, reports:

Carl English—he was elected county treasurer this month—heard a noise in his chicken coop about midnight last Friday. While his wife held a lantern, Carl grabbed a board and killed a fox which had killed two chickens. He hit the fox so hard the board splintered and a doctor had to dig the splinters out of Carl's hand. Carl got $4.50 for the fox's pelt.

Codo Connors fell 18 feet out of a tree he had climbed to shake down a 'coon treed by his two dogs in the Patoka river bottoms. He sprained his right foot and had to crawl three miles to his car. The dogs kept the 'coon treed until Codo got fixed up by a doctor in Winslow. Then he drove back and got the 'coon.

Dr. Charles C. Talliaferro, who used to be head of the gas company, was getting ready to shoot a quail pointed by his dog, when the quail took wing and flew straight at him. Charles reached up and grabbed the quail in his hand and brought it home alive, to prove how he saved a shell.

Mrs. Frances Sipple, who weighs only 90 pounds, caught an 18 pound bass in the White river. She says fishing is fine.

Injured Yank Wakes to Find Self at Home

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—One of the most remarkable stories of the war is the battle odyssey of Pvt. William Guy Harrell of Hyattsville, Md., 20, paratrooper, who was knocked unconscious while fighting in France and woke up 34 days later in a New York hospital.

Pvt. W. G. Harrell.

Pvt. Harrell, the son of an army chaplain, grinned as he related his unique experience at Walter Reed hospital here, where he is well on the way to recovery.

The young doughboy, who fought with the 101st air borne division, was dropped behind the German lines on the Cherbourg peninsula the night before D-day. He saw 15 days of the fiercest kind of combat in France.

Battle Against Tanks.

Pvt. Harrell was armed only with a rifle and some hand grenades. A machine gun which he had mounted on the hood of a jeep flown in by a glider had been put out of action.

"That's not much defense against a tank," he said, "but I was using armor piercing ammunition, which helped a lot. If you get an armor piercing bullet into the belly or thru the front slit of a tank it ricochets around and frequently knocks out everybody inside.

"I figured I had got in a lucky shot when a German medium tank which was heading in my direction suddenly swerved and stopped. However, when I moved up closer to finish her off with a hand grenade, the tank lunged forward again."

Pvt. Harrell was knocked into a foxhole, seriously wounded with head and leg injuries.

A Jerry Looks Back.

"That foxhole saved my life," he said. "If it hadn't been there I would have been run over. I was shaken up, but managed to grab my rifle and get off one round at a Heinie who poked his head out of the tank to look back. That accounted for him. Then one of our machine guns went to work and the tank nosed over and stopped for keeps just as I felt myself passing out."

The Maryland doughboy was taken to a hospital in England, where he underwent an operation. On July 25 he woke up in Halloran General hospital, Long Island, New York.

"I thought at first I was dreaming when they told me I was back in the United States," he said. "Then mother and dad were there and I knew it couldn't be a dream."

BOMBERS SINK 2 DESTROYERS, HIT 23 VESSELS

Make November Bag 151 Craft.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Nov. 27 (AP).—At least 48 Japanese vessels were sunk or damaged by carrier planes of the United States 3d fleet in the Friday strike on the Manila bay area. Adm. Nimitz, in a bulletin today revising previous reports of the attack, added two destroyers sunk and 23 ships damaged to the original score.

The total number of Japanese ships sunk or damaged during November thus is increased to 151.

Hellcat fighters and anti-aircraft fire from the American surface ships downed 58 Japanese planes. Twenty-nine more were destroyed on the ground and an additional 32 probably were damaged on the ground.

Three Destroyers Sunk.

The bulletin's revised summary follows:

Ships sunk:

One destroyer at Santa Cruz.

Cargo Ships Sent Down.

Damaged:

Two cargo ships, hit in previous raids near San Fernando.

One cargo ship, previously damaged, bombed, and set ablaze 30 miles south of San Fernando.

Three landing craft beached near Santa Cruz.

Two Believed Sunk.

Two destroyers or small transports bombed at Marinduque.

One oiler, three large cargo ships, two medium cargo ships, one small coastal cargo ship, and one small cargo ship hit in Manila harbor.

Nine luggers hit near Manila.

MacArthur Bombs Japs.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Philippines, Nov. 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—American Leyte-based planes dropped 235 tons of bombs on Japanese airdromes on Ceby and Negros and at Davao Friday, Gen. MacArthur said today.

Thirty Japanese planes rose to intercept the American flight and eight were shot down. Terrific rains brought ground fighting to a standstill in the Ormoc corridor. No American advances were reported.

The weather also curtailed aerial activity over Leyte Sunday. Four attacking Japanese planes were shot down, in addition to the eight bagged on American assaults against other Philippine targets.

Canada Told: Unite or Run Anarchy Risk

Draftees Strike

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—A dispatch reaching Vancouver tonight from Prince Rupert, northern British Columbia coast town, said that soldiers carrying rifles were demonstrating south of Terrace village, where draftees are staging a "sit-down" strike while they await a reply from army headquarters at Ottawa to a demand that they be returned to their home in Quebec.

About 500 home defense troops at Prince George paraded thru the snowy streets for an hour today, carrying anti-conscription placards and shouting slogans. They were orderly and later returned to their barracks in army trucks.

In Montreal about 700 young men paraded tonight and congregated silently for 15 minutes in Phillips square, in the heart of the city, as a token of their opposition to conscription.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 27 (AP).—Prime Minister King told a grave house of commons today that if it did not "unite in a reasonable measure" on the nation-shaking conscription issue, Canada would face the possibility of "anarchy." He moved for a secret session which will be acted upon tomorrow.

Faced with a possibly sweeping defection from his Liberal party by French-speaking members from Quebec who normally provide a substantial part of his support, King called for a vote of confidence and said that unless he received a substantial majority he would resign.

Warned by Quebec Leader.

The possibility of such a course was heightened when former provincial Premier Adelard Godbout, Liberal party leader in Quebec, warned that if the government persisted in its new policy of partial conscription for overseas service, "it will have to count on the opposition of the Liberals of Quebec of which I am the head."

A vote is expected later in the week.

King, in a vigorous and often fiery address which lasted nearly three hours, made it plain that he intended to hew to his present course and stake the life of his nine-year-old regime on the issue. He moved as a question of confidence that the house support his government "in its policy of maintaining a vigorous war."

Thruout the address King stressed his view that the conscription issue has so divided the country that Canadian unity and strength have been endangered perhaps "for generations to come."

Promises Exposure of Foes.

King charged that his opponents on the conscription issue had "organized" a "measure of unrest" in Canada, "the like of which never before has been seen." He said that this development was a factor along with changing conditions abroad which had led his government in an

SIMPSON'S 9TH PUSHES NAZIS TO ROER RIVER

Hodges Fights Into German Towns.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Nov. 27 (AP).—German defenders of the Cologne plain were driven back south of Julich tonight to the west bank of the Roer river—the best natural barrier short of the Rhine—as the United States 9th army dealt hammer blows alongside the United States 1st army.

From north to south Gen. Eisenhower's winter offensive by six allied armies was forging ahead, meeting its greatest test of strength on the Cologne plain.

Lt. Gen. Dempsey's British 2d army in eastern Holland cleaned up the enemy's once menacing salient west of the Maas [Meuse] river except for three or four pockets. In Germany the British ironed out a 500 yard dent in its lines near Tripsrath, two miles north of Geilenkirchen, where they hold high ground overlooking the Wurm, a Roer tributary.

2d Gen

Battle House-to-House.

Lt. Gen. Simpson's United States 9th army fought the enemy back to the west bank of the Roer river. This advance, representing a gain of a half mile to a mile east of Bourheim, was in the area of Kitchberg, a mile and a half south of the Roer river stronghold of Julich. Elements of the 9th battled house-to-house in Koslar, two miles west of Julich. Other forces fought half way thru Kirchberg, on the west bank of the river a mile and a half south of Julich.

9th

Lt. Gen. Hodges' American 1st army pressed the enemy back a mile and a half with heavy losses. It was deep inside two strongholds to the south within two and a half and four miles of the Roer. Doughboys fought into the center of Langerwehe, 14 miles inside Germany and the last major road center before the Roer, four miles to the east. They seized most of the forest anchor town of Hurtgen, and five miles south of Duren they fought into Grosshau.

1st

Lt. Gen. Patton's United States 3d army made gains up to six miles and nowhere along its 60 mile front was it more than 16 miles from Germany. The 3d army burst into the Saar's western frontier at a new point along a three mile front. It also captured the French road center of St. Avold.

3d

7th Gains 4 Miles.

Lt. Gen. Patch's American 7th army widened its Saverne gap positions leading to Strasbourg. It pushed on about four miles to a point 12 miles north of the city within sight of the Rhine. The 7th seized Molsheim, 11 miles southwest of Strasbourg.

7th

French 1st army troops at the southern end of the front cleared the Mulhouse area of the enemy with drives to the east and west and cut the road from Belfort to Mulhouse, thus sewing up any Germans pocketed in the Belfort gap.

1st

The German high command threw in fresh troops to meet the mounting peril to its industrial Ruhr, Rhineland and Saar basin.

First Foothold on Roer.

While the 9th army's thrust represented a gain of only a half mile to a mile east of Bourheim, it will give the Americans their first foothold on the Roer and enable them to drive on Julich from the south once they clean out the rest of Kirchberg.

Hammering at Julich along a 10 mile front, the 9th on its north flank sent armored forces ahead some 500 yards and on the south advanced 500 yards northeast of Altdorf, three miles south of the town.

Gathering new power, the American 1st army pushed a mile northeast of newly captured Weisweiler, seized Frenz, which was covered by entrenchments and strongly defended, and drove 400 yards beyond. The

50 Killed in Munitions Blast

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 28 [Tuesday].—Rescue squads were working against time today to reach an undetermined number of workers buried beneath wrecked buildings as the result of a double explosion at a royal air force munitions depot near Burton-on-Trent.

More than 50 were killed, including at least 20 miners, a number of R. A. F. maintenance workers, and two farmers. It was feared the toll might go to 90. Sixty men were reported trapped below ground. Gas from the explosions is handicapping rescue workers. [The London Daily Mail said 200 were killed.]

Bombs Hurled into Air.

The blast, which occurred underground, hurled thru the surface bombs, which rained down over the surrounding countryside, causing widespread devastation and partly destroying a village.

The explosion is reported to have burst open doors of houses 60 miles away. People in Coventry, 30 miles distant, and Daventry, 45 miles away, thought an earthquake had occurred.

Five Counties Shaken.

Five counties were shaken and windows were broken 32 miles away. Stunned villagers told of seeing buildings, boulders, trees, telegraph poles, and live stock flung into the air.

"It was staggering," said an eyewitness. "Nothing like it was ever seen on a battlefield. Roads are turned up, part of a village is gone, and the rest is rubble. It looks as if every house had a direct bomb hit. Everywhere there are craters. Buildings simply disappeared."

Pullman Names Too Much for Japs

BY WALTER SIMMONS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEYTE, P. I., Nov. 27.—The man who named all the Pullman cars is busy fighting the war. And he is driving the Japs slowly mad in the Pacific theater.

The radio, for instance, at an American command post on Leyte crackled the other day. "Cockrell is crowing, turkey trotting, brother and sister drunk," rasped a baritone voice.

It's a Code Message.

The bearded listener smiled knowingly and made notes on a printed form. It was a code message conveying important information. To the listening Japs it was incomprehensible.

"This is grandma," announced another unmistakably masculine voice, adding the cryptic message, "Jumping bean." At the other end, the Yanks knew who "grandma" was. Other stations, their locations secret, have such labels as Chevrolet Coupe, Flying Dutchman, Perspiration, Housebroken, Quilt, Mattress, and Fertilizer.

Genius Hits a Peak.

But it's in place names that the former Pullman genius really comes into his own. Witness such masterpieces as Geranium Bed, Cauliflower Patch, Knuckle-Duster, Income Tax, Summer Home, and Wrigley field.

Still Fight in Forest.

Heavy fighting continued for high ground in the northeastern edge of Hurtgen forest, where the doughboys fought to within four and a half miles of Duren yesterday.

Seven miles southeast of Duren the town of Hurtgen, which had withstood repeated assaults, appeared to be falling after many weeks of battle in its vicinity as the doughboys fighting in from the west took the major part of it from the bitterly resisting enemy. It was costly, yard-by-yard slugging.

Patton's new 3d army crossing into the Saar was between that basin's western cities of Merzig and Saarlautern. A front dispatch said the 90th infantry division was approaching the towns of Meidwilling, Furweiler, and Hemmersdorf, all a half to a mile and a half inside Germany.

Quit St. Avold in Night.

Eight miles to the south, the 95th infantry division was moving up swiftly on the 90th's right flank and appeared likely to join it inside Germany momentarily.

To the southwest, they slashed thru the old Maginot line at a second point and gained six miles in an advance close to Merten, one mile west of the Saar border.

To the southeast, they captured the road center of St. Avold, where the Maginot line was breached yesterday, fought north to within two miles of the Saar frontier, and east two miles to within 13 miles of the basin's industrial city of Saarbrucken.

Ranging thru the forests on the north, the 80th had advanced elements no more than two miles south of the Saar basin, and was approaching the French border town of Forbach.

Seize Lorraine Towns.

Numerous Lorraine towns were seized as the 3d swung its lines into or toward the rough terrain of the Saar, and on its southern flank was moving up both the east and west banks of the Saar river to points 16 miles south of the French border city of Sarreguemines.

On the east bank the 4th armored division broadened its bridgehead to nearly four miles and swung a mile north of Eywiller, 16 miles from Sarreguemines. On the west bank tanks consolidated their hold on Druilingen, the same distance away.

Four more small forts around Metz were found abandoned, but two others, including formidable Fort Driant, still held out.

German Front Crumbling.

[A dispatch to the Basel (Switzerland) newspaper, National Zeitung, from Schaffhausen said allied parachute troops had landed in the upper Wutach valley of Germany behind the Siegfried line with the aim of destroying the strategic rail line from Donaueschingen to Waldschut. The dispatch said the allied airborne forces were being fought by troops of the German volkssturm (civilian army). There was no allied confirmation.]

Breaking thru the Saales pass out on the Alsace plain, forces of the 7th army seized the city of Molsheim, 11 miles southwest of Strasbourg, and were within eight miles of breaking clear thru a second Vosges pass of Ste. Marie farther south.

German attacks menacing the Saverne gap to the north were smashed by the 44th infantry division.

The French tightened their grip on Strasbourg with the capture of a dozen outlying forts while the United States 79th infantry was pressing more than 12 miles north of the city to within three miles of Haguenau, last communication center in northeastern Lorraine.

Capture Town of Bussang.

French armor was approaching Graffenstaden, three miles south of Strasbourg.

Bussang, in the pass of the same name 16 miles north of Belfort, was captured by the French along with three other towns six miles to the southeast.

The French 1st army on the southern Rhine plain took Heimsbrunn and Galfringue, four miles southwest of Mulhouse, and eight miles southeast of Mulhouse were engaging the Germans dug in strongly around Kembs, on the west bank of the Rhine.

The French in the Belfort gap took St. Germain and La Chapelle, six and 12 miles northeast of Belfort.

For the first time, the United States 7th army received close support from American heavy bombers which hit rail yards at Offenburg, 10 miles southeast of Strasbourg.

First tactical air force fighter-bombers knocked down a Rhine rail bridge at Breisach, southeast of Colmar, and a pontoon road bridge which also spanned the Rhine midway between Breisach and Strasbourg.

Unofficial estimates from the 6th army group set the total of prisoners at 30,000—more than a third of the 75,000 with which the Germans were believed to have manned the Vosges mountain line—since the opening of the United States 7th and French 1st army offensive.

Find Nazi Camp for Political Prisoners High in Vosges

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEAR NATZVILLER IN THE CENTRAL VOSGES, Alsace, Nov. 27.—One of the loveliest panoramas of the Vosges is from this mountain above a sedate little town, but on the top of the slopes a concentration camp was built and used by the Nazis for three years for political prisoners from all over Europe.

The camp, first of its type discovered in the American 7th army's advance, is an area about a half mile in each direction from the summit and is reached by a winding road constructed by the Nazis and some of their political victims they forced to work for them. The camp was fenced in by high barbed wire, which was electrified powerfully enough to kill any one trying to escape.

Take Prisoners Along.

The Nazis fled the enclosure on Nov. 21, taking their prisoners with them and also removing or destroying all documents which might indicate the number kept captive and what treatment was accorded them.

However, civil affairs officers from the 3d infantry division, which came by here on the sweep thru the Saales pass to the Alsace plain, were piecing together by observation and talking with civilians some of the story of what went on in the camp. More than 3,000 prisoners could be lodged in the camp and the French said the place nearly always was full with women captives as well as men.

It is only hearsay, but persistent hearsay, that 3,600 prisoners of both sexes were executed here by the Germans in the three year period. In one building there was an elaborate crematorium—a big furnace, a long handled litter for shoving in the corpses, and other grisly accoutrements. There was a roomful of earthenware vases of the type used for storing human ashes.

Table with Concave Top.

Near-by in a sort of surgery was a long tile table with a concave top—a strange piece of equipment which certainly would not be used for reposing a living person.

The French also asserted that prisoners were killed in the same building, being shot in the head as they descended into the cellar.

Structures in which prisoners lived were of wood and unheated. They were divided either into tiny cubicles with bare white walls or rows of double tiered bunks. The bunks were of straw, with one blanket over each. Windows were high and stoutly barred.

The kitchen building had the barest essentials and there was no mess table, so it was assumed the prisoners carried their own utensils and ate sitting on the ground.

Hitler and Himmler Pictures.

German officers' and guards' quarters also were built of wood but were much more spacious and had stoves. Pictures of Hitler and Himmler were everywhere, and there were maps of the Russian front, on which jottings showed that the Nazis had been studying them. In the little arsenal were stacked rifles and ammunition.

One Frenchman said the guards scattered the ashes of their victims on the hills but the presence of the vases in the crematorium indicated that this might not be true and that the remains were actually shipped to the deceased families.

Prisoners could be seen every day at work on roads and quarries but armed guards allowed no outsiders near them and they were allowed no visitors nor deliveries of packages.

40 GERMANS HOLD OUT AGAINST MODERN WAR IN AN ANCIENT CASTLE

WITH BRITISH TROOPS IN GEISTEREN, Holland, Nov. 27 (AP).—Remote from the battle being waged to the south, a minor but savage scrap pitting medieval masonry and moats against modern machinery of war is being fought around an old fortress castle here. Thus far, medieval masonry is holding its own.

There are 40 fanatical paratroops and officer cadets in this castle—all sworn to die for Hitler. The British deployed around the ancient moated place are prepared fully to help them carry out their oath.

The British have hurled mortar and artillery fire on the castle. Sharpshooters and machine gunners have sprayed the place continually and Typhoons have rocket-bombed the place. Yet the Germans and the solid walls of the castle still hold. Baron Welch de Wenne, its owner, and his wife and four daughters went back to the allied lines.

CIVILIANS HELP PATTON'S ARMY CAPTURE TOWN

80th Division Occupies Foe's Headquarters.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. AVOLD, France, Nov. 27.—This important communications center, until recently headquarters for a German army, was seized without opposition at 10 a. m. today by 80th division troops of Gen. Patton's 3d army. On Saturday they had smashed their way across a deep anti-tank ditch and thru the Maginot line.

German artillery, firing from high ground outside St. Avold, held up the American infantry yesterday. The artillery pulled out late yesterday afternoon and German troops inside the town left at 4 a. m. today. They told civilians they didn't intend stopping until they were over the German border. Late this afternoon 80th division troops were two miles beyond St. Avold.

Residents Help Troops.

The pattern of the 80th division's advance since it crossed the French Nied river a week ago was similar to that of other divisions along the 3d army front. It cleaned up village after village and then forced a crossing of the German Nied river near Falquemont, which is a coal mine center.

Residents of Falquemont tossed planks and ladders to aid our troops in the river crossing. They even showed them the location of one Nazi machine gun position.

The Maginot line beyond Falquemont, which was built as protection against the Germans, has not been turned around. The Germans were using it as a storage place or for command posts and living quarters. However, the Germans built a 15 foot deep anti-tank ditch in front of the Maginot line, which was filled up by American bulldozers in several spots. They also placed dugouts along the anti-tank ditch and fired from them.

Sergeant Captures 68 Nazis.

The Maginot line was quickly pierced, however, and several forts were captured. Sixty-eight Germans hiding in one fort were taken prisoners yesterday by a sergeant of the engineers on a sightseeing trip thru the structure.

German resistance was heavy yesterday, with the 80th repelling four counter-attacks and American artillery breaking up a fifth before it got well under way.

By midafternoon 80th division troops were so close to St. Avold that the Germans began evacuating the town at dusk with motorized and horse drawn supply trains.

Meets Midwest Soldiers.

We visited the battered town today under the guidance of Pvt. Wayne C. Leckey, 32, former associate editor of Popular Mechanics magazine in Chicago, whose wife, Marion, lives in Aurora, Ill. He is now assistant press relations man for the 80th. In town we met Lt. Dennis A. Delany, Reedsville, Wis., a signal officer, and Lt. Edward L. Lundahl, 7800 Muskegon av., Chicago, a division artillery officer.

The latter took us to Nazi party headquarters, where masses of propaganda, including a number of Nazi banners, photographs of Hitler, an extravagantly framed portrait of Reichsmarshal Goering, were left behind as evidence of the haste with which the party officials had fled.

Elsewhere in town, where we met Lt. Col. John G. Hardy, Lewiston, Me., headquarters commandant of the 80th division, whose brother, Gresham Hardy, lives in Evanston, Ill., American troops and engineers were at work cleaning up the debris caused by our shelling and bombing and the demolition work done by the Germans.

Hoosier Plays Piano.

In a wrecked cafe in the main street a group of G. I.s, belonging to the 80th's 305th engineers, was crowded around a piano being played by Pvt. Frank Foster, Anderson, Ind. His audience included Pvt. Walter M. Joeh, whose sister, Mrs. Charles Ross, lives at 910 W. 71st st., Chicago, and Pvt. Jack C. Schantz, whose brother, Clyde, lives at 751 W. 72d st., Chicago.

SENATE VOTES TO EXTEND TIME OF SHORT TRIAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—The senate today approved by a unanimous voice vote a resolution introduced by Sen. Fergusen [R., Mich.] extending for six months after Dec. 7 the statute of limitations in the cases of persons who may be court martialed in connection with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor 3 years ago.

The extension, which will now be voted on by the house, is the third to be acted on by congress. The first was adopted a year ago, for a six month period. Attempts were made last June to have congress approve a 12 month extension, but it was cut to 6 months, necessitating the present proposed 6 month extension.

Today's senate action was taken in the face of a prediction in the authoritative army and navy journal over the week-end that Maj. Gen. Short and Rear Adm. Kimmel, army and navy commanders at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, would not be court martialed.

A BROOKLYN COP FIGHTS ONE-MAN WAR WITH NAZIS

PUFFENDORF, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP).—He is only a former Brooklyn patrolman, but to a battalion of German Tiger tanks on this front he was more than a regiment of angry Russians. In a few hours he did these things:

Lt. Carl C. Palm.

Attacked five German Tiger tanks and accompanying German infantry alone with hand grenades; killed all five tank commanders with his rifle; "surrounded" and staged a one-man war on a German command post, killing three officers; played hide and seek alone with a German battalion in the town of Prummern. And it was the first time he ever had been in action.

TWO OF GERMANY'S PRINCIPAL CANALS BLOCKED BY BOMBS

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—The British air ministry announced tonight two of Germany's principal canals were blocked by R. A. F. Lancasters attacking the night of Nov. 21. For the third time in two months, the ministry said, the bombers breached the Dortmund-Ems canal and drained it over a distance of 16 miles. They also hit the Mittelland canal and dried it up for about 15 miles. The twin blows crippled seriously Germany's system of military communications to the western front. A number of barges were observed stranded in the canals.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Nov. 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Upwards of 1,000 British Lancasters and Halifaxes bombed Germany during the night with two Nazi supply bases on the western front as the main targets. Mosquito bombers hit Berlin.

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—In the greatest all-fighter aerial battle in history 500 American Mustangs today fought more than 400 German Focke-Wulfs and Messerschmitts and downed at least 98.

This boosted American fighter kills in the last 24 hours to a record smashing 212, and—adding the German planes downed by bombers—raised the United States' air force score for the same period to 239 German fighters downed. Thirteen American fighters and one bomber were reported missing today.

At least four additional German planes were riddled by concentrated Mustang machine gun fire as they attempted to leave the ground.

Fights for Hundreds of Miles.

The American fighter pilots encountered the Germans in the Magdeburg, Munster, and Brunswick areas of northwest Germany while strafing airports and military transport centers.

It was the greatest test of fighter against fighter and pilot against pilot of the war. The German area was filled with planes darting at each other in running dogfights which covered hundreds of miles.

The top scoring Mustang group had 30 kills. Capt. Leonard K. Carson, Denver, Colo., became the day's ace by destroying five planes.

First Defense Against Strafing.

An 8th air force spokesman said the air battles marked the first time the German air force had attempted to interfere with ground strafing on such a great scale. The Nazis usually save their craft for defense of oil targets. They had lost 130 to American fighters and bombers on Sunday at the oil center of Misburg.

Official figures on that battle disclosed that Mustangs and Thunderbolts knocked down 114 Nazi planes in combat, while losing six of their own planes. Seven fighters previously reported missing landed in friendly territory.

Switching from oil targets for a concentrated blow against supply lines feeding Germany's west front armies, upwards of 2,000 allied war planes roamed over the entire western front and nearly to Berlin, attacking packed railway centers and other targets.

Some 500 R. A. F. Lancasters, shepherded by Spitfires, planted 3,000 tons of explosives on the railway yard in the Kalk district of Cologne, on the east bank of the Rhine. The yard, scarcely more than 20 miles from the front at Julich and Duren, normally handles 4,500 rail cars a day.

Nearly 300 Lancasters dumped new six ton "blast bombs" on the industrial center of Munich in a 15 minute raid carried out in clear weather.

Planes from Italy Score.

CHICAGO DRIVER OF A JEEP GIVES WOUNDED A HAND

Coolness Wins Praise of Battle Vets.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Nov. 27.—When the firing started Pvt. Ray Kokoska of Chicago, who has the thankless job of driving correspondents to the front, did what any smart soldier would do. He took cover in a ditch behind his jeep. But when the wounded began limping and crawling out of the brush he did what any good soldier would do. He climbed into the open and began helping them.

All this happened two days ago in Hurtgen forest, but it wasn't until another party of newspaper men visited the same outpost that word of his action got around. He didn't mention it to his passengers that day, who had gone forward afoot after reaching the farthest point jeeps were allowed to go. Battle hardened veterans praised the young Chicagoan's coolness.

Says "It Wasn't Much."

Unmindful of falling shells, he helped carry the more seriously hit into a first aid dugout, guided others still able to walk, and later cut down saplings for improvised stretchers, according to a medical officer, who has since been killed.

"It wasn't much," Ray explained with a shrug. "They were short of men and I helped a little. I couldn't sit in the ditch when I saw fellows coming back with hands and arms gone. I saw one lieutenant carried out with a leg shot off above the knee and he was more worried about his men than about himself. Those are the guys I admire.

"Runners would start back to get aid men and get hit before they reached the dugout. Aid men would go out and not come back. All the time the wounded kept coming without enough men to take care of them. Finally they ran out of stretchers which meant we had to make some from trees and blankets."

Tells Entry into Paris.

Ray, 23, has been driving correspondents since the Normandy landings. He was one of the first into Paris, an experience he describes as follows:

"That's quite a town. I was under a jeep more often than driving that day. Everybody was shooting at everybody else. People who joke about Chicago being a gunman's town never got mixed with the French liberating themselves."

His parents live at 4131 W. 24th pl., Chicago. After leaving Farragut High school, he operated a lathe in a war plant in Cicero. He came into the army via the draft two years ago and has been overseas more than a year. The name of his jeep—painted in huge white letters across the front—is "The Chicago Kid."

Nazi Navy's Prinz Eugen Damaged, French Report

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—The German heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen has been damaged and taken to a German Baltic port, the Paris radio said today, quoting Swedish reports. The Russians recently reported damaging a German cruiser attempting to evacuate Nazis from Saare Island at the head of the Gulf of Riga.

Twin Force Also Returns from Bangkok.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER HDQ., Saipan, Nov. 27.—Bad bombing weather confronted a sizeable force of B-29 Super Fortresses today when they hit at industrial Tokyo for the second time in a little more than 72 hours. Results are not known, Col. Walter C. Sweeney Jr., leader of the mission, said tonight.

All the B-29s returned safely from the raid.

"There is no reason why they should not have fires in the area tonight."

See Only Two Jap Planes.

He said that only two enemy planes were sighted by his lead formation, but the Japanese pilots failed to engage the high flying bombers.

"There may have been more planes and there may have been some anti-aircraft fire, but we did not see the planes nor was flak observed," the colonel said. "The overcast was solid."

"We tried to pop it but could not find an opening," Col. Sweeney said. Beyond being able to see the accompanying plane on their right and the one on the left, the rest of the formation was hidden from view. The colonel said that on the return journey the weather was perfect. Col. Sweeney piloted the plane over much of the 3,200 mile trip.

Elgin Man in Crew.

Col. Sweeney's crew included 2d Lt. Raymond F. Stettner, Elgin, Ill.; Sgts. C. B. Robinson, Central City, Ia.; Henry M. Allen, Bloomington, Ill., and Corp. Robert J. Keller, Ferndale, Mich.

Bangkok Rail Shops Hit.

A B-29 BASE SOMEWHERE IN INDIA, Nov. 27 (AP).—Super Fortresses roared across the Bay of Bengal this morning to smash Bangkok, Thailand, heart of the enemy rail system radiating to Singapore, Burma, and Indo-China. All of them returned safely.

The substantial force took advantage of perfect weather to lay heavy loads of demolition bombs squarely on rail repair shops at the north end of the yards, warehouses at the south end of the yards, and intricate trackage between. Officially the results of the bombings were called excellent.

Returning crews said only a half dozen interceptors were seen, and these refused to press their attacks. Anti-aircraft fire was meager and ineffective. All planes returned safely.

Maj. Don Humphrey of Postville, Ia., said, "It was a picnic—just a picnic."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 27.—The bill of fare offered by Americans to German war prisoners was printed on page 1 of the Communist evening newspaper Ce Soir today. It read:

Breakfast, soup, coffee and cream, or cocoa, bread and butter. Lunch, corned beef, potatoes, carrots, beans, bread and butter. Dinner, carrot soup, corned beef, potatoes, bread and butter. Ce Soir said of the menu:

"We would be very annoyed with ourselves if we made the least comment. We may only say that we are touched by the solicitude with which German prisoners are treated."

PREMIER WARNS CANADA FACES ANARCHY PERIL

Quebec Chief Says He Won't Back Draft.

11th hour decision last week to abandon its historic voluntary policy and institute partial conscription for service overseas. The "methods" of the unrest fomentors will be "exposed" later, he said.

King quoted John A. MacDonald, the first premier under confederation, as saying in 1865 that the differences between Upper Canada and Lower Canada—the modern Ontario and Quebec—were so great that anarchy impended.

The house was hushed as King added that the same remarks were applicable today.

Offered Rule to Minister.

King said that early this month when Defense Minister J. L. Ralston resigned because he could not then persuade the government to abandon the voluntary system it had followed thruout the war, Ralston was asked whether he would take the responsibility of heading a government advocating conscription for overseas. Ralston replied that he could not, King added.

"Here I may say," King went on, "that from the outset I have been conscious that what has been a source of division in the cabinet was but a reflection of what was certain to be a source of division in this house of commons, and that, again, this house of commons would be reflecting a source of division in all parts of the country.

"That is what has made and still makes the present question the most serious one with which this parliament, I believe, has been faced at any time."

Urge Total Draft.

At the conclusion of King's speech, representatives of the Progressive Conservative and the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation parties advocated total conscription for overseas service.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, also urged that King's reference to "anarchy" be expunged from the record as it was likely to be misunderstood.

Graydon moved an amendment to the government confidence motion, asking that the house declare the government had failed to obtain reenforcements in sufficient number by not making all the 60,000 draftee effectives available for overseas service and had failed to secure equality of service and sacrifice.

M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, moved a further amendment, asking that all distinction between drafted and volunteer personnel in the army be removed and that there be total conscription of resources, financial and material, as well as human.

Maj. C. J. Power, speaking on his recent resignation as air minister in protest against the new policy of conscription for overseas duty, told the house that altho Gen. Eisenhower's strategy required replacement of casualties within 24 hours, "neither ultimate victory nor national honor requires that Canadian troops should be in action every hour or every day."

Active service troops, sailors, and civilians broke up an anti-conscription parade of about 100 drafted home defense troops tonight before the demonstrators could reach Parliament hill. The marchers were challenged by two sailors and a soldier, who scuffled with them when the paraders declined invitations to "step out and fight." The crowd broke up when city, army, and naval police arrived.

AMERICANS BLOW UP AIR BASE AT NANNING; SEVENTH TO BE LOST

KUNMING, China, Nov. 19 (Delayed)—(AP).—The Nanning fighter base, the seventh air field to be lost by the United States 14th air force as a result of the defeat of China's southeastern armies, was evacuated and blown up today.

As with the four major bases at Hengyang, Lingling, Kweilin, and Liuchow and the lesser fields at Paoking and Tanchuk, the 14th sustained operations at Nanning until the air raid warning net was so constricted the field could not be properly defended by its own fighters, and the base lay vulnerable to the Japanese.

Twelve transports from the India-China air transport command sufficed to bring out 100 persons and 75,000 pounds of cargo. So rugged was the weather some of the transports failed to reach Nanning.

LEYTE'S HEROES SWAP TALES OF BIGGER HEROES

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 24TH DIVISION, Leyte, P. I., Nov. 27.—Infantry men just back from patroling deep into the Ormoc hills today sat around in their tents, dried their moldy feet, and told combat tales. Listen:

Harold Jerin, 2030 21st pl., Chicago, is talking. "We thought that Filipino was kidding when he told us lots of Japs were resting in his village, but we surrounded it and caught them in the shacks and killed them all before they could fire a shot—33 of 'em. And then later we caught 14 more napping in a ravine and killed them too."

"Those Japs are sure stupid," said Joe Druse, East St. Louis, Ill. "Some Japs were crossing a gully in front of my foxhole, and I knocked them off like ducks in a shooting gallery. One would fall over, and another one would step over him. There must have been 14 of them."

30 Japs in 3 Days.

L. William Hanks, Albuquerque, N. M., said Druse was their champion Jap killer. In three days he killed 30 Japs without moving from his hole.

Hanks told how one day he was walking down a jungle trail when he heard a scream. He looked over his shoulder and saw a Jap charging him with a bayonet. Hanks had time to fire three times, and the Jap fell dead at his feet.

That brought up the Jap practice of talking to themselves during an attack. Four hundred of them charged a hilltop at dawn, but every Yank was alert because the attackers screamed so much. Sgt. Wesley Greer, Fort Gibson, Okla., said he just lay in his hole and rolled grenades down the hill.

"Not Heroic—Necessary."

Somebody said William Pehlke of 3621 N. Sacramento av., Chicago, is so good at spotting Japs he must be able to smell them. Pehlke just smiled modestly and said his cousin, Leona, is a Tribune secretary. For a real hero, he recommended Sgt. Jesse Underwood, Fort Taylor, Ky., who took a squad three-quarters of a mile thru Jap firing lines to get food. The trip took six hours. "We were sort of hungry," he explained.

He said that was nothing heroic, just necessary. James Gilgen, 1402 E. 65th pl., Chicago, he maintained, is a real hero. The Japs dropped artillery on a patrol, hitting the last man, so Gilgen went back thru heavy fire to get him out.

YANK, BRITISH GIRL TO BE PUT ON TRIAL FOR LIVES

FELTHAM, Middlesex, England, Nov. 27 (AP).—Pvt. Karl G. Hulten, Cambridge, Mass., an American paratrooper, and Elizabeth Jones, English striptease dancer, were ordered held for trial on a charge of murder in the slaying of George Heath, a taxicab driver, in a robbery, after a hearing today before four magistrates here.

Both pleaded not guilty and were remanded until Dec. 6, when they will be committed for trial to the Old Bailey.

The 18 year old blonde dancer sat by Hulten in the dock as the prosecution demanded that the couple be charged with murder. Conviction of murder would automatically carry the death penalty.

AMERICANS AND BRITISH ORDERED FROM KWEICHOW

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—All American and British nationals in Kweichow province and the unoccupied portions of Hunan province were ordered to leave as two Japanese forces surged today toward Kweiyang, capital of Kweichow.

A Chinese bulletin said the Japanese westward drive from Liuchow had toppled Hochih and that the invaders were less than 140 miles southeast of Kweiyang. Another enemy column was headed toward Kweichow from Paoching in Hunan province.

Missionaries, Red Cross workers, and representatives of various civilian agencies were affected by the notification, which gave them ample time to escape.

NELSON PLANS TO LIFT CHINA'S OUTPUT 100 PCT.

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 27 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson said today his goal was to double China's war production within the next six months. The former chairman of the United States war production board, who arrived here on Nov. 16, said he had not struck a snag so far.

Five steel men and an alcohol expert who came here with Nelson returned to Chungking today after an initial survey in which they found that Chinese steel plants were working only one shift six days a week. They declared production could be increased substantially.

Process Cuts Wool Sock Shrinkage to 5 Per Cent

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—The bureau of standards reported today that a new process has reduced the shrinkage of wool socks issued to the army to about 5 per cent, in contrast to about 20 or 25 per cent for untreated socks. The process, involving calcium hypochlorite, also makes the socks last 60 per cent longer.

REVEALS FRENCH PAID 17 BILLIONS TO NAZIS IN 4 YRS.

BY ROBERT SAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 27.—Four years of German occupation have cost France 860 billion francs, or 17 billion, 200 million dollars.

The exact amount of money which France paid Germany was disclosed for the first time in a speech by Rene Pleven, finance minister, during a liberation loan drive at Nantes.

Reviewing the country's financial situation, the minister said France's global debt now stands at 33 billion dollars. He admitted France had become a poor country, but emphasized it was not the only country impoverished by the war.

According to his figures, the French debt is only one-sixth that of the United States, and slightly more than 42 per cent of that of Great Britain.

Debt Entirely Internal.

He also pointed out that France's debt is entirely internal and national, the country financing the war without any external debt, thus avoiding the thorny problems raised by exchange, foreign currency, and gold transfers. Of France's total expenditure of 33 billion dollars between Sept. 1, 1939, and Sept. 1, 1944, he said one-third was covered by taxes, and the rest by treasury bonds, and advances from the Bank of France.

The total debt, Pleven said, represents an increase of 360 per cent over 1939. He added that due to lower interest rates the annual cost to the government was around 35 billion francs—in other words, an increase of 75 per cent over the 1938 figure. [A franc is worth about 2 cents.]

A Two Point Remedy.

Pleven said there still existed six billion francs in bank notes which had to be wiped out.

He gave two points for remedying the present situation: Confiscate illegal profits by forcing black marketeers to refund "stolen money" to the people, and insure the success demanded by Gen. De Gaulle for the liberation loan by taking up the slack in money circulation.

Find Body in Bay

[Acme Photo.]

Lt. William K. Tralle and his wife, Maurene, of St. Paul, Minn.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 27 [Special].—Police said today that a body found floating under a pier in Los Angeles harbor has been identified as that of Navy Lt. William K. Tralle, 36, missing since his cabin aboard a Liberty ship was found empty and blood smeared on Nov. 18.

Police Capt. Roscoe Sowell said the body has been sent to the county morgue for an autopsy to determine the cause of death. The body was found a few feet from the place where the ship had been anchored on the night of the disappearance, Capt. Sowell said. Tralle was in command of a navy gun crew aboard the ship.

Tralle spent the night before his disappearance with his wife, Maurene, and their 7 month old daughter at Palms. It was his first leave in seven months at sea. He returned to the ship the morning of Nov. 17 after spending less than a day with his family.

HUNGRY GREEKS PAY BILLIONS TO EAT SPARROWS

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Nov. 25 [Delayed].—Greece is a grim example of what unchecked inflation can do to a country. A housewife in Athens must lug a shopping bag full of currency when she sets out for the day's marketing. A ragged, withered beggar sitting on the curb counting a roll of several hundred bills is as common a sight as a business man paying over a sheaf of currency one-half inch thick—50 million drachmas—for one cigaret.

Before the Germans came in the spring of 1941, the drachma was quoted at 150 to the dollar. But since, under the impetus of starvation, hopelessness, and a Quisling government far more interested in German good will than in the fate of its own people, the drachma has dropped steadily. In late 1941, it was 615 to the dollar; in 1942, 7,000 to the dollar, and in 1943, 26,000 to the dollar.

Dam Breaks in 1944.

The dam broke early in 1944. First the drachma was 1 million to the dollar, then 10 million, then 20 million. Finally it slipped so fast quotations could not keep up with it.

Its dive can be followed from the dates on currency issued last summer. The 500,000 drachma bill came out March 20, the million drachma bill June 29, the 5 million bill July 20, the 10 million bill July 29, and the 50 million drachma note Aug. 10.

On Nov. 11 this year, the day the Premier Papandreou government put in effect the stablization decree thru which it hopes to solve the situation, the drachma was quoted at 7½ trillion to the dollar.

Trillions for Eggs.

That day the food market more closely resembled a currency exchange, with wads of bills almost burying what foodstuffs were for sale. One lemon cost 300 billion drachmas. Potatoes were 2 trillion an oka [2¾ pounds]. Black bread cost 1 trillion, and salmon 2 trillion a can. Eggs cost 1½ trillions each. Hamburger had skyrocketed to 15 trillion an oka, and an aged stewing hen cost 16 trillion. Canaries and sparrows, eaten in desperation by the hungry Greeks, brought 4 billion drachmas each.

The Nov. 11 stabilization decree brought into being a new drachma, which eventually will replace the old one. Each new drachma is worth 50 billion of the old issue. One hundred and fifty of the new drachmas are equal to a dollar, and 600 are equivalent to the British occupation pound now circulating in Greece. Backing the new currency is 43 million British pounds' worth of gold, dollars, and foreign credit in English and American banks.

What the Future Holds.

Undersecretary of Finance Angelopoulos, former economics professor at Athens university, attempted to tell what the future may hold.

"Greece's international debt, amounting to approximately 80 million pounds, is not affected by the inflation, because it is in British pounds, not in drachmas," he said. "England is the largest holder of this debt. Somehow we hope to be able to pay this.

"The government's internal debt of 15 billion drachmas, mostly in bonds held by Greek citizens, is wiped out by the inflation and the issuance of new currency. This debt is in the old drachmas, and 15 billion of them are worth nothing, so we will wipe it off the books.

"Greece had approximately 22 billion drachmas in savings deposits in its banks when inflation struck, and it is our hope to be able to take care of small investors who have lost all. Larger investors probably will find their accounts worthless."

Aid Small Investors.

Angelopoulos said the government had evolved an unusual plan whereby small investors will be aided. A recent decree states that any Greek who is wealthier now than before the war will have this additional wealth taken from him. It is estimated that 1,500 Greeks gained considerable wealth thru black market operations or collaboration with the invaders.

Another decree provides that no one in Greece may earn more than the premier, who receives 25,000 of the new drachmas monthly. Greeks receiving more must turn it over to the government. It is hoped that income from these various forms of taxation will enable the government, among other things, to allow some compensation to the small savings depositors who lost everything when the old drachma tobogganed to worthlessness.

6,000,000 DRACHMAS IN STAMPS CARRY ONE GREEK POSTCARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 27.—It cost Ignatius Papadopoulos, Greek business man, six million drachmas—approximately $50,000 at the pre-war rate of exchange—to send a postcard from Athens to his brother in Wales.

The recipient, the Rev. Thomas Papadopoulos, vicar of a Greek Orthodox church at Cardiff, disclosed today the postcard bore stamps issued by the Germans and picturing windmills on the Greek island of Mykonos. The sender told his brother, "We suffered much, but never lost hope and courage for resistance."

The postcard is said to be the first received in Britain from liberated Greece.

YANKORCHESTRA TUNES UP WITH FOE JUST AHEAD

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Nov. 27.—A building on the road to Weisweiler from Eschweiler was a bomb battered hulk that trembled as 155 mm. howitzer fired their volleys. A few hundred yards ahead were German soldiers. But from the ruins came music—the notes of "Night and Day," "Star Dust," "Time on My Hands."

After crawling over the rubble into a room with a crazily slanting floor, one came upon a little piece of America—bearded doughboys with knit caps, combat sweaters, and mud caked pants. Some were cleaning their rifles, others were packing ammunition into boxes, and still others jigged around the room, grinning and singing.

At a piano was Pvt. Josephas Lancaster, Gainsville, Ga. Pvt. Ralph A. Dunn, Killeen, Tex., played a guitar, and Pvt. Mack Chavez, Springville, Ariz., an accordion. All the instruments had been found in the house. They played "The Cowboy's Lament," and "The Lone Prairie," and love songs. "If we only had some girls to dance with, this would be pretty swell," some one said as the building rocked from a nearby explosion.

DETROIT POLICE SEIZE 12 IN GAS COUPON RACKET

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27 [Special].—Gasoline in unlimited quantities at 60 cents a gallon and without coupons has been available here for two months thru the activities of a gang of men and women coupon thieves who have conducted holdups and robberies thruout southeastern Michigan, police said today.

Acting with the office of price administration, police seized nine men and held them for federal action. Three women also were arrested but were released later.

Among those arrested was Martin Eisner, 35, proprietor of a filling station at Woodward av. and Vernor highway, where police said more than 40,000 gallons of gasoline had been sold without coupons to a "select list" of customers.

William Booker of 4334 Oregon av., one of those held, was described by police as the leader of the robbers. He pleaded guilty in federal court several weeks ago to stealing a quantity of gasoline coupons from a truck near Lansing and had been at liberty on bond pending sentence.

RUSSIANS CROSS CARPATHIANS IN 6 MILE ADVANCE

LONDON, Nov. 28 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Russian troops in a new six mile penetration of northern Slovakia yesterday crossed the 2,700 foot Carpathian mountains along the Polish frontier, Moscow announced last night. Other units in the south struck to within 11 miles of the North Hungarian rail center of Satoraljaujhely.

Advancing thru 50 more hamlets in Slovakia, the 4th Ukraine army widened its front to 75 miles from a point west of the Dukla pass in the north down to the Hungarian frontier.

The fresh strike from the north further imperiled the enemy strongholds of Presov and Kassa [Kosice]. These towns already are threatened by central columns 25 miles to the east.

Gain on 12 Mile Front.

Six miles southwest of Dukla pass a soviet group took Dolhona, two miles inside Slovakia. At the other side of the pass the Russians captured two towns seven miles northeast of Stropkov junction.

Following Sunday's seizure of Humenne and Michalovce, in the middle sector of a railroad running across Czechoslovakia, the Russians cleared considerable sections of that artery.

Capture Two Stations.

North of Humenne they captured two stations, cleaning up a nine mile section of the road and leaving only a five mile stretch in enemy hands. When that section is cleared Russian troops will have thru communications to their bases in southern Poland.

Seven miles south of Humenne another column took a town on the highway to Michalovce, and were close to cutting the near-by railway between those two strongholds.

Moscow did not announce any gains on the Hungarian front. Berlin said fighting had slackened around Budapest.

POLISH LEADERS SEE CABINET CRISIS ENDING

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—Leaders of the Polish Socialist party tonight said they believed they had reached a solution to the crisis in the exiled London government caused by the Peasant party's secession from the coalition.

Party leaders, at the conclusion of a caucus following a day of conferences, issued this statement: "We believe we have attained a solution to end the crisis tomorrow." The statement did not say whether the Socialists have succeeded in bringing the resigned premier, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, back into the government or whether Premier-designate Jan Kwapinski had succeeded in forming a cabinet of his own.

The inference was that Mikolajczyk may rejoin the government. If he did, it probably would mark a victory for him in his stand to end the Russian-Polish dispute by agreement to Moscow demands to settle frontier problems now.

Sbarbaro in Superior court yesterday to pay temporary alimony and support of $45 a week to his estranged wife, Josephine, 38, of 914 Michigan av., Evanston. The support is for her daughter, Barbara, 6. Boake also was ordered to pay $110 a month rent for his wife's apartment, and $200 attorney's fees. In a suit for separate maintenance, she charges he deserted her Oct. 14 and was cruel. They were married Aug. 20, 1932, and have another child, Robert, 9, in school in Arizona.

STOUT WOMEN IN BRITAIN GET A CORSET BREAK

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—Britain's stout women are going to get a break, but the government isn't stretching a point to grant it. The board of trade announced tonight that all restrictions on corset styles, with the exception of that limiting the use of rubber, would end on Dec. 7. This means the lid's off on the use of metal, cloth, lace, and trimmings. The concessions were made possible, the announcement said, by improvement in steel stocks and increased capacity in the corset accessory industry.

APPOINT SFORZA FOREIGN CHIEF, ITALIANS URGE

ROME, Nov. 27 (AP).—Leaders of six Italian political parties making up the committee of national liberation held two more meetings today. They failed to find a solution to the Italian government crisis caused by yesterday's resignation of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi and his cabinet.

At the end of the first meeting the parties were understood to have sent a delegation to inform Bonomi that they considered him unable to settle the crisis as premier of a new cabinet unless the ministry of foreign affairs were given to Count Sforza. Bonomi held this ministry as well as the ministry of the interior in the former cabinet.

The party leaders were understood to have reached no agreement on the ministries of the interior, war, and treasury. The latter ministry has been under attack by the Communists and Socialists on the ground that the purge of Fascists had proceeded too slowly there. Crown Prince Umberto, lieutenant general of the realm, continued to confer with party leaders.

ALLIES CLOSING PINCERS ON PO VALLEY TOWN

ROME, Nov. 27 (AP).—Eighth army forces were closing a pincers tonight on the Po valley highway junction of Faenza, 30 miles southeast of Bologna.

British troops edging in from the east were only the width of the Lamone river from the outskirts of the town. The enemy has destroyed both bridges over the stream. To the south British forces broke out of their bridgehead over the Marzena river, captured the village of Belvedere and drove up to the Lamone river, just three miles southwest of Faenza, threatening to flank the town.

A few miles northeast of Faenza still other British troops occupied Scaldino and reached Alberto, between the Lamone and Montone rivers, after crossing the Montone.

On the muddy American 5th army front there again were patrol clashes only.

ARMY HUSTLES OFF A LADY AND 16 GENTLEMEN

Secrecy Hides War Tour by House Committee.

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP).—The whereabouts of the battlefront bound house military committee was covered by security-induced secrecy today. The army figuratively crossed its fingers in the hope all would go well during the first official congressional inspection of the European war scene.

The 16 gentlemen of the house and Rep. Luce [R., Conn.] were hustled off during the night under army leadership—presumably bound for an inspection of Britain's defense installations, air bases, and camps where the invasion was marshaled.

Before they left there were hints that Mrs. Luce's personality and her penchant for turning a neat phrase were attracting as much attention as the mission itself.

Deny Silence Ban.

"Not," confided one member of the party, "that we object to a freshman [Mrs. Luce is serving her first term, tho she has been elected to a second] drawing the limelight, but some of us think that a day by day account of what we find out should be sent back to the American people. The army should permit a representative of the press to go along with us."

Army spokesmen denied they had imposed a ban of silence on Mrs. Luce or any one else in the party just so long as any statements they might make remained within the bounds of military security.

Mrs. Luce was absent from the committee's first press conference yesterday, but Acting Chairman Merritt [D., N. Y.] called "ridiculous" a suggestion that the army was holding her incommunicado.

Merritt "Protests."

Merritt at first announced "a gentlemen's agreement among the committee to let all statements emerge thru an official spokesman." A contingent of women reporters from the British press helped him change that decision. They said—in no uncertain terms—that they wanted to talk with Mrs. Luce.

Merritt threw up his arms, protesting: "I'm not the keeper for members of the committee. See any of them you want. Ask 'em what you want. Tell 'em Merritt said it was all right."

It is probable the committee's first stop will be a big air base from which American bombers roared out in force today.

The committee plans a number of investigations abroad, among them the reported shell and cigaret shortage, morale of the soldiers in the field, value of compulsory military training, and hospitalization for the wounded.

ARABIC MEETING CHARGES BRITISH WITH BETRAYAL

New York, Nov. 27 [Special].—Principles of the Atlantic Charter are being ignored in Palestine, Americans of Arabic origin charged today in a telegram to President Roosevelt.

About 150 delegates to the American Arabic convention here authorized the protest after speakers attributed the explosive situation in Palestine to British "betrayal" of the Arabs in ruling Palestine under mandate.

Faris S. Malouf, Boston, attorney, who called the convention to win support for the Arab side of the "Palestine question," said that England should be required to live up to the terms of its 1939 "white paper" on Palestine policy, which called for restricted immigation and promised eventual independence.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question used by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. T. C. Methvin, Dexter, Ga.]

THE QUESTION.

Did any man ever tell you that he couldn't live without you? What happened to him?

WHERE ASKED.

Boulevard Models studio, 6 N. Michigan av.

THE ANSWERS.

Caryl Norman, bookkeeper, 1923 Newcastle av.—We decided we were both too young to marry so he said he'd call me 10 years from now. He joined the marines and I'm seeing some of the world, too. I suppose in 10 years he'll discover that he's been living without me. He may even forget to call.

Dorothy Taylor, receptionist, 5042 Eddy st.—After I said, "No," he moped around for weeks, then joined the navy to get away from it all. Just before he was shipped out he met a girl, knew her for three days and married her. I think he did it just to show me that somebody wanted him—or maybe he loves the girl.

Betty Jane Sachaschik, telephone operator, 10047 Sangamon st.—About six months after he proposed to me he married his old girl friend. I see him once in a while and he seems very much alive and happy. His world didn't cease to exist merely because he had to give me up.

Phyllis Brooks, receptionist, 2910 Natoma av.—I was only 16 and believed everything he said. He told me he loved me more than anyone else in the world and couldn't live without me. Then he went back to the girl to whom he had said the same thing. He was quite an actor.

Tillie Rekiel, secretary, 4108 Newport av.—This character I met at a dance. He told me it was love at first sight and that I was supposed to expect a call from him the next night. However, the phone didn't ring the following night or the nights following. In fact, I never heard from him again.

Virginia Grugel, clerk, 1138 N. Lawndale av.—In all seriousness a man told me he couldn't and wouldn't live without me. He said he had three bullets ready if I said "No"—one for me, one for him, and one for the man I married. He's been engaged to four other girls since, and has forgotten about me.

Resignation of Ickes Is Demanded in House

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—The resignation of Interior Secretary Ickes in the interest of the "unity of the nation" was demanded in the house today by Rep. Gross [R., Pa.]. Gross said Ickes, in a recent speech before a CIO convention in Chicago, "proved that he constitutes a definite threat to the unity of the nation and consequently the well-being of the world." Ickes in the speech, made shortly after the election, denounced the Republican party and its followers.

pelled, by popular indignation, to repudiate a statement in his lend-lease report to congress that the allies would not be expected to pay for materials they had received under lend-lease. The report had been signed for the President by Mr. Stettinius. Last week in his latest lend-lease report the President reiterated the statement.

In 1943, Mr. Roosevelt appointed Mr. Stettinius undersecretary of state as successor to Welles who had been forced out by friction with Mr. Hull. Mr. Stettinius early this year headed the American mission to London to discuss plans for the treatment of Germany and other questions incidental to the termination of the war. Then in the summer, he was appointed chairman of the American delegation to the Dumbarton Oaks conference and represented Mr. Hull in the peace plan negotiations. As secretary of state he will be in full charge of the succeeding negotiations to complete the plan, a gap in which was left by Russian Dictator Stalin's insistence on the power of vetoing action by the league against a nation deemed an aggressor.

Mr. Stettinius, who was chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation at 37, was born in Chicago, the son of the late E. R. Stettinius, a partner of the House of Morgan. He married Virginia Wallace of Richmond. They have 3 sons, including twins.

White Haired Boy.

Today isn't the first time that Stettinius has earned the monicker of white haired boy. Husky and energetic, Stettinius got the white haired tag for his amazing leaps across the upper peaks of business and government rather than for his prematurely silvery crown.

"Stet," as his colleagues call him, considers himself primarily a business man, and that's the way he has worked in the state department. But he has never forgotten his feeling that he has a social mission. Before he ever went into the world of Wall street, he wanted to be a preacher.

When he was attending the University of Virginia he used to go out in the back woods to bring enlightenment to hillbillys. Another way he thought up to carry out his social urge was to found a one man employment agency for his fellow students.

Scooting about Charlottesville in his rattle trap car [his parents drove to see him in a Rolls-Royce], he made such a success of the venture that it came to the attention of John Lee Pratt, then a vice president of General Motors. Pratt talked him out of the ministry and into a job as stock room attendant at the Hyatt Roller Bearing works. The pay was 44 cents an hour.

Born in Chicago.

Three years later Stettinius became Pratt's assistant and not long afterwards became vice president of General Motors.

Stettinius was born in Chicago, but moved to Staten Island at an early age and went to school near-by and then to the University of Virginia, where he never graduated because he decided he could learn more by going off on a trip to Europe and seeing things for himself.

The President announced acceptance of Hull's resignation at a hurriedly called special press conference this afternoon. He said it was with deep regret he had finally acquiesced in Mr. Hull's desire to retire. The secretary and his physicians, Mr. Roosevelt explained, felt that his complete recovery would be retarded by the continuance of heavy responsibilities at the state department. The President said he himself had suffered from the same sort of throat affection a couple of years ago.

Mr. Roosevelt said Mr. Hull will be in and about Washington for a long time to come and will act as an adviser to the President on foreign policy, particularly in connection with political questions incidental to the termination of the war and the development of the Dumbarton Oaks plan for a post-war international organization to enfore peace.

In his resignation, dated Nov. 21, Mr. Hull said it is "a supreme tragedy to me personally that I am unable to continue making my full contribution to such great international undertakings as the creation of the post-war organization."

Mr. Roosevelt, accepting the resignation, replied the same day, saying it had been very sad for him even to contemplate the ending of their close relationship."

The President pressed Mr. Hull to postpone the effective date of his resignation until Jan. 20, when Mr. Roosevelt starts his fourth term. In the intervening week, however, Hull and his doctors decided that his physical condition demands that he divest himself immediately of all official responsibilities. The President reluctantly agreed.

Served 12 Years.

Mr. Hull has served nearly 12 years as secretary of state, longer than any of his predecessors. His tenure began inauspiciously when the President in 1933 torpedoed the world economic conference in London to which Mr. Hull had gone as chairman of the American delegation. Mr. Hull was chagrined by the abrupt reversal of policy by the President but stuck to his post, as he was particularly interested in developing a reduction of the tariff by reciprocal international agreements. By such means, between 1934 and 1939, when the war stymied him, Mr. Hull carried out a one man revision of the tariff downward comparable to any undertaken by congress.

In the decade leading up to the second World war Mr. Hull was an unyielding foe of aggressions by Germany, Italy, and Japan and held from the start that the United States must fight, if necessary, to end such aggressions in both hemispheres.

The crowning achievement of his career is the Dumbarton Oaks world peace plan, for which he paved the way by adopting principles of the Republican declaration at Mackinac Island in 1943 and by obtaining an Anglo-American-Russian indorsement at the Moscow conference a few months later, and the adoption of the Connally resolution by the senate with only 5 votes against it.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 27 (AP).—A Ford Motor company spokesman said tonight a strike of 2,637 employes in the Rouge plant made more than 7,000 workers idle, closed the production and magnesium foundries, and hampered production in the new steel foundry and machine shop.

The strikes, precipitated by a dispute over working schedules, began in the production foundry when 20 millwrights left their jobs. The others walked out in sympathy.

W. G. Grant, president of local 600, CIO United Automobile Workers, who said the strike was unauthorized, urged the men to return.

FOX TROT...

The Fox Trot started in America but went to Europe for popularity and a name. But, just where in Europe it was named, is a moot question . . .

In England, after the chase, or fox hunt, hunters customarily attend a small dance. At one of these dances, the quick, small steps of the current dance were compared with the fast, trotting steps of the fox. Some folks say in this way the Fox Trot was named . . . English version.

The French have a word . . . "faux pas." Among other things it is a name for the "catch" step necessary to get back in step while marching. In France, the quick, small steps of the dance were compared to those of the "faux pas." Faux changed to fox, hence Fox Trot . . . French version.

Finally, the Fox Trot came home . . . fully endorsed, fully named . . . about 1910. By 1915, it was popular everywhere, and is the most popular dance in America today.

Fox Trot routines are always changing . . . new steps added . . . old ones taken out. For expert instruction in the latest steps, stop at the Dale Dance Studios. A free, trial lesson will show how easy they are to learn—and a personal interview will reveal the moderate cost! Stop in today.

F. D. R. MAJORITY IN STATE SET AT 150,807 VOTES

Green's Official Lead in Canvass 72,339.

The majority given President Roosevelt over Gov. Dewey in Illinois Nov. 7 was placed officially at 150,807 yesterday when the Cook county canvass was completed and combined with downstate returns. Gov. Green's lead over State's Atty. Courtney, which had appeared unofficially as 64,000, was determined to be 72,339.

The official figures showed that the President's gain over his 1940 plurality of 102,000 and the governor's loss from the 256,000 lead he had that year were due to heavier voting in Cook county and much lighter voting downstate. The canvassed figures showed the two major parties this year cast 2,189,384 ballots for President in Cook county and 1,818,767 downstate. Four years ago the comparable totals were 2,106,595 in Cook county and 2,090,579 in the rest of the state.

Dewey Loses Here by 361,350.

Cook county gave Roosevelt 1,275,367 votes and Dewey, 914,017. The President's official plurality was 361,350, which was 7,801 more than shown on the unofficial tally the day after election, when 20 precincts were missing.

The canvass, which is not a recount but only a more careful tally than is possible election night, cost Dewey 5,190 votes, most of them in Chicago. Roosevelt gained 1,209 in the city and 1,402 in the country towns.

Chicago gave Roosevelt 1,122,546 and Dewey, 704,710; the country towns gave Roosevelt 152,821 and Dewey, 209,307. The vote downstate was: Roosevelt, 804,112; Dewey, 1,014,655. Dewey's downstate plurality was 210,543.

Cook County Lost by Green.

Gov. Green, who won Cook county four years ago, lost it by 190,926, but he rolled up a majority over Courtney downstate of 263,265. Sen. Lucas defeated Richard J. Lyons by 217,230 in the entire state, with a Cook county plurality of 361,115.

Lyons was the only Republican besides Dewey who lost votes in the county canvass. He dropped 2,361 under the unofficial count. Lt. Gov. Cross gained 16,585, while his Democratic opponent, Edward C. Hunter, picked up 12,270. Conrad F. Becker, Republican nominee for state treasurer, gained 14,172 and Earl F. Merritt, Democrat, gained 12,247.

G. O. P. Wins Downstate.

Gov. Green, Cross, Becker, and all other Republican candidates for state offices, except Arnold Benson, running for secretary of state, were elected by polling enough votes downstate to overcome Democratic strength in Cook county.

Voting in Cook county reached a new high total this year, with 82,789 more votes cast for President by the two major parties than in 1940.

Old Friends Meet Again

Has Flying Cross

Capt. William E. Hartnett, 24, veteran of 58 combat missions over Europe, was a visitor yesterday at the office of William J. Tuohy, state's attorney-elect, with his wife, the former Betty McNally, 24, of Lake Geneva, Wis. The flyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hartnett of 4101 Washington blvd. Capt. Hartnett, who wears the distinguished flying cross and the air medal with 12 oak leaf clusters, is commander of a pursuit squadron at Barksdale field, La.

U. S. 'SURRENDER' TO STALIN HIT BY MISS SUMNER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—In her first post-election speech, Rep. Sumner [R., Ill.] today lashed at the New Deal's desertion of Poland as an invitation to future wars "by showing that war still is profitable."

Rep. Jessie Sumner.

By surrendering to Stalin and not protesting the resignation last week in London of Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, Polish premier in exile, the Roosevelt administration has encouraged the theory that victors may emerge from a war "enriched by power or territory taken from innocent peoples," Rep. Sumner asserted.

She said that with the Atlantic Charter now "a last year's bird's nest, apparently never intended for anything but temporary shelter," the only hope for Poland and other small peoples lies in the "tried and proven principles of national security propounded by Washington and Jefferson and often referred to contemptuously as 'isolationism.'"

"Principles Live," House Told.

"It may help to let it be known that these principles are not so dead as the propaganda insists," she told the house. "They still live. They may rise again, tho at present, unfortunately for mankind, they are suppressed in what might be called our comatose republic.

"We know that the proposed international 'peace' organization is designated for the purpose of committing America to fight in every war hereafter. Even without such an organization, we shall probably be in every war because England usually is in every war, and since 1914 America has acquired the habit of guaranteeing the British empire.

Election Stand Cited.

"The American people have been given no opportunity to demonstrate that they believe these self-evident truths. In the last two Presidential elections they were skilfully deprived of any chance to vote away the New Deal's pernicious foreign policy.

"It was hard for people to believe that a Republican victory in 1944 might relieve our country of the hated New Deal foreign policy, since the Republican Presidential candidate himself repeatedly and vehemently denied it."

WARN BUSINESS OF COMPULSORY INSURANCE PERIL

New York, Nov. 27 (AP).—Voluntary group insurance in business and industry was described today as a preventive of government medicine and compulsory insurance by speakers at a conference sponsored by the national physicians' committee for the extension of medical care.

Dr. Louis M. Bauer of Hempstead, N. Y., vice president of the American Medical association, said voluntary group insurance was "one of the answers we must provide to prevent legislation calling for compulsory insurance."

Another speaker, Dr. Claude Robinson, president of the Opinion Research committee, asserted "government medicine will remain as dead as a dodo" as long as provision was made for medical care which met public opinion and maintained medical principles. Such insurance was called a "must" for American business and industry in a report on a committee sponsored survey of group insurance programs and employer-employe opinions.

2 Term Limit Proposed for Presidential Tenure

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—A constitutional amendment limiting the President's tenure of office to two terms was proposed today in the house by Rep. Gillie [R., Ind.]. Sen. Willis [R., Ind.] is expected to present it to the senate tomorrow.

LYONS OFFERED REAPPOINTMENT TO REVENUE JOB

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 27 [Special].—Gov. Green today disclosed he would reappoint Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville as deputy director of the state revenue department if Lyons wished the job. Lyons resigned to campaign unsuccessfully for United States senator.

In other announcements the governor said:

1. His administration plans no tax increases and he is "considering" proposals to reduce the sales tax and to eliminate levies on food.

2. A simplified war time inauguration of state officers on Jan. 8 will eliminate the executive mansion reception and the inaugural ball.

House Votes to Retain Gen. Marshall in Army

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—Legislation permitting Gen. Marshall to remain on the active officer list after he becomes 64 years old next month was passed today by the house and sent to the senate.

BEVERIDGE OF BRITAIN SEES PEACE BRINGING NEW IDEAS OF LIBERTY

OXFORD, England, Nov. 27 (AP).—Conceptions of individual liberty and national sovereignty must change with the return of peace, William Beveridge, Britain's foremost social planner, said today.

Sovereignty in its old sense, whereby every nation asserted the absolute right to make war or peace or to prepare for war, must give way to "sovereign equality of peace loving nations," he said in an address to the Oxford University Liberal club.

"Sovereign equality in an ordered world must mean sovereignty under law, as freedom of citizens in an ordered community means sovereignty under law," Beveridge added. That would mean complete independence of each nation in its internal affairs, but the "impartial determination of all disputes between nations enforced with certainty," he stated.

PET MILK TRUCK FIRE BRINGS END TO PAY DISPUTE

Insurance company and Wisconsin officials last night were investigating the fire which destroyed a garage and 19 trucks and machinery Friday night in the bottling and pasteurizing plant at the North Prairie, Wis., plant of the Pet Milk company.

John Randtag, manager of the company plant at Arlington Heights, estimated the loss at $75,000, and said the fire ended the wage controversies the company has had for the last 18 months with the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers union, which attempted last week to negotiate an increase ranging from $70 to $120 a week. Six weeks ago the North Prairie plant was shut down when the drivers struck.

"The fire ends the argument now because the trucks cannot be replaced," Randtag said. Thomas J. Haggerty, secretary of the union, said the plant had been paying $50 weekly for 60 hours, and the contract called for $53 for 48 hours plus commissions. The company would not pay the commissions," he said.

Marvin Pulver, 2, of Mason, Mich., who was flown to Chicago last week by chartered plane to enter Children's Memorial hospital for the removal of a toy plastic machine gunner from his esophagus, soon will be going home with his mother, Mrs. H. S. Pulver, his physician said yesterday.

The child sat up to pose for photographers, after recovering from infection resulting from the obstruction, a "prize" in a box of confection.

The hospital is the only one in the nation with a bronchoscopy department exclusively for children. The largest article removed by endoscopic specialists at Children's Memorial was a round clothespin slightly larger than a quarter. Marvin's toy measured two by two and a quarter centimeters.

CHARGES ALBANY OFFICIAL AIDED IN CROOKED POOL

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 27 [Special]—Special Prosecutor George P. Monaghan, who is investigating alleged corruption in Democratic controled Albany county, today charged that Mrs. Elizabeth Pinckney, Albany county commissioner of jurors, had been active in promoting the "crooked baseball pool" which flourished in this area in 1929.

Monaghan's charges were contained in an affidavit which he presented to Supreme Court Justice Parton Swift asking that the trials of a group of indicted persons be taken from Albany. Monaghan previously had charged that the juries in Albany were "packed" an accused Mrs. Pinckney, a member of Democratic Boss Dan O'Connell's Albany machine, of rigging the lists.

Monaghan, on Nov. 8, filed an affidavit by Timothy J. Sullivan, executive officer of the alcohol control board, who said he had seen Mrs. Pinckney marking lists of prospective jurors to indicate the political party to which they belonged. Mrs. Pinckney denied the accusations in the Sullivan affidavit. In his attack today on the creditability of her denial, the prosecutor accused her of connection with the 1929 baseball pool which he said had been proved crooked by a federal grand jury investigation.

IT'S HIGH SCHOOL DAY AT NAVY PIER EXHIBIT TODAY

Chicago High School day will be observed today at the navy's sixth war loan exhibit, "Pacific Theater," and Chicago high schools—public and parochial—will be dismissed at noon.

Special guests on Navy pier today will include Navy Secretary Forrestal, Rep. Sheppard, chairman of the house naval appropriations committee, Rep. Plumley, ranking member of the committee, and Rear Adm. William B. Young, chief of the bureau of supplies and accounts and paymaster general of the navy.

Divers to Swim Harbor.

A feature of the exhibition on Navy pier will be a divers' race for the high school students. Three divers in full regalia will be lowered into the harbor from the docks, where landing craft are on display, and will swim across the harbor.

The coast guard, in addition to having an exhibition in the drill hall, which is the center of the Navy pier exhibit, also is contributing four stage shows in the drill hall theater. Participants in the shows are Comdr. Jack Dempsey, Chief Lou Ambers, Chief Dick Stabile, Boatswain's Mate Cesar Romero, who took part in the invasion of Saipan; Seaman Richard Quine of the movies; Spar Hellen Pressley, and Spar Marjorie Snyder.

Coast guard shows will be given in the theater Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons.

Bond Sales at $125,000.

War bond sales in the week the show has been open on Navy pier have reached $125,000, according to treasury department reports.

Purchases of sixth war loan bonds by individual buyers in Chicago and Cook county totaled $34,431,000 at the close of business Friday, Francis M. Knight, drive chairman for the city and county, said yesterday. The city-county quota for individuals is $235,596,000.

Two Sailors Get Medals.

Rear Adm. Louis B. Combs, assistant chief of the navy's bureau of yards and docks, presented two awards to sailors last night at the Pacific theater bond show.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Edwin F. Prehoda, Oildale, Cal., received the bronze star for galantry at Bougainville, and Robert F. Fetch, a boatswain's mate 2d class, of Hazen, N. D., received the silver star. Fetch was cited for gallantry at Los Negros Island.

WILDCAT HUNT FAILS TO FLUSH EVEN A KITTEN

School 'Convoy' Planned for Young 'Uns.

BY CHARLES PURVIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Vanceburg, Ky., Nov. 27.—Protective transportation for the three children of Joseph [Popoff] Johnson in getting to school thru "wildcat country" was planned by school authorities today, altho a hunting party searched Martin holler half the night without finding the catamount whose "turrible" screams have been heard, it's said, by virtually every resident there.

This program appeared to be a victory for Johnson, 65, mule driving mountaineer, who had kept his "young 'uns" from school because he feared wildcats might harm them on their long walk to and from school.

But it was bad roads more than the account of a "fearsome varmint that prompted the announcement by B. C. Douglas, the truant officer, that he would recommend to the Lewis county board that a covered wagon be provided for the Johnson children and several other pupils who live in the isolated hollow.

Hunters to Await Snow.

Douglas said that when snow falls sufficiently to show animal tracks clearly, hunters will return to the scene and track the animal to its lair.

The hunt last night was conducted by a party of eight who were joined at Johnson's tenant farm by his son, Orville, 26. An almost steady rain, alternating between a drizzle and a downpour, and a slick mud almost constantly underfoot, impeded the chase. But the doughty hunters carried on despite the handicap.

During one downpour the hunters took shelter in Johnson's typical mountaineer home, a part of which leaks, however. The elder Johnson was eating supper in semi-darkness when the hunters arrived. A globeless oil lamp was lighted for the benefit of the newcomers.

Something "Bigger," Maybe.

"No need takin' my dogs along," Johnson declared. "They're plumb skeered of that animal. That's what makes me think it might not be a wildcat, but somethin' even bigger. They're not afeered of wildcats, but when they hear this thing scream they hightail fer home jest like they been whupped."

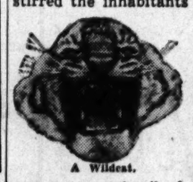
Orville, a tousle haired hillbilly, who said he was chased by the animal and bounced a rock off it, averred he could mock it and make it answer him.

He accompanied the hunters thru the wet woods, his shot gun at the ready. At intervals he gave his wildcat yell, a loud "hoo-oo-oo wheee-ee-ee" that rang between the hills. Once he said he heard an answer, but the others in the party were unable to hear any.

However, numerous shots were fired by the hunters from rifles, shotguns, and revolvers at objects they thought were moving. Orville let fly once when he said he "seen its eyes a-shinin' thar in the dark."

PUMA AND LYNX AMONG TYPES OF WILDCATS IN U. S.

"Wildcat," a word that has stirred the inhabitants of one Kentucky district to stage hunts for the beast, has been applied loosely in the United States to all wild varieties of the cat family found here, including the puma, or mountain lion, and the lynx.



A Wildcat.

The puma, one of the largest cats of North and South America, formerly was found in all parts of the two continents from Canada to Patagonia and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The French called it "couguar" and hunters in the United States called it "panther." Pumas still are found occasionally in mountainous areas of the United States and are common in Central America.

Altho most authorities on animal life assert the puma rarely will attack man, many legends of the fierceness of this beast have become a part of American folklore. A full grown puma measures about 40 inches from nose to root of tail, and the tail is more than half that length. Its coat is tawny, with the lower parts, inner surfaces of the limbs and throat a dirty white.

Lynxes in some cases are larger than pumas, but are less feared. The bob tail variety often are called bob cats and both lynxes and pumas have been referred to indiscriminately as catamounts.

Other American cats include the jaguar and the ocelot, leopard like beasts seldom found north of Texas or Arkansas.

Alienation Suit

(Story in adjoining column.)

Mrs. Mary Gleiter, who was reconciled with her husband yesterday after hearing on his suits for divorce and alienation of affections.

Mrs. Helen Hofbauer (left) and Mrs. Stephanie Fisher, neighbors of the Gleiters, who told about Keilmeyer's calls on Mrs. Gleiter.

Judge to Sign Findings in Doris Duke Case Today

Reno, Nev., Nov. 27 (AP).—Judge William McKnight said today he expected to sign the findings of fact and conclusions of law in the Doris Duke Cromwell divorce case tomorrow. The action was brought by the heiress in support of her 1943 divorce decree here from James H. R. Cromwell. A New Jersey court challenged that decree on the ground that Mrs. Cromwell was not a resident of Nevada.

BARKING DOGS, NOSY NEIGHBORS PERIL A HOME

Every time Ernest Keilmeyer, 45, of 8222 Langley av., an interior decorator, called at the home of Mrs. Mary Gleiter, 35, 1317 W. 73d pl., the neighbors' dogs barked and the neighbors rushed to their windows, Judge Michael Feinberg was told yesterday in Circuit court.

Peter Gleiter.

Mrs. Stephanie Fisher, 1315 W. 73d pl., testified that Keilmeyer usually called early in the morning and stayed several hours, while Mrs. Gleiter's husband, Peter, 40, a baker, was at work. Mrs. Fisher's dog is named Hans, and the dog belonging to Mrs. Helen Hofbauer, 1319 W. 73d pl., who also testified, is called Tootsie.

Admits She's "Nosy."

Gleiter charged his wife with adultery in a suit for divorce, and he sued Keilmeyer for $50,000 damages for alienation of affections. The neighbor women were called as witnesses by Gleiter's attorney, Sol R. Friedman.

"I'm nosy," said Mrs. Fisher. "When Hans barked, I'd usually see Mr. Keilmeyer going next door, and I'd take my needlepoint and sit by a window."

Mrs. Hofbauer's testimony was along the same lines.

Mrs. Fisher said Keilmeyer visited Mrs. Gleiter "75 or 100" times in two and one-half years. The blinds would be closed, and Mrs. Gleiter would let her boy, Hans Peter, 6, out the back door, until Keilmeyer left.

Early in 1942 Mrs. Fisher was put on the same party line with Mrs. Gleiter.

"Once," she said, "I heard him tell her: 'I can hardly wait until I see you,' and Mrs. Gleiter said: 'Me, too; be careful, she may be listening.' I was shocked."

Just Wanted Brushes.

Keilmeyer, represented by Atty. Irving Eisenman, said he went to the Gleiter home only to get his paints and brushes, which his friend Gleiter permitted him to keep in the basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Gleiter conferred with Judge Feinberg in his chambers, and when they came out they announced a reconciliation. The suits were dismissed.

Sgt. John R. Foster, 25, of Lombard, has been awarded the bronze star for meritorious conduct in action Aug. 7 in France, the war department said yesterday. Sgt. Foster's wife, Opal, lives at 320 S. Westmore av., Lombard. He is a nephew of Edward C. Thompson, an employe in THE TRIBUNE'S composing room. The citation says that Sgt. Foster, an assistant squad leader, removed an unmanned truck while under heavy fire to clear an escape route for other vehicles. He has been in the army four years and overseas 18 months. He is a graduate of the York High school, Elmhurst.

HUSBAND SEEKS TO DIVORCE WIFE IN TORTURE CASE

Chester Dybicz, 25, of 7201 Lowe av., filed suit for divorce yesterday in Superior court on the ground that his wife, Betty Jane, 19, was convicted of a felony. She was found guilty Nov. 14 of assault with intent to murder her 5 month old son, Dennis, and was sentenced to one to three years in the women's reformatory at Dwight. After her arrest last August, Mrs. Dybicz told an assistant state's attorney that she did not like the baby because her husband was not the father. She repudiated this statement at the trial. Dybicz asked custody of Dennis and another child, Richard 1½ years old.

While he was making a delivery to the restaurant at 3211 Roosevelt rd., his automobile containing $120 worth of meat was stolen, Morris Miller, 3323 Douglas blvd., reported to police yesterday.

Antique Dealer Denies Cigaret Gouge Charge

Charles H. Higbee, owner of an antique shop at 1411 Michigan av., surrendered yesterday at the United States marshal's office on a warrant charging him with selling 20 cartons of cigarets in excess of the office of price administration ceiling. Arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, Higbee pleaded not guilty, and his hearing was continued until Dec. 11. He was released on $1,000 bond.

HOW RAIL STRIKE HIT WAR PLANTS TOLD IN SURVEY

1 to 35 Pct. Absent from Vital Jobs in 17 Days.

The extent that war production in this area has suffered as a result of the 17 day strike by trainmen on the North Shore and the Aurora-Elgin electric roads to enforce their demands for higher wages was disclosed yesterday by the Illinois department of labor.

Service on the lines was resumed yesterday morning after union officials, at the insistence of Robert L. Glenn, railway consultant to the war production board, accepted the 5 cent hourly raise that had been granted the men by an emergency panel several weeks ago.

Absenteeism Found High.

Robert L. Jordon, acting director of the department of labor, said that during the strike absenteeism in 55 industrial plants in the area serviced by the roads ranged from 1 to 35 per cent. The war plants were also handicapped by innumerable cases of tardiness, he said. The survey, taken in plants employing from 40 to 2,600 persons, showed an average of 17 per cent absenteeism. Percentages ran exceptionally high in two factories on the north shore, the report indicated.

The plant with the highest average absenteeism was the Motor Products company, North Chicago, employing 162 persons, where absenteeism was estimated at 35 per cent. Second highest, with 30 per cent, was the B. L. Kleinschmidt company, Highland Park, where 50 persons are employed.

The Johns-Manville company in Waukegan, with a personnel of 1,800, had an average of 7 per cent. Abbott Laboratories of North Chicago, employing 2,600, averaged 8 per cent.

10 Per Cent at Fansteel.

Another North Chicago firm, the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation, employing 1,000 persons, had an average of 10 per cent.

West suburban and Chicago plants covered in the survey and their percentages of absenteeism are: Staner Manufacturing company, Aurora, 900 employes, 12 per cent; Belden Manufacturing company, Chicago, 600 employes, 10 per cent; Chicago Resistor and Ohmite company, 4900 Flournoy st., 800 employes, 10 per cent; Borg Warner corporation, Bellwood, 502 employes, 10 per cent.

Absenteeism in the following plants was held to 1 per cent: Independent Pneumatic company, Aurora; Oakes Products company, North Chicago, and the Victor Gasket Manufacturing company, 5750 Roosevelt rd.

Pay Lost by Workers.

In addition to the loss of pay suffered by those who were unable to get to work, the railroads lost more than $575,000 in revenue, and the trainmen nearly a quarter million in wages.

Intervention in the dispute by a representative of the WPB came only after hundreds of letters from commuters handicapped by the lack of transportation had been addressed to President Roosevelt and congressmen representing Illinois and Wisconsin.

Road officials said the majority of trainmen apparently were glad to be back at their jobs. Many of them, they said, have sons on the fighting front and for that reason regretted causing any slack in war production.

OPA WINS TEST CASE IN SUIT ON WHISKY SALES

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday ruled that whisky warehouse receipts are the same as whisky under the meaning of the law, and by his ruling sustained a motion of the office of price administration to strike out certain answers to a suit seeking treble damages in the amount of $93,681 for overceiling sales.

The court's ruling in what was, in effect, a test case was a victory for the OPA, which has treble damage suits totaling 21 million dollars in courts thruout the country. Defendants and their lawyers in other suits attended the hearing in which the defendants were Maurice B. Frank and Vera Frank, doing business as the United Sales Agency, at 17 N. Pulaski rd.

The defense argued that the issues involved whisky receipts, and not whisky, and that the OPA regulations did not specifically provide for treble damage suits in the case of receipts. Robert R. Johnstone, representing the OPA, argued in defense of his motion.

PRESS PRAISED BY WMC FOR AID IN LABOR CRISIS

17,000 More Needed to Fill War Jobs.

BY CHARLES BALLENGER.

An intensive recruiting campaign by Chicago newspapers has reduced the man power needs in this industrial area by about 3,000 skilled workers, Col. Dan A. Hardt, army representative on the war man power priorities committee, said yesterday. He pointed out, however, that at least 17,000 workers still are needed by essential plants.

"Many key industries in the Chicago area have solved their production bottlenecks," Col. Hardt said, "but increased demands by the army and navy have produced new problems that will have to be solved by local workers."

Labor Turnover Reduced.

The drive by newspapers and radio has also reduced labor turnover, one of the major problems in reeent months, by at least 20 per cent, reported Charles P. Casey, state war man power commission director.

"A check of several critical plants that received publicity shows their turnover was reduced approximately 20 per cent as compared with the same week in October," Casey stated. "This means that one-fifth of the workers who were quitting a month ago are staying on the job. This is an excellent achievement. Both the newspapers and the workers are to be complimented on this record."

Three Plants Need Help.

Three plants in the Chicago area are in particular need of help because a war production board directive on Friday increased their production schedules about 100 per cent. The plants all produce small caliber ammunition. They are the Edison General Electric Ordnance company, 1531 S. 54th st., Cicero; the Revere Copper and Brass company, 6630 Fullerton av., and the Kenosha Brass company, Kenosha, Wis.

All three plants virtually will have to double their working staffs to meet the increased demands.

"In spite of the record already achieved by Chicago workers," Casey said, "if this region is to fulfill the challenge given us by our war leaders, nearly every man who is not now in an essential job will have to quit his present occupation and get at a war machine. Women will have to come out of the home to fill the jobs left by the men."

Tribune Helps Fill Jobs.

Several hundred highly skilled workers have been attracted to jobs in selected critical plants thru a series of daily stories that have appeared in THE TRIBUNE since Nov. 14.

To help employers solve their man power shortages, the WMC yesterday opened the first of four five-day training sessions thruout the state to instruct United States employment service personnel in the correct methods of placing disabled workers and war veterans.

Federal Marshal Gives 8 Tons of Scrap Paper

The scrap paper drive was bolstered yesterday by approximately eight tons of old files, some dating back to 1900, donated by William H. McDonnell, United States marshal. Orders to clean the files of ancient and worthless records issued from Washington, McDonnell said.

LEADERS OPEN FINAL PHASES OF FUND DRIVE

Leaders of the Community and War Fund drive, now entering its final phases, yesterday urged acceleration of employe campaigns among industrial and business firms to get the campaign completed. At the same time, a direct appeal was made to persons missed by volunteer solicitors to mail their contributions to fund headquarters at 111 Washington st.

With the final report meeting set for Friday, Dec. 15, in the Stevens hotel, those in charge said yesterday that every effort should be extended if Chicago is to reach its goal of $12,980,000 for the United Service organizations, War Prisoners' aid, United Seamen's service, and American Field service, together with the 187 health and welfare agencies of the Community fund.

CHESTER DAVIS WARNS OF WAR'S DRAIN ON LAND

BY BEN MARKLAND.

The world need of foodstuffs from American farms may cause permanent damage to our soil unless conservation practices are started on more farm acreage, according to Chester C. Davis, president of the Federal Reserve bank of St. Louis and former head of the agricultural adjustment administration. He spoke yesterday before the Chicago chapter of the Friends of the Land in the Palmer House.

Mr. Davis said high pressure war time production of corn, wheat, oats, timber, and other farm crops must be tempered by intelligent farm planning to prevent soil erosion. Among the farm practices which he said must be encouraged are contour plowing, terracing, subsurface tillage, growing of rye and other crops after the summer grain harvests, and reforestation of farm woodlots.

Ways to Lose Land.

"There are two ways," Mr. Davis said, "that we can lose our land. We can lose it if conquered by a foreign military power or by erosion, which steals the all-important farm topsoil and washes it down the flooded rivers."

He deplored war time conversion of hay and meadow lands into the production of corn, soybeans, and other row crops which are conducive to soil erosion. He said that in Iowa more than 3,000,000 acres of hay and pasture lands have been turned to grain and soybean production since 1941.

Awarded War Bond.

Sam Burkhart Jr., 17 year old farm boy of Washington, Ind., was awarded a $50 war bond by Friends of the Land for winning the Indiana 4-H club soil conservation contest. He and his father rehabilitated a 160 acre farm in Davis county, Ind., in four years, utilizing terracing, reforestation, liming, and other practices recommended by soil technicians.

Man who won't take "NO JOB" for an answer

—and who needn't—if your advertising convinces America's Wage Earners of the Security of Spending

Here's a picture of tomorrow—peacetime tomorrow—a picture becoming increasingly clear to all of us every day.

Already we know that without jobs for all those anxious to work, America stands to lose everything it's working for and fighting for.

Yet, to make those jobs, peace must find a customer as big as war...big enough to consume (and pay for) half as much again as we produced in our best prewar year.

There is a customer in America that big...there is only one. He is himself capable of consuming and paying for the vast EXTRA amount of goods needed to maintain total employment.

That customer—important in the last generation, crucially important for the next—is Wage Earner America...the millions of working men and women whose Spending can BUY a sound, lasting prosperity...whose every dollar can match a dollar's worth of goods as it reaches the marketplaces.

And nothing can launch the avalanche of these saved-up Wage Earner billions like confidence. And nothing in the whole knowledge of private enterprise can inspire confidence like advertising—not only the mere quantity of advertising to a goods-starved nation—but also the kind that transmits to the masses the faith of the leaders of industry—the kind that reassures Wage Earner America of the Security of Spending.

But the confidence that your advertising must produce can best be created by publications that themselves enjoy wide Wage Earner circulation and Wage Earner confidence.

Pace-setters and opinion-leaders of the entire Wage Earner class, the Macfadden audience is indispensable to the success of every peacetime advertising program.

AMERICA LAST.

The more that is learned about the international aviation conference, the harder it becomes to understand why our government allowed such a conference to be held.

We were sitting pretty. We alone had an ample supply of planes designed for transport service. We alone had a well organized system of transoceanic air lines and a staff trained to operate them efficiently. We had at home and abroad a large public accustomed to travel in American planes. We were prepared to start our commercial services as soon as war ended. It was certain that there would be no lack of persons eager to go abroad for business and for pleasure. It was certain, also, that Europe was eager to receive our tourists for the dollars they would bring with them. If our air lines could not acquire landing rights in one European country on fair terms, it was practically certain that arrangements could be made with a neighboring country. Because of all this leverage, there was every reason to believe that satisfactory terms could be reached with all countries by dealing with them individually.

All these advantages were thrown to the winds when the United States agreed to participate in the conference. The countries of western Europe had everything to gain and nothing to lose at the meeting. We had much to lose and nothing to gain. We could have had the same long lead in the international flying business that our clipper ships gave us in the international carrying trade before the Civil war. Our so-called diplomats weren't interested in promoting an American industry at a time when the country faces the problem of finding millions of jobs for returning veterans. We don't know what they were interested in, unless it was the right to be received as social equals by the European upper classes whom they so greatly admire.

There is nothing at all unusual in this record of giving away our birthright. It is an old custom in Washington, and has been particularly marked of late. There has been a whole series of similar conferences in recent months, beginning with the Atlantic City meeting at which we agreed to put up most of the money for European relief, but allowed the spending of the money to pass into the control of 40 other nations. There followed the Bretton Woods conference at which our negotiators agreed to put up most of the money for stabilizing currencies the world over and for an international bank and again we allowed the control of the funds to pass to the others. The funds are going to be lent to borrowers who will have control of the bank, unless congress withholds its support.

Once again we sat in an international conference at Dumbarton Oaks. The United States, in Mr. Churchill's phrase, has become the strongest power in the world on land, on sea, and in the air. We have, moreover, an unequaled strategic position. Our strength was greatest; our danger was least, and so, without rhyme or reason, we agreed to set up some kind of an international armed force, whose use we cannot control, and which some day may be used against us by envious nations.

That, in brief, has been our diplomatic record in recent months. It is a record of repeated disregard of American interests and American welfare. The only Americans who stand to benefit in the least from it are precisely those little men in spats and their cousins on Long Island whose craving for social recognition outside their own country is their dominant passion.

THE STATEVILLE BREAK.

The unsuccessful attempt of 10 convicts to escape from Stateville prison illustrates the fact that desperate criminals can be safely confined only if subjected to military guard and discipline.

Zoeth Skaggs, a veteran prison guard, was killed in the attempted break. He had been seized by the convicts after defending himself stoutly with the only weapon permitted within the walls, a club. When they used him as a shield in their attempt to scale the prison wall the wall guards, as was their duty, disregarded the safety of their comrade and broke up the attempt with rifle fire.

Skaggs was killed by the other guards' bullets. The convicts had only mock weapons. He died in the performance of his duty, and Gov. Green's assurance to his family that the pension provided by law will be supplemented, if necessary, should find prompt support in the legislature.

As long as hardened criminals are confined in the prisons of the state, some of them will attempt escapes from time to time. The governor and his prison administrators are to be congratulated on the suppression of this last one. The danger of the future breaks might be lessened, and the lives of other guards saved in the future, if Illinois followed the example of some other states and inflicted the death penalty on convicts already serving life terms who make violent attempts to escape.

THE PUNISHMENT FITS THE CRIME.

It is reported that when allied military rule is instituted in Germany Leon Henderson will be economic chief of the American section on the supreme allied council in Berlin. The Germans may have thought that they have been planned and regimented to death under Hitler, but they haven't seen anything yet. Wait till Leon gets to work.

There must be many more slightly shopworn burocrats such as he whom the American public will be willing to spare for the task of what is called reconstruction in Germany. Many of the shining lights among the New Deal planners may feel the urge to make the pilgrimage. If so, they will be given an enthusiastic godspeed.

There has been a good deal of debate as to what punitive measures should be employed to bring home to the German people the enormity of the crimes they have countenanced among their leaders. The solution indicated in dispatching Mr. Henderson and his fellows to Naziland can be considered a burst of pure inspiration. Furthermore, we predict that if the transplanted planners are permitted to work their ways for a sufficient period, we won't have to worry about the Germans starting another war. Why use chains when red tape will do?

It is true that the Constitution forbids cruel and unusual punishments, but, after all, they asked for it. We look forward eagerly to the promulgation of regulation 00001-A of the American occupying authorities, dealing with the sorting by size of oak leaves picked up by the peasantry in the Black Forest. Mr. Henderson can be trusted to carry on from there.

THE PLIGHT OF THE DEMOCRATS.

Democrats will find a more accurate preview of the course of their party in the occurrences at the recent CIO convention in Chicago than in the election returns.

The CIO, as was expected, voted to continue its political action committee as a permanent organization. Its chairman, Sidney Hillman, announced plans to expand the PAC's fellow traveler organizations, called the national citizens' political action committee. Any one who subscribes to the confusion of mind which best exemplifies the so-called liberal of these times is invited to join, but Mr. Hillman made it rather clear that the corps d'elite of his political machine will continue to be the PAC itself, working entirely within the CIO unions.

The PAC has certain iniquitous features which alarmed many people during the last campaign. The economic compulsion on CIO members to support political decisions largely handed down from the top was a departure both from American political practice and from the conduct of American trade unions. Apprehensions regarding this iniquity should not, however, obscure appreciation of the effectiveness of the PAC.

Its SS troops are the CIO's shop stewards. They, too, are something new, precinct captains assigned on trade or economic bases rather than geographically. They are also on the job the year around. In the last election they made it possible for the PAC to improvise an effective political canvassing organization. Further improvisation is unnecessary. The organization remains in existence, actively functioning, and it is the old line Democrats and the Republicans who are depending on improvisation in the future.

The CIO convention hailed Henry Wallace as its candidate for President in 1948. Mr. Roosevelt discarded Mr. Wallace this year because he was afraid he would split his party if he permitted his renomination. The CIO indorsement may have been what it purported to be, or it may have been a notice to the incumbent that a fifth term can be had only in exchange for delivery during the fourth. Mr. Hillman laid claim after the election returns were complete to 96 congressmen and 14 senators, who he asserted owed their return to Washington to himself and the PAC. The roll calls of the next two years will show to what extent the gentlemen consider the claim to be justified.

The open efforts of the higher level of the burocracy to curry Hillman's favor are more significant. That super-aristocrat, Mr. Sumner Welles, departed from a recent discussion of foreign policy to assert that the greatest, and as yet unsolved, problem of this nation is the maldistribution of income and wealth. Chairman Marriner Eccles of the federal reserve board asserted that if full employment is to be attained after the war, hourly wage scales must be increased.

The objectives of the PAC are plain. They are, for the time, socialism. Mr. Roosevelt promised 60 million jobs. His supporters are already asserting that if the 60 million jobs are not forthcoming it will only be because American industry has maliciously gone on a sit-down strike and that the remedy must be government seizure of industry to make the jobs.

This is the situation that faces the large number of the members of the Democratic party who can be classified best as Jeffersonians, the Democrats who believe in free enterprise, who distrust and abhor the overextension of the power of the central government at the expense either of the states or of their individual citizens, and who base their political faith on the Bill of Rights, which cannot be expected to remain intact if government obtains the complete economic power over the citizen which is implicit in socialism.

There is very little that these Democrats can do within their own party to stem this tide. They are or, thru the superior organization of the PAC, will shortly become a minority in their party primaries outside the solid south. In the south the Jeffersonians are, and may remain, a majority, depending on whether Mr. Hillman is able to fasten on them a force bill more drastic than any that the Republicans ever attempted. But majorities in the solid south are meaningless when the southern delegates find themselves a hopeless and largely ignored minority in the national convention, as they did here in Chicago this year.

BIG INCH, BIG PROFIT.

[New York Sun.]

When the government goes into business, it apparently isn't as critical of profits as it is when it goes over the books of private enterprise.

According to the figures just given out by the secretary of commerce, profits on the "big inch" pipe line are 110 per cent of operating costs and on the "little inch" pipe line 167 per cent of operating costs.

SO THIS IS STRASBOURG.

The recently captured city of Strasbourg, capital of Alsace and focus of that province's cultural traditions, is not on the bank of the Rhine, as the maps suggest, but two miles away from it. This small point may serve to interpret dispatches relating to the Strasbourg bridge and its possession.

* * *

Fine views of the Rhine valley may be obtained from the platform, or first stage, of the cathedral's spire, often visited by tourists. This observation post is 216 feet above street level; the spire itself runs up to 465 feet. In the not-so-long-ago times, before drainage and canalization of the Rhine flats, the cathedral roof in Strasbourg was the classical place for glimpses of Old Doc Stork, the mythical obstetrician. Tourists in a hurry usually did their stork-gazing from this eyrie.

* * *

The cathedral is no stranger to damage from bombardment, for it won wound stripes in the Franco-Prussian war, when the city was besieged. Its architecture started as Romanesque and became pure Gothic. Its objects of interest include an astronomical clock which gives puppet shows as it strikes the hours, especially at noon. Tourists who have become blasé to cathedrals stand around this clock and utter their ohs and ahs with deep sincerity.

* * *

In addition to storks, this city has specialized in geese. The Strasbourg goose is a famous character in gastronomy, for he produces paté de fois gras. We regret to add that he excels in this department because of unfeeling methods used in the development of his liver. He is tacked by the feet on boards or shingles and stuffed with food. Lack of exercise and a rich diet cause his liver to grow like a plutocratic clubman's. . . . At least, so the story runs. We never saw a Strasbourg goose, and never want to see one.

NOW IN NOVEMBER.

The linden tree has lost its leaves,
The rosebush its rose,
For now November stalks the hills
And all beauty goes:
The beauty that was on the lake,
The loveliness of the shore
Are laid with leadened garments
And seen no more.

Beneath the ash-gray of the sky
Feathered things fly south,
As death comes lusting for life
To kiss it on the mouth:
From such a kiss life sickens
And everything grows gray—

Alleged Cuteness of a Bug's Ear.

Every one told me before I met her: "You'll like her; she's as cute as a bug's ear!" Which set me to thinking. "Just how cute is a bug's ear, anyway?" I pondered, trying to recall if I had ever seen a bug's ear. I came to the conclusion that I hadn't; leastwise if I had it couldn't have impressed me very much or undoubtedly I would have remembered that it was cute.

So, being scientifically minded, I decided to investigate. "An ear," I theorized, "is after all only an ear. Now take my ear, for example: I wouldn't consider that a particularly cute article." Then I thought of other ears—dog ears, cat ears, elephant ears. "Are they cute?" I said, asking myself the $64 question. "No!" I expostulated, quite certain of my ground.

So then I began studying bugs. Since that time I've seen a thousand or so different kinds of bugs, and as yet I've never discovered one with ears. So I still don't know whether a bug's ear is cute.

But then I met her. And I liked her. And you know what: Honestly, she was as cute as a bug's ear! Davy of the Navy.

Mrs. F. C. writes: "Will you please tell me how to send a Christmas package to a soldier just now leaving for overseas duty? I believe I saw some information on it in your column about two weeks ago."

"Christmas parcels for members of the army personnel leaving home stations en route overseas shortly before or subsequent to Oct. 16, 1944, will be accepted after Oct. 15, up to and including Dec. 10, 1944, upon presentation by the sender of a change of address notification [W. D. A. G. O. Form 204 or equivalent notice] from the addressee received subsequent to Sept. 30, 1944, provided the parcels come within the prescribed limits of weight and size and are endorsed 'Christmas parcel.' Only one such parcel will be accepted from any one person to any one individual having an overseas a.p.o. address."

It is not necessary to have a written request to send a package to a man in the navy, marine corps, or coast guard.

DON'T NEGLECT SORE THROAT.

NOW is the time to guard against every type of sore throat. Pain on swallowing calls for prompt attention. Even tho the parts do not appear red and congested, we know that the tissues are swollen. Sooner or later, unless something is done the causative germs will invade the deeper structures. If allowed to have their way, microbes may wander into the blood stream and be responsible for many a bad hour.

It so happens that some of us carry around enough "bugs" in our mouths and nasal passages to start a sizable epidemic. The reason we remain well is because we keep resistance at a high level. This means that the organisms, even tho they are present, will not be able to propagate, grow, and hence produce poisons. If a careful bacteriological study were made on every man, woman, and child a fair percentage would show streptococci or pneumococci. A smaller number would reveal the species that causes meningitis.

So long as we keep the oral cavity and airways clean—uncontaminated—we go on our way rejoicing. Any one who loses sleep, is careless about his meals, encourages a food deficiency, or becomes rundown from any cause is likely to be a ready victim.

I believe firmly in gargles and mouth washes. The material may be prepared with a pinch of common salt or baking soda but the preparations now on the market taste better. Most of these contain thymol which has real antiseptic value. Another useful remedy is a weak solution of sodium hypochlorite. Why is this procedure recommended? Because millions of surface bacteria will be washed away. If the habit is continued and becomes routine, few inflamed throats will develop.

One reason why we always recommend pasteurized milk is because invaders may get into this essential nutriment somewhere between the milking process and the table. If the fluid comes from a cow afflicted with inflammation of the udder, and is not heated before serving, bacteria may be passed on to the consumer.

The trouble with a throat infection is that it is usually prostrating. It may start with a severe chill, followed by high fever, marked weakness, and pain in the back and legs. Not only is the pharynx dry and smarting but earache and headache may be complained of. The malady has a tendency to travel downward toward the trachea and, in some instances, the voice will become muffled and hoarse, the breath foul, and the tongue heavily coated.

Fortunately, we have recourse to hot salt water irrigations, with the head of the patient hanging over the side of the bed. In addition, the sulfa drugs should be used to full effect, care being taken to guard every dose with an adequate quantity of an alkali. Meats and acid forming foods may well be omitted altho orange and other fruit juices may be employed freely.

We must recall that these individuals are acutely ill and the whole situation represents an emergency. The germs can reach the circulation and give rise to numerous complications. Let's take care of our throats when they become irritated.

ENLARGED HEART.

A. S. writes: With an enlargement of the heart, should a person take things easy?

REPLY.

It may not be necessary, if the cardiac muscle is in good tone. For the most part, the function of the pumping organ depends upon the integrity of its contracting fibers. If there are no signs of decompensation or failure, go about your business with no qualms. Strenuous tasks need not be tackled, however.

RHEUMATIC FEVER.

Mrs. L. writes: My youngster had an attack of rheumatic fever about this time last year. Is the disease likely to recur?

REPLY.

It may, if reserve is not kept at a high level. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disease.

HOT OR COLD?

M. C. writes: In the presence of pain over one eye, presumably of sinus origin, is an ice bag or a heating pad preferable?

REPLY.

The World Is Still Brave and New.

Twenty-four centuries ago Alexander the Great broke into tears because there were no new worlds to conquer. He had explored Iran, Palestine, and Egypt and made them his. He then lay down at the age of 33 and died. But long after Alexander less credulous men were born, men whose names stud the waters and the lands they discovered—Balboa, Magellan, Bering, and Cook—an endless and intrepid list. This year a new name should be added, that of Larsen.

Two months ago Henry Larsen, a sergeant in the Royal Canadian mounted police, reported the most exciting exploration since Balboa discovered the Pacific in 1513, but it was lost in the welter of a world at war. He completed the first round trip journey thru the Northwest passage, that fabled link thru the arctic.

For centuries man has sought a legendary seaway linking the two great oceans via the arctic. In 1611 Henry Hudson and his son died searching for it, to be followed by a long line of courageous explorers. All thru the polar pack are bits of land and straits bearing the names of the men who discovered them in futile search for the Northwest passage. Hudson bay and Baffinland and Rae strait, Dease inlet, Cape Perry, Franklin bay, and Collinson strait all are there and many more, as are such enduring evidences of their poignant struggles as Repulse bay, Fury point, Anxiety Island, Icy cape, Winter Island, and Cape Providence.

Past all of these a little 105 foot schooner, the patrol boat St. Roch, fought its way in the four years that ended this fall. It chugged thru waters jammed with ice and twice was locked in the ice pack during the bitter arctic winters. Once Larsen and his crew of eight pried the schooner out of the ice pack with blasting powder and ice chisels. Icebergs and giant floes which could have crushed its Douglas fir timbers and iron sheathing threatened at all times, but the sturdy little ship moved on. Once, for 41 days when the temperature never was above 48 below, Larsen and P. G. Hunt, a constable, mushed across the ice studying the movement of the pack. Once when the temperature stayed at 60 below for weeks, a crew member died of heart failure. He was buried beneath a rock cairn overlooking the cold desolation of Pasley bay.

Larsen was working west to east, up from Vancouver thru Bering strait, past Mackenzie bay, to which outpost he had formerly delivered supplies for the mounties stationed there, and into the maze of little traversed inlets thru which his fellow Norwegian, Amundsen, near whose birthplace he was born, had gone in 1906. He left Vancouver in 1940. Two and a half years later, having slithered and twisted a way a rod at a time thru the labyrinth of islands northwest of Hudson bay, he brought the St. Roch down the barren coast of Baffinland and into Halifax.

The eastward passage had taken 28 months or 850 days. But Larsen was not satisfied. He now wanted to make the return trip. He thought he could reduce his time somewhat, for he now knew the shiftings and the movements of the ice packs.

The westward trip took 86 days—one-tenth the time, and when the tiny ship reëntered British Columbia waters and came into Vancouver harbor, the ships-of-war of all the allied nations anchored there dipped their colors in salute.

To the only two routes to the Pacific, around the Cape of Good Hope and thru the Panama canal, a third now has been added. A Scandinavian in the red tunic of a Canadian mountie has made so remarkable a finding that an Arctic Institute of North America already has been set up to study it. He has opened the arctic regions of the western hemisphere for development and settlement, he has found a route between the North Atlantic and North Pacific oceans one-third as long as that thru the Panama canal, and he has made possible in the once impossible arctic stretches what the soviet union has achieved via the Northeast passage—commerce.

SHORTCOMINGS OF PEACE BY FORCE.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—The real stumbling block in the Dumbarton Oaks proposals is who will control the international sheriff. Which nation will control the executive power used to enforce the decrees? It is easy enough to set up the composition of the international police force, but which nation will have command? Could England, the United States, Russia, or any great power permit the command to rest in any other hands than its own? The academic answer is "yes," but the practical answer is "no."

For instance, suppose that the international police force were to be put in action by a majority vote of the high council, would not England risk the disintegration of her empire? For if India, Ireland, Canada, or Australia were to strike for absolute independence and the assembly and high council voted with the insurrectionists, would not Great Britain's vast empire be threatened with piecemeal dissolution?

And imagine what a position Abraham Lincoln would have been in when in 1861 the south tried to secede from the Union. Suppose this ideal plan had been in effect on July 4, 1776. Would there be a United States of America today? RAYMOND A. KINZIE.

PRICE CONTROL ON CIGARETS.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—I know what is causing the cigaret shortage. The supply was never equal to the demand. The balance between consumption and supply has been maintained by the shortage of money. Now there is no longer a shortage of money.

Supply must balance demand at a given price before the condition can approach normal. This happy condition cannot be brought about except thru normal price fluctuation. The OPA will not allow this process to operate. Therefore there is no solution. C. A. PAYNE.

RELIEVING THE MAN POWER PINCH.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—If the man power shortage is as acute as the administration claims, let the New Deal release about 1½ million federal pay rollers. These federal parasites have never, are not now, and never will do anything constructive toward the war effort.

This will at least relieve the treasury and ultimately the forgotten taxpayer of supporting these people in the manner they were not formerly accustomed to. R. S. B.

MILLIONS DIDN'T CUSS.

Pearl City, Ill., Nov. 23.—President Roosevelt's defense for his profanity when the voting machine refused to work is as pathetic and illogical as his New Deal. That something was wrong with the voting machine that day is too well known to about 47 per cent of the voters. Not all of us, however, saw any use voicing our displeasure in profane language. ANNA E. SCHROEDEL.

A PROSPECT.

Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 20.—I duly note that President Roosevelt made a plea for subscription to the sixth war loan drive. I suggest to him that he take part of that million dollar fortune left to him by his mother and put a fraction of it into the drive, as the record shows his mother only had $20,000 [or was it $10,000] in government bonds. AGNES W. THOMPSON.

"NOT BEATEN INTO TAME SUBMISSION."

Monroe, N. C., Nov. 17.—Last year when I was searching every newsstand for a paper whose editor had not been beaten into tame submission by the Roosevelt internationalists at home, and by foreign spokesmen from abroad, I ran across THE TRIBUNE, and subscribed for it for 18 months in advance. Its sound and sensible editorials have given me more consolation and patriotic zeal than all other dailies combined. No one but dangerous radicals and ignorant cusses can find fault with THE TRIBUNE'S sound and patriotic policies.

If this Republic is saved from domestic and foreign assassins, THE TRIBUNE and its editors will deserve more praise than any others in the nation. But the pitiful fact is that the fourth termer flirted with labor union bosses for votes in the big cities, without any regard for the ill effects on the balance of the American people, and now Petrillo, head of the musicians' union—a sample of Roosevelt's labor union dictators—has power to collect endless millions for services which his union does not perform. Yes, the Republic is now groggy. J. O. HOLLOWAY.

DIDN'T DISAPPEAR NOV. 7.

Melrose Park, Ill., Nov. 12.—Now that the election is over, we are being entertained with the varied views of political experts who attempt to analyze what it was that influenced voters. This seems to afford a new avenue of propaganda for the Communists, who are spending much time and effort to lull the American people into believing that the deadly menace of communism has disappeared. They say, "Voters paid no attention to the 'bogey' of communism," and "As before, it was considered by the voters to be a fake scare."

Our vigilance should be redoubled. These disciples of foreign isms stop at nothing to gain their end. They have been known to ridicule themselves in the program of giving the United States a false sense of security. Boring from within, they are trying to take over our labor unions. They have dissolved their political identity to bore from within the Democratic party. A small minority, but tricky as hell.

Keep America alert. Tomorrow may be too late. ELMER F. PFLUG.

THE CIO IN POLITICS.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Your editorial today, "How Roosevelt Won," brings an important thought before the American people. If voting blocs such as the New York Labor and Liberal parties and the CIO-PAC are so powerful today after such short preparation, what will they be in another four years?

The CIO was very probably originally planned with the final idea in mind of becoming a minority bloc which, by trading, could become the final factor in deciding national elections, just as the American Labor party in New York state can now decide New York state elections. H. M. NEWELL.

NO WIDOW'S PENSION.

Illinois has no pension for widows as such. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

Want Statue Back

Henry W. Mitchell, 36, president of a North Chicago engineering firm, appeared before Judge Philip L. Sullivan in federal District court yesterday charged with misappropriating a 1,800 pound statue.

The bronze statue of a 1917 doughboy was owned by the J. S. Heath Ornamental Iron company of North Chicago, of which Mitchell was receiver from 1940 until February, 1942.

Mitchell denied taking the statue. He said his successor as receiver for the Heath company sold the statue to a third person, from whom he [Mitchell] subsequently purchased it for $300. Judge Sullivan put the hearing over until today.

There have been 85 cases and five deaths in the county this year, compared with 260 cases and 21 deaths in the same period a year ago. Twelve cases have been reported to the Chicago board of health this month, compared with 38 in November last year.

CHARGES RADIO INQUIRY HALTED BY WHITE HOUSE

Probe Witness Relates 'Forget It' Order.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—The federal communications commission was told by the White House to "forget about" an investigation of charges that a New York radio station owner was coerced into sale of his property, former FCC Commissioner George H. Payne informed a special house committee today.

Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, Presidential aid, had testified previously that an investigation had been ordered by President Roosevelt on Dec. 23, 1940, shortly after the FCC had approved the sale of radio station WMCA by Donald Flamm to Edward J. Noble, former undersecretary of commerce to Harry Hopkins and present chairman of the Blue network.

Payne testified that this order later was rescinded in a message from the late Rudolph Forster, White House executive clerk. Forster was quoted as saying that Mr. Roosevelt had given instructions to "forget about it."

Conspiracy Charged.

Flamm has accused Noble and a number of others, including two employes of the station, of a conspiracy to intimidate him into selling his property for $850,000. Noble later sold the same station for $1,255,000 to Nathan Straus, former head of the federal housing authority.

"Has the FCC ever taken any steps to investigate this matter?" Rep. Wigglesworth [R., Mass.] asked Payne.

"Not to my knowledge," replied Payne.

Donald S. Shaw, former general manager of WMCA, one of those accused by Flamm, denied the charge that he helped Noble obtain the station. He contradicted the testimony of Leslie E. Roberts, another station employe, who has admitted he was a part of the "conspiracy."

Reject Closed Hearings.

The committee today rejected a request by counsel for Noble that hearings on the station sale be closed to the public.

The counsel, Franklin S. Wood, said in a letter to Chairman Lea [D., Cal.] that the committee counsel, John J. Sirica, "had shown beyond a doubt he is prejudiced against Mr. Noble."

PATRICIA KEEPS UP LONG FIGHT AGAINST DEATH

Patricia Attaway yesterday continued her battle against death. Her Seabee daddy, Chief Petty Officer M. F. Attaway, was at her bedside in the St. Charles hospital, Aurora. The little lymphatic leukemia victim improved with the arrival of her father from the South Pacific Saturday but her doctor still refuses predictions on her recovery.

"We can momentarily retard the disease," he explained, "but medical records do not show a recovery. In other words, she may get better . . . but not well."

America first heard of Patricia, 6, when an appeal was made for the Red Cross to find her daddy and bring him home. Yesterday Attaway relieved Patricia's mother, who had been keeping a constant vigil at their daughter's bedside. Chief Attaway, whose leave is up Dec. 30, is going to ask for an extension. "If Patricia is alive then," he added.

CHICAGO MILK FLOWN TO BABY IN OKLAHOMA

A quart of mother's milk, obtained from a hospital by officials of the Amercan Airlines in Chicago, was flown last night to Oklahoma City, Okla., to supplement the feeding of an infant reported to be starving for lack of its nutriment.

Officials said the request for the milk was made by Oscar Mayer of Oklahoma City, who appealed to the air line after he tried in vain to discover a supply in Oklahoma.

The milk left Chicago on a plane at 11:30 p. m. It will reach Oklahoma City at 4:58 a. m., in time for the baby's breakfast.

AFL ASKS 30 HOUR WEEK AFTER WAR TO CREATE JOBS

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Nov. 27.—Immediate congressional action for national legislation providing a 30 hour week to "assure jobs for all" in the post-war period was recommended today by the 64th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

A resolution passed by the convention said technical advances in industry which served to speed production "have developed tensions which cause workers to burn out at an early age."

It was urged that this wearing out be avoided by shorter hours, which also would serve to spread employment.

Another legislative change advocated by the convention today was that the national communications act be amended "so that freedom of speech over the air waves will be safeguarded from actual or implied government censorship."

Other resolutions adopted call for the establishment of a uniform federal unemployment compensation law to take the place of state laws, repeal of Smith-Connally anti-strike law, removal of the poll tax, and wage and hour improvements for postoffice and other government employes.

County Treasurer Victor L. Scheaeger said yesterday that he would confer in a few days with representatives of the state's attorney's and county clerk's offices on procedure to carry out the sales of properties, delinquent more than 10 years in tax payments, under the so-called scavenger bill. The law has been validated by the Illinois Supreme court. It authorizes the treasurer to sell the properties after advertising them and without regular foreclosure proceedings.

1ST COMMERCIAL HELICOPTER ON DISPLAY IN CITY

The first commercially used helicopter, a two seated, 1,200 pound craft, was placed on display for the first time in Chicago yesterday, and hundreds of spectators voiced the opinion that "I'm going to have one of those things after the war."

Howard Finan, representing the Aeronautical Products, Inc., of Detroit, builders of the helicopter [pronounced hell-e-cop-ter], explained that the helicopters are considered safe for civilian flying now, and would be available to purchasers if the material used in their manufacture were available.

The helicopter is so "foolproof," Finan said, that in spite of all the experimental work done in perfecting the craft, not one person has been killed or scratched in flying the strange looking machines.

There are many designs, but the helicopter exhibited on the first floor of Marshall Field & Co., has three blades, a capacity of 500 pounds [two 200-pound passengers and 100 pounds of baggage, for instance], a range of three hours without refueling, and needs a landing field of 160 square feet—the over-all displacement of the craft.

CANADA OFFERS AIR FORMULA TO BREAK DEADLOCK

BY FRANK HUGHES.

With the British and Americans disagreeing over a traffic quota question at the international civil aviation conference, the Canadian delegation came thru with a draft yesterday which some of its spokesmen hope will form a basis of agreement.

A joint subcommittee of the conference, having worked thru the noncontroversial sections of a plan to form a permanent international aviation authority, was down to the meat of the document, where the dissension lies, when the Canadians presented their plan.

Traffic Pickup in Dispute.

The dispute between the United States and Great Britain centers in what is called one of the "freedoms" of the air. This is the right of an international air line operator to pick up and set down traffic in "third states"—nations which lie along his route between starting point and terminus.

Both countries agree that operators should have this right, but the Americans think the traffic picked up at these intermediate stops should be counted in the formula for awarding additional schedules.

The British say it is all right for an international operator to pick up this intermediate traffic, but he shouldn't be allowed to add any extra planes to his run just because he can show an increase in intermediate traffic.

The Canadian Draft.

The Canadians' draft says that member nations shall "have the right to contract out" the privilege of picking up and setting down intermediate traffic. It specifies that the nations may "withhold" the privilege "from all other member states and forego it themselves from all other member states." For purposes of diplomacy "state" means a nation.

A British spokesman commented informally that this adds up to a document which isn't binding on anybody, with an air "freedom" which may be withdrawn by any nation at will.

Britain Stands Firm.

In the subcommittee meeting, a British spokesman said his group intended to cling tenaciously to its position. An American spokesman declared that his country is as internationalist minded as the United Kingdom, and that internationalist is as internationalist does. He maintained that he was not going to see empty planes flying the international air routes thru inability to pick up intermediate traffic.

An American spokesman declared that the smaller countries are supporting his position, and called on the delegates from some of them to speak. A majority declared for unlimited freedom to pick up intermediate air traffic. Altogether, 22 nations gave general statements of position.

MOVE TO ALLOW COURT REVIEW OF OPA RULINGS

House Group Urges Curb on Agencies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—A revision in the war powers act to give Federal District courts authority to set aside "suspension" orders issued by New Deal agencies was recommended today by the house judiciary committee.

So-called suspension orders, which are issued by the war production board, office of price administration, and other agencies, generally forbid those found guilty of misuse or overuse of critical war materials from using such goods for set periods of time.

Up to now, such suspensions have been in the hands solely of the agencies themselves, which have contended they were not subject to court review.

Broad Powers to Courts.

The proposed committee amendment would give Federal District courts exclusive jurisdiction to enjoin or set aside, wholly or in part, orders suspending any priority or allocation for materials.

The revised measure would postpone the effectiveness of suspension orders for five days after their issuance to give the business involved a chance to get court action. For example, a filling station operator, ordered by OPA to stop selling gasoline for 30 days, would have time to seek a court injunction against the OPA order before it took effect.

Extended for Year.

The committee, headed by Rep. Sumners [D., Tex.] recommended extension for one year, without change, the other provisions of the war powers act, scheduled to expire Dec. 31.

The act delegates to the President, or agencies he designates, power to allocate materials, and authorizes the war and navy departments to requisition property needed for the war. It also includes the proviso granting free letter postage to service men, and authorizes changes in the silver and copper content of nickels without congressional approval.

The measure is expected to be considered by the house within a week.

"I'll just take these out in front for a minute," he said, "to see what Uncle thinks of them."

SEAWAY PROJECT CALLED 'HYBRID' PLAN AT HEARING

Neither Agreement Nor Treaty, Witness Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—The proposed international agreement for construction of the St. Lawrence river seaway and power project today was described to a senate committee as a "hybrid" measure that would nullify the constitutional requirement for ratification of treaties by a two-thirds senate vote.

Dr. Edwin Borchard.

Testifying before a senate commerce subcommittee, Dr. Edwin Borchard, professor of international law at Yale university, said the St. Lawrence proposal was neither a treaty nor an agreement. He charged the administration's attempt to obtain approval of the St. Lawrence project by a simple majority vote in both houses was unconstitutional.

"If this hybrid measure is adopted," Borchard said, "it would set a precedent which would in effect nullify the constitutional requirement for a two-thirds vote of the senate for treaty ratification. The President could submit all future international compacts as so-called agreements requiring only a simple majority of both houses for passage."

Hearing on Aiken Bill.

Sen. Overton [D., La.], chairman of the subcommittee, agreed with Borchard, stating that if the senate consented to a majority vote on the St. Lawrence measure, it could not insist on a two-thirds vote on future international compacts. Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] said the senate should insist on its constitutional position.

The subcommittee is holding hearings on a bill introduced by Sen. Aiken [R., Vt.], which would give congressional approval to a 1941 agreement authorizing construction of the St. Lawrence project at a cost of 285 million dollars to the United States. The one question to be decided, Overton has announced, is whether the proposal is an agreement or a treaty.

Redrafting Likely.

Borchard attacked arguments of St. Lawrence project proponents that the proposal could be adopted as an executive agreement because it implemented the 1909 treaty with Canada dealing with boundary waters. That treaty, he said, related to obstructions and diversions in boundary waters and did not contemplate navigation and power projects on waters beyond the international border.

Ferguson, in an interview following the hearing, said a provision in the agreement requiring the President to proclaim the instrument upon its approval indicated that the administration considered the measure as one having treaty status. Only treaties merit Presidential proclamations, Ferguson said.

Committee members predicted privately that the St. Lawrence proposal would be sent back to the state department with a suggestion that it be redrafted in the form of a treaty.

The hearing will continue tomorrow.

INQUEST TODAY AFTER GIRL, 3, DIES OF BURNS

An inquest over Donna Jean Partridge, 3, of 6044 Carpenter st., who died Sunday of burns suffered while playing with matches in her home, will be held this morning in the county morgue.

The child's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Partridge, 22, took the child to Englewood hospital, where she was given first aid by Dr. John J. Kraw, 26, an intern, who said he recommended the child's removal to County hospital after Mrs. Partridge said that she couldn't afford the two weeks' hospitalization he advised. Donna's condition at the time was "good," he said. The baby was removed to County hospital by police of the Englewood district. The child died there.

Mrs. Partridge's husband, Robert, 25, is a private on duty in France. They have two other children, Robert Jr., 2, and Mae, 1.

TREATY MAKING PLAN APPROVED BY HOUSE GROUP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—A house judiciary subcommittee today approved a constitutional amendment, which, if adopted, would end the senate's exclusive voice in ratifying treaties. The senate has to agree to the change, to make it effective.

The resolution provides that treaties be ratified by a majority vote by both branches of congress. The senate now has sole power, by two-thirds vote, to ratify international agreements.

Should the house adopt the resolution, many members are confident it will be trapped in the senate and die with the end of the 78th congress next month.

ACE SHOT DOWN IN LAST WAR BY RICHTHOFEN DIES

Capt. John McGee Gilchrist, 51, of 3260 Maple st., a Canadian royal air force ace in World War I., died last night, apparently of a heart attack, while working as a special guard in the stock yard of Armour & Co.

Capt. J. M. Gilchrist.

Gilchrist was born in Greenock, Scotland, and came to this country in 1907. With the Canadian air force, he shot down 28 enemy planes before he was shot down by the German ace, Von Richthofen, on Feb. 14, 1917, over France. After returning to America, he received an award of $22,000 from the Canadian government and was knighted by the British empire.

Altho he walked away from his plane after being shot down, he received a fractured skull and wore metal plates in his head until his death. In 1935 he lost his money in the real estate business. It passes through the stomach without disturbing its function, is not absorbed, and acts in the colon where physicians want a laxative to act. Try Pluto now! Caution—Use only as directed on label. THIS IS NO BALONEY: A PRANKSTER GUMS THINGS UP FOR SELF

William Prindiville, 45, of 1632 Belmont av., a dental technician, was ordered examined by a court psychiatrist and a hearing of a disorderly conduct charge was continued until Dec. 8 in Town Hall police court yesterday after he admitted scaring a neighbor, Mrs. Freida Wilbersheid, of the same address.

Mrs. Wilbersheid told Judge John R. McSweeney that Prindiville appeared at her door Sunday night wearing an overcoat turned inside out, his hair disarrayed, and his head smeared with catsup. He had clamped his teeth into two small breakfast sausages, and Mrs. Wilbersheid thought the sausages were Prindiville's gums. When he grimaced, she added, the sausages jumped out.

When she screamed, Prindiville ran downstairs with Mrs. Wibersheid at his heels. In a tavern across the street, he washed off "the blood just like a gangster" and she called police. Prindiville laughed in court, said there was ill feeling between them, so he did it as a practical joke. The court didn't see the humor in the situation. "Practical jokers shouldn't go around scaring people," Judge McSweeney said.

Carolers Start Rehearsals for Annual Round

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Edward V. Platts' new home at 1401 Astor st. is getting into the Christmas spirit early, for the Great Lakes Dredge and Philharmonic society has started meeting there each Tuesday night to rehearse for its annual round of caroling up and down near north side streets. At tonight's rehearsal the songsters will plan their holiday calendar, which probably will mean that the familiar English lanterns and long red mufflers will reappear in the neighborhood of Astor st. and State pkwy. Dec. 22, the night tentatively set for the carolers' tour.

After stopping for holiday cheer in several homes along the way, the carolers this year will end the evening at the Saddle and Cycle club. The society also is being invited to appear at the annual family carol fest of the Girls' Latin school Dec. 18 and to sing at the Saddle and Cycle during its New Year's day eggnog party, to which midshipmen from the naval training school at Northwestern university will be invited.

Wayne Howarth again will direct the group, which includes among its membership of 20 or so Paget K. Cady, Thomas I. Underwood, Louis C. Sudler, Cyrus H. Adams III., John Root, Jarvis Hunt Jr., Robert Podesta, Dr. O. E. Van Alyea, Frederick L. Spencer, Schuyler Colt, John Cromelin, Herbert Stratford, and Albert D. Erskine.

Some of the Chicagoans who helped to found the society will be singing their Christmas carols this year at distant points. Lt. Comdr. J. Beach Clow will be observing the holidays in Honolulu; Lt. Col. Walter Frazier, in San Bernardino, Cal., and Lt. Comdr. David Leavitt, in Washington, D. C. Another of the "deans" of the society, Maj. William Welsh, was stationed with the army in Boise, Idaho, when his Chicago friends last had word from him.

Wedding News.

Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Lockett, who never have met the wife of their younger son, Lt. David Lockett, who was married a year ago, yesterday acquired another daughter-in-law whom they have not met. She is the former Marjorie Wilson of Muskogee, Okla., and her marriage to the Locketts' elder son, Lt. Col. John Lockett, took place suddenly in the Muskogee home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Wilson. The ceremony had been planned for December, but was changed when Col. Lockett received new orders. He has been stationed recently at Camp Gruber, Okla., near Muskogee.

Col. Lockett, a graduate of Andover and Yale university, has been stationed at Fort Sill, Fort Leonard Wood, and a number of other army bases and also attended the army staff and command school at Leavenworth, Kas. He entered the army in February, 1941, as a first lieutenant and received his present rank last Easter. Lt. Lockett, who is serving with the army air forces, and his wife are living in Amarillo, Tex.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Steno's Dilemma.

My heart is gaily dancing
The night away with you.
My heart is sipping cocktails
And toasting eyes of blue.

My heart is turning cartwheels;
My head is in a whirl. . . .
My boss is wond'ring sadly,
"What ails that stupid girl?"

"How is your son doing?"

To the White Collar Cynic.

Can the "White Collar Cynic" answer this question for me, please? Why does every form of application I have filled out include religion? Just where does religion enter when a job seeker's qualifications are being considered? It certainly doesn't increase — or decrease — a person's ability, yet I know quite a number of white collar girls who had a hard time finding employment in pre-war days merely because their potential employer didn't like the applicant's religion.

That Fruitcake.

In defense of the telegraph operators, I wonder whether the woman, mentioned recently, who sent a fruitcake instead of a suitcase didn't accept the message over the telephone and misinterpret the word, inasmuch as they do sound alike over the telephone.

For the Suggestion Box.

White collar girls who receive their pay in cash might suggest to the boss that the name of the firm be printed on the pay envelope. In case of loss there is then a chance that it will be returned.

I was able to restore a pay envelope found in a loop store recently. The owner, a lad who works in a cafeteria after school, lost it on a Saturday shopping tour. Foresight in having the firm's name as well as the employe's on the envelope made his Thanksgiving day happier, and mine was more enjoyable thru his generosity of a reward.

Paris Theaters Light Up; Give Variety of Fare

BY ANNE BRUYERE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 27.—Comedies, tragedies, fairy tales, and farces are being presented by Paris theaters, all of which reopened with the return of electricity.

A gala 100th anniversary of Sarah Bernhardt this week is a prelude to Charles Dulling's new production of "Volponi," by Ben Johnson. Actors of Comedie Francaise, Jean-Louis Barrault and Madeline Renaud, who are appearing in the adventure play, "Le Soulier de Satin," also pay homage to Bernhardt.

Edward Gordon Craig, a son of Ellen Terry and pupil of Henry Irving, is setting a Sarah Bernhardt example with a group of young film stars turned stage players because most of the movie studios do not have permission to work. This new troupe, known as Les Jeunes Comediens Associes, includes Micheline Presles and Bernard Blier. As their first presentation they have chosen four one act plays billed as "Le Spectacle des Allies." It is at the Pigalle theater.

The plays are Eugene O'Neil's tragedy, "A Destination de Cardiff"; Noel Coward's comedy, "N'importe Comment"; Anton Chekhov's "La Demande en Mariage," and Armand Salacrou's "La Marguerite."

Salacrou also is the author of "Un Homme Comme les Autres," playing at the Saint Georges theater. His "L'inconnue d'Arras" has been accepted by Comedie Francaise, which now is featuring Raimu in Moliere's "Malade Imaginaire."

Comedie Francaise alternates these productions with "Asmodee" and "L'ecole des Femmes," while the Odeon commemorates the 250th anniversary of Voltaire by showing "Zaire" and "Amour," based on the love story of Liszt and Marie D'Agoult.

While imprisoned in Germany Michel Aucouturier, a new author, wrote "Un Don Juan," which is being presented at the Palace theater. His play revolves around a hero, poor, ugly, timid, and awkward, whom the whim of an imaginative countess turns into a social lion.

Other new dramatic writers are Marcelle Auclair, whose "Fausse Route," playing at the Rochefort theater, opposes a sterile woman to a mother, and Marc Gilbert Sauvajon, whose "Au Petit Bonheur," at the Gramont theater, is a comedy played by the much applauded debutant, Gerard Philipe, and Odette Joyeux.

To overcome the shortage of costumes many theaters are repeating former successes, as costumes for these are still in the stockrooms.

"Rose Marie" thus is shown at the Chatelet theater, starring an American, Barbara May. The Atelier theater produces "Antigone," played without stage setting. The Vieux-Colombier presents "Hui S-Clos:" "Comedie des Champs Elysees" renovates Steven Passeur's drama, "Je Vivrai un Grand Armour," while the Montparnasse theater shows the fairy tale, "Le Grand Poucet."

Taking a Child to See Toys Helps Answer Gift Problem

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

If you are in doubt as to what to buy as a Christmas gift for your rather small child—niece, nephew, grandson, or granddaughter — just take one of them on a visit with you to a big toy department or toy store and you will solve the problem. To hear them cry out, "O, Mommie, come look," or "Watch me, grandma—just watch me," as they are drawn like little magnets to this or that plaything, or handle, pull, climb in and out of the play equipment displayed on the floor, is visible evidence of just which thing appeals to them.

Seeing what appeals to a child in a toy department or store should provide a good Santa Claus clew. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

In this year's Christmas display, and in spite of shortages and priorities on any of the toy materials, there seems to be a pretty good supply of those stand-bys which all young children love: Wheelbarrows, wooden or metal, and large two or four wheeled carts with either a string to pull them by, or, in some cases, a rigid wooden handle so they can be pushed as well as pulled; a variation on the hobby horse which consists of a little wooden seat with a painted wooden animal on each side, on rockers; wooden ducks, dogs, and other creatures painted and mounted on wheels to be pulled by a string; large trucks, derricks, locomotives, and so forth, are now to be found in painted wood instead of metal, as formerly.

Furry animals are still to be had in a good assortment in ordinary size, and some huge oversized ones like the big pandas and teddy bears. Small blackboards are a treat to many youhg children. For the youngest, who are practically babies, cloth animals of moderate size and softly stuffed are to be found along with the cloth dolls.

For the little girl who loves dolls, welcome gifts consist of such doll furniture as a cradle, a little bed, chairs, high chairs, and so forth, plus those tiny dolls' tea sets.

Blocks always are a wonderful and creative plaything for children, so should be added to your list. But due to the priority on lumber they are not obtainable in as great number or variety of shape and size as formerly.

"You and Your Young Child" is a booklet of interest to parents. For your copy send 18 cents to Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago 11, Ill.

Thru the Looking Glass

This isn't a year when we can or should wander aimlessly thru the shops in search of ideas. The salespeople lead a harassed life these days, and a lot of physical and mental wear and tear are going to be saved for women on both sides of the counters if we shoppers would organize our expeditions. A list is a great thing, now more important than ever—and this of all years is the one to heed the stores' pleas to do our shopping early.

You might start on your list-making by considering first the needs, then the tastes of the women on it. Here are some suggestions, strictly on the sensible side:

If there are working girls on your list, especially those living in districts that are crowded, such as camp towns or defense areas, consider the manicure case. The professional manicure is absolutely not obtainable in such sections—and every woman to whom you present the tools for a good home job of nail glorifying will bless you forever.

For the young girls on your list—the teen agers—remember such essentials to adolescent good looks as the hair brush, the nail brush, and the cosmetic kit. The youngsters who are just beginning to know the thrill of making themselves as attractive as possible not only need such things but are pleased as punch when they get them.

Then, for the older women on your list, consider the gift of a professional beauty treatment or a course of them. This is magnificent gift for the woman who ordinarily denies herself such luxuries.

And for men, remember that toiletries are terrifically popular. The male, it seems, is just as vain as the female, and only now is unabashedly admitting that he loves fine toiletries.

New Massine Ballet Waste of Beethoven

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Considering that Leonide Massine has contributed more to ballet than any choreographer since Michel Fokine, there's no understanding his "Moonlight Sonata," which had a dismal world première by Ballet Theater at the Civic Opera house last night. This is Beethoven in the sentimental, highflown "literary" style of the Ludwig biography, which probably would have made the original Ludwig snort with rage. It's about a poet and a girl in a literal Soudeikine landscape, and the girl has a session with Cupid and one, in more furioso vein, with a dark lover in a helmet, and both of them are clouds if you happen to have read the libretto. The dancing is pure posture, and a waste of Beethoven as orchestrated by Antal Dorati and danced by Massine, Tamara Toumanova, Albia Kavan, and Richard Reed.

However, it was by no means a wasted evening. Toumanova rang up the curtain with her first "Swan Lake" in many a Chicago season, a lovely thing of throbbing personal beauty and a line so clean and pure it seemed to cut the air it lived in. The adagio, alas, was such a success the audience broke in with applause before the downthrust that is its poignant climax, but there was no mistaking the end of each of Toumanova's solos, for no one yet has given them crisper periods. For all its funny little waltz, Tschaikowsky's "Swan Lake" score is unbeatable for dancing, and Mois Zlatin gave it the curving strength that backs up the dancers. The ensemble was good in what Dolin's restaging has left it to do, Mr. Petroff was a good partner, and Mr. Reed again made me wish he could dance a performance complete with that banished solo.

Antony Tudor's satirical jest at ballerinas, the razor edged "Gala Performance," wound up the program with Nora Kaye, Nana Gollner, and Janet Reed as rival queens of the dance, and in between there was another performance of the season's hit, "Fancy Free," which has become a favorite with most audiences, but which had one of last night's customers confused. About midway of the performance, when the sailors were in a frenzy of high jinks, he turned perplexedly to his neighbor and asked, "Is This 'Porgy and Bess'?"

Well, I shouldn't promise things and then not want to do them, but would that I hadn't mentioned "Bluebeard." It was so much nicer the way I remembered it than the way it is now. Fokine's last ballet was such a froth of frivol, a bouffant glitter to some of the best of Offenbach and Vertés. Now the production is cut to touring size and tho some of the dancing remains topnotch the flair is gone. Good-by, "Bluebeard," you were lovely while you lasted.

College Fraternities Must Widen Scope, Dr. Sparks Asserts

The fraternity will have to become more than a maturing agency on the college campus if the post-war challenge is met, Dr. Frank Hugh Sparks, president of Wabash college, said last night. He spoke before the Alpha Alumni chapter of Beta Theta Pi at a dinner in the Continental hotel.

The expanded campus service must include three types of students, the returning veteran, the student who has been a war industry employe, and the high school senior, he explained.

Dr. Sparks, who made a fortune in the industrial world before going to college, says the fraternity system is desirable, providing every student has a chance to belong. "Since approximately 55 to 60 per cent of the college men want fraternity affiliations each campus should offer adequate facilities for that number," he said.

Boy Causes Rift Among Girl Friends

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"Ever since we started junior high school, six of us girls have stuck together thru thick and thin, no matter what happened. We were even nicknamed "the inseparable six" because that's what we were, and are. But now that we are in high school, our ideas have turned toward fellows. However, I am the only one of the six who has ever had any dates. And in the last month a boy named Jack and I have become very fond of each other. Naturally Jack wants me to be with him as much as possible . . . and so do the girls. When I go out with Jack in the evening instead of with them, they feel hurt. Yet if I refuse the boy too often, he will be hurt. The same situation arises when he wants to walk to and from classes with me. I have almost grown up with the five girls, but the boy has begun to mean a lot to me, too. Is there some way I can make them understand?"

If your five girl friends had five good boys to fill their thoughts and their dating evenings, they would certainly understand. But so far they haven't met them, and it is too much to ask any gal [you, for instance] to arrange five blind dates for Friday nights even for the best of friends, so why not try sharing Jack with them? You couldn't ask him to buy cokes and hold hands with all of you at once but you might try telling your friends about him so they'll realize just why you enjoy being with him. Tell them where you go on dates together and the fun you have so they will get a kind of second hand excitement out of your happiness. Before long they'll be out looking for interesting Joes for themselves.

"I have no trouble getting dates because I get along very well with almost any one. I could have a date every night of the week if I wanted, and I do go out every Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday. My mother seems to think that I go out with too many boys, since I never go out with the same boy more than twice. She seems to think that I should go out with only one boy. . . ."

Limit your dating to only four or five fellows at a time—you're not a one gal dating bureau, are you? You may be popular, but at the rate you're making the rounds, it won't be long till you wear out.

SYNOPSIS: John Ranger of Circle J R ranch and three other cattlemen go in search of rustlers who shot and killed Rod Spillman. On the way to the crossroads store Sandra and Nelson Ranger are intercepted by the bandits. In the rustlers' attempt to get away, one of them is killed and a stranger, Cape Sloan, is taken prisoner. Uhlmann and Sholte are anxious to hang the prisoner, believing he is one of Scarface's bandits, but John Ranger and Russell Hart prevent it. During an encounter with Pablo Lopez' raiders Sloan escapes. Singlehanded he rescues Sandra and Nelson and escorts them back to Blunt's, where the two men are hoping to hang him. John Ranger dresses Sloan's wounds and takes him to the Ranger ranch. There Jim Budd, Negro cook, recognizes him as Mr. Webb, escaped prisoner. When Sandra tells Sloan there has been something shocking in his past Sloan is astonished by her insight, yet he feels there is no place in his life for a woman. From John Ranger he learns how Jug Packard got control of the Johnny B. mine and how young Webb killed Giles Lemmon, one of Jug's men, and was sentenced to prison for 20 years. Sandra reveals to her father her suspicion that Sloan is young Webb. Leaving the Rangers' home, Sloan locates Stan Fraser, who had worked for his father. The petition for Sloan's pardon was blocked by Jug Packard, a political power. Fraser believes Sloan's father was killed by foul play.

FINDS A FRIEND.

"I've told you all I know," Fraser said. Sloan nodded. "I know that talk like that is dangerous. As far as its going any farther, you can be sure nobody else will ever know you said it." Recalling subsequent events, the eyes of the convict grew bitter. "I don't suppose you ever heard that after my father's death Packard proposed to divorce his wife and marry my mother. She was terribly angry and put him in his place. Then he decided to take the Johnny B. lock, stock, and barrel. That way he got my shares, too."

"Not then."

The older man slanted a sharp look at Sloan. "Or now. Don't you start getting any crazy ideas in your head, boy. You tried it once and it ruined your life."

"Yes. I didn't know enough then to fight a man like Packard. I blundered in like a fool and was framed. The story I told at my trial was true. Both Packard and Uhlmann gave false testimony. When the firing began I was near the middle of the room, with Uhlmann on one side of me and Lemmon on the other. I ducked under the desk, and by chance Uhlmann's bullet caught Lemmon in the throat. Packard made Uhlmann stop shooting. He figured it would look better not to kill me, but to send me to the penitentiary."

"I knew it was some kind of frame-up, but I thought they deviled you into killing Lemmon. You didn't know enough then, and now they have the cards stacked against you. No use trying to fight Packard. Even if the law wasn't waiting to drag you to Yuma, you couldn't do a thing. He's had time to get everything fixed. The way it is now you haven't a dead man's chance. First move you make, they throw you back into a cell. Forget Packard. One of these days he'll get his."

Sloan ignored that. "Uhlmann didn't have a nickel when he was working at the Johnny B. They say he has a pretty good ranch now. How did he get it?"

"I've got quite a bump of curiosity myself, and I once looked into that. He claimed an uncle died and left him $15,000. That's not true. Jug set him up in business, took a mortgage on the place, and a year or so later released it. I'll bet Rhino never paid a dime of it. He knew too much, and Jug had to square him."

"Of course that was the way of it," Cape Sloan assented. "They'll stand together. A fellow named Newman used to do the bookkeeping for the mine. Is he still there, do you know?"

"No. He quit long ago. Works in the S. P. railroad offices at Tucson. Funny thing about that. I met him soon after he had quit Packard and asked him why he had left the Johnny B. He gave me a quick look and shut up talking right then."

"Think I'll drift over to Tucson," Sloan mentioned.

"I can see you lookin' for trouble, Bob," Fraser yelped excitedly. "Haven't you got a lick of sense? Jug Packard is in the saddle. He'll rub you outa his way soon as he finds out you're around. If you don't pull yore freight he'll put you in a wooden box or have you slapped back in jail. Jug is the cock-a-doodle-do around here."

"You think this man murdered my father. So do I. He robbed my mother and broke her heart when his lies put me in the penitentiary. With me locked up, he left my little sister alone in the world. What kind of a weak-kneed quitter do you think I am?"

His friend gave up trying to dissuade this bitter reckless man. Bob Webb's son would walk unafraid into desperate peril if need be, as his father had more than once done before him.

"All right," the little man said quietly. "I'll side you. The best friend I ever had was yore father."

"Y'betcha! This is a free country. You can't stop me from going where you do any more than I can prevent you from doing what you've a mind to do."

"But this is my job, Stan," the younger man explained. "It's not yours. I have a right to risk my own life. The way I'm fixed it's not worth anything anyhow. But I can't lead you into trouble."

"Who's leading me? Not a young squirt like you. I'm trailin' along to dry nurse you."

Cape Sloan knew that his friend was game as a bulldog. He had been brought up in the outdoor school of the frontier which kept in session 12 months of every year.

"There may be trouble," Sloan reminded him.

"Ain't that what I keep tellin' you?"

"My idea is to move lawfully, getting evidence against Packard that will stand up in court."

"That's fine with me."

"But it won't be with Packard. If it looks like I'm getting anywhere, it's a cinch that guns will start to smoke."

Fraser opened his eyes with mock astonishment. "You don't think that good old mealy-mouthed Jug would start anything like that," he demurred with obvious sarcasm.

"How would I feel if one of their bullets got you instead of me?" Sloan wanted to know.

"They have not molded the bullet yet that will get me," the little gamecock retorted. "I'm sittin' in, boy. Done bought chips. Where do we go from here?"

"We go and have dinner first if there's a restaurant in this burg."

"Best place is Ma Skelton's. I eat there. Let's go."

"Remember that my name is Cape Sloan," the man who claimed it warned the other.

A few moments later Fraser introduced the stranger to Ma Skelton. She was a large angular woman in the late '40s with a hard leathery face and a brusque manner behind which was concealed a warm and generous heart open to all in distress. More than one cowboy with a broken leg had convalesced at her home, in spite of the fact that he had not saved a nickel to pay for food, lodging, and rough nursing. No matter how tough an hombre the invalid might be, that was always one debt he paid later if his span of life was not cut short. In case he was inclined to be forgetful, Ma's other guests prodded his memory forcibly.

"Dinner's ready," Ma Skelton said. "Sit down. Any place."

Sloan and Fraser stepped across a bench that ran along the table close to a wall and sat down. Several others joined them at the table.

Dr. Schuman to Speak at Anshe Emet Synagog

on Foreign Relations will hear "War and Religion" discussed by Dr. Niebuhr, who is professor of Christian ethics at Union Theological seminary, at 12:15 p. m. Friday in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

Following Antony Tudor's talk on "The Ballet in Production" at 11:30 a. m. today in the Arts club, Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw will entertain at luncheon for the widely known choreographer and dancer. Some of the others with luncheon reservations are Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mrs. George Paddock, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. Arthur G. Cable, Mrs. Mellen C. Martin, and Mrs. Ross J. Beatty.

The first of a series of chamber music concerts to be held in Kimball hall will be heard tonight with the Russian Trio as artists. Mrs. Hamilton Daughaday, Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Ganz, the Harold Pynchons, and Mrs. George R. Jones are some of those who reserved tickets for the series.

The woman's auxiliary board of Children's Memorial hospital is entertaining at tea today in the lounge of the nurses' residence for Miss Frances V. Brink, new director of nurses and of the hospital's school of nursing. She formerly was superintendent of nurses and director of the school of nursing of the Milwaukee County hospital. Mrs. James C. Hutchins heads the woman's auxiliary.

A New York Soprano Fails Decidedly in Her Chicago Recital

Elma Fairweather, a Negro soprano, came from New York City to give a recital in Kimball hall last night. Musically it was stormy weather.

What Miss Fairweather's voice might be like if it had ever enjoyed the suspicion of correct training there is no way of telling. As it stands now, to enumerate the faults of her singing would be like Leporello going thru the catalog of Don Juan's mistresses—about 400. Perhaps her most painful habit is the one of singing in a totally different key from that in which the piano happens to be playing. To say that Handel's "Care selve," a group of lieder by Schumann, Tschaikowsky, and Schubert, and arias from "The Marriage of Figaro," "Tosca," and "Louise" left her high and dry would be kindly understatement.

She had a good accompanist in T. Theo Taylor, but he didn't have a chance against the soloist's complete insecurity. A. G.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Pat D., Elgin, Ill. — Make your candles last longer this holiday time by giving them a coat of white varnish. Let the varnish harden for at least 48 hours.

Mrs. Hetty D., Milwaukee, Wis.—I use peroxide to remove a scorched spot from any white material. Dampen a white cotton cloth with the peroxide, lay it over stain, cover with a clean dry cloth, and press with a medium warm iron. If the peroxide dampens the top cloth replace with a dry one.

Mrs. Emory T., Chicago—I keep sealing wax on hand, melt it, and apply it to a small crack in linoleum as soon as I discover the crack! Our house is old and so is our linoleum, but sealing wax is a good "first aid" treatment.

Husband in Army, So She Builds His Beverage Business

Mrs. Vernon Toliver.

One of the hundreds of delegates to the annual convention of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, meeting today thru Thursday in the Morrison hotel, is Mrs. Vernon Toliver of Quincy, Ill., said to be the only woman general manager of a soft drinks bottling plant in the nation.

Mrs. Toliver took over the job when her husband, Pvt. Vernon Toliver, head of the firm, joined the army in 1943. He now is "somewhere in France" with the infantry. Before Pvt. Toliver went on military leave, his wife's association with the company was as occasional pinch-hitting bookkeeper. Now she not only keeps books, but checks route salesmen, does the buying, handles the pay roll of 14 persons, and hires and fires.

In summer, her company's peak season, Mrs. Toliver spends 14 to 16 hours a day on the job. Her work has helped increase the firm's output by 15 per cent, despite priorities allotted on the basis of business handled in 1941.

We don't have to rely upon importations to supply us with poppy seed. Wisconsin and Canada furnish these tiny dark globules which are so good in holiday breads and cookies.

If you make a basic cookie dough and flavor it in various ways for an assortment of tea cookies, don't forget to add poppy seed to part of the mixture. Poppy seeds are at their best in plain sugar cookie variations.

These ribbon cookies have appeared in this column before, but they're a long time favorite with every one who has made them. Poppy seeds are used in a part of the dough.

Ribbon Cookies.

1 cup margarine
1½ cups sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup chopped candied cherries
¼ cup chopped pecans
1 oz. sweet milk chocolate, melted
2 tablespoons poppy seeds

Sift flour, measure, and resift with baking powder and salt. Cream margarine until soft and gradually add sugar. Beat until light. Add egg and vanilla and beat until smooth and fluffy. Add flour mixture a small amount at a time, mixing well. Divide dough into three equal portions. Add chopped cherries to one part, nuts and melted chocolate to the second, poppy seeds to the third. Line a small, narrow pan with waxed paper and pack chocolate nut dough into bottom as evenly as possible. Over this pack cherry dough, and place poppy seed mixture on top. Cover with wax paper and chill for several hours at least. When ready to bake, turn out of pan and slice very thin. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets at 400 degrees until lightly browned.

This dough may be stored for a week or more in the refrigerator and cookies may be baked a few at a time.

Poppy Seed Braid.
[Two braids.]

1 package compressed or granular yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
⅓ cup shortening
⅓ cup confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
½ cup milk or cream
4 cups sifted enriched flour [about]
½ cup poppy seed
2 tablespoons milk or cream
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
½ teaspoon salt

The last five ingredients are filling. Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Cream shortening and sugar and add salt. Scald milk or cream. Add gradually, stirring well. Cool to lukewarm and add softened yeast and beaten eggs. Blend thoroly. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover, and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours. When light, punch down and roll into rectangular sheet ½ inch thick. Cut lengthwise into six equal strips, using sharp knife or pastry wheel. Place mixed filling down center of each strip. Fold each strip over and seal edges. Braid three strips together. Place on greased baking sheet, let rise until doubled, about 1½ hours, and bake 35 minutes at 350 degrees.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 27.—Metro aims to borrow Lauren Bacall from Warners for a remake of "Anna Christie" with Spencer Tracy, and might I suggest Florence Bates in the part Marie Dressler was so outstanding in. . . . Esther Williams is going on a tour of 15 hospitals, only three of which have pools. I asked what she was going to do. She'll swim when she can and sing when she can't. It's a case of from swimming to singing in one generation. . . . The timing of "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo" with B-29s bombing Tokyo is almost as good as Warners' timing of "Casablanca"—remember? . . . Monte Blue goes back to westerns again in "San Antonio." When I first met Monte he was doubling for De Wolfe Hopper in a silent version of "Don Quixote." Was that a stinker! . . . What's this! Is it true that newlywed Virginia Sinclair and Prince David M'Dvani are already slated for a quick divorce? . . . Vicki Baum may cover Europe for Colliers. She's the logical one to do it. . . . The other day while we were gazing at a new picture of Elsa Maxwell, Glenn Wheaton, looking over my shoulder at her, said, "Wonderful woman! She's lived off the fat of the land and absorbed every bit of it." Crosby is now trying to sign up Glenn.

More's the Pity.

Since Noel Coward got such a bad press [and rightly, too] for his remarks about Brooklyn boys, I might as well report what Daphne Du Maurier, author of "Rebecca," said to a group of friends in a London hotel. Some fellows, war weary, were having a little celebration and were seated a few tables away. Their merriment seemed to annoy the authoress, and she was heard to remark, "Obviously, they're nothing but American soldiers." Then one of her guests, the wife of a well known British star, turned on her and said, "Remarks like that have kept England and America far apart for too many years." . . . Hunts Hall, ex-Dead-Ender, and ex-wife Elsie Anderson have ended the "ex" and are reconciled. . . . Since Lionel Barrymore has joined ASCAP, he now claims membership in five different unions. . . . Darryl Zanuck is paging Irene Dunne for a picture. . . . Col. Ed Kirby is the guy who gave Dinah Shore her first radio job. He brought back from England a recording of "Stardust" which Dinah made over there with Maj. Glenn Miller's band. You'll be able to get the record now that the Petrillo ban has been lifted. Proceeds will go to army-navy relief.

Where I Came In.

"A Letter from Evie" is being put into screen form for Metro. It's a comedy about a lonely girl who works in a factory making shirts for soldiers. She sticks a love letter in the pocket of one. It reaches a poor little pathetic soldier who falls in love with the unknown dame but gets his hero [a big husk] to seek out the girl and do his wooing for him. . . . William Farnum, who's been on the stage and screen 54 years, is writing his life story. He tells about when he was 16 he was understudy for a leading man. One night he got to do Mark Antony. After the performance, the manager of the company said, "From now on you will be my leading man, and I'm upping your salary from $12.50 a week [which he never got] to $20." Farnum stayed with him three years. Their repertoire was Shakespearean. I wish Herbert Yates would hurry up and find a good picture for Farnum. He's looking but not hard enough.

Needs Only Toni 7.

Richard Thorpe isn't superstitious. O, no! Thirteen is his lucky number. His name has 13 letters. "Her Highness and the Bellboy" will be his 13th for Metro. He agreed to direct it Oct. 13 and starts Dec. 13, and he's got Aggie Moorehead playing a duchess. What more could he want? . . . Speaking of Aggie, Mike Romanoff gave her a crystal chandelier. The sparkle of it was too bright for Mike's eyes. Incidentally, his Beverly home is for sale. He tells me Confucius, his bulldog, is fed up with respectability. . . . Lassie is the most envied actress. The dog is daily surrounded by 200 head of sheep. Think of all those legs of lamb, and Lassie's been warned not to take a bite out of one. . . . Loretta Young sat still for Artist Tom Kelley, and even her mother doesn't realize they're pictures of her child. . . . The Alan Ladds are off on a hospital tour. He to entertain soldiers—she to entertain Alan. . . . William K. Howard dined a couple of flyers—Capt. William Drillard of Texas with 58 missions over Africa and Italy [he's 22], and Capt. Gerlick Bomber. Driving to Romanoff's, Howard asked Capt. Drillard how he was feeling. He replied, "Fine, except for this fever blister on my lip."

Final contract: Three no trump by West.

Opening lead: King of clubs.

There is a strange psychology among some bridge players. The less adept the player is at manipulating the dummy, the more inclined he is to overbid. Nature would seem to cry out for the reverse procedure.

A little bit of overbidding now and then is not only good for the spirit, but actually should tend to improve your handling of the dummy. Some of the most inspired plays have been born of adversity brought on by a preceding atrocity in the bidding. Today's hand is one in point.

Thru a series of bids, which need not be discussed here, West became the declarer at a contract of three no trump. It is apparent that the taking of 11 tricks at hearts requires no ingenuity, but West was the captain of this team, and East was the "yes man." The opening lead was the king of clubs, which West, of course, took because he had another club stopper.

He then tested out the spade situation because if that suit broke, the nine of spades would become an entry for the hearts. However, the bad news was out when North failed to follow to the second lead.

Now the contract appeared to be doomed unless the queen and 10 of hearts were alone, which was very unlikely. West hit upon a better plan. He led the jack of hearts. If North covered, he intended to duck with the idea of overtaking the king with the ace next time, trusting the 10 to drop.

But North played the two of hearts, and a low one was played from dummy. South took this trick with the queen. Had he not done so, the contract would have been defeated, because the heart suit would have been permanently shut out. If South had held off with the queen, it would have been a star play of the first magnitude. How many players that you know would have risen to the occasion? The club was returned and North cashed two tricks in that suit, but that was the end as the 10 of hearts fell on the next round and declarer was able to cash five hearts, three spades, and two aces, making four no trump.

Shop Is Haven Where He Can Buy Her Gift

BY REA SEEGER.

Masculine shoppers with a firm idea what gifts they want to buy for the hard-to-please women on their lists would have a rugged time if it were not for the "men only" shop. This well filled and sequestered spot is in a State st. store, right in the haunts of women, but the doors are barred to them, and a man finally has the chance of the year to appraise the newest feminine whims and fancies, all hung out as bait for Christmas money.

Experts with imagination and cunning, some equipped with second sight and mind reading ability, are the staff inside. They help blushing males [if there are any left], or the tongue tied, with hints, advice, or the final push into a momentous decision. They are the gals who prevent such mistakes as a size 40 going out to a mere sylph of a 32, or the world shaking error of sending a fatal color that wouldn't blend with the hair and complexion of the future owner. And they prevent such minor mistakes as books going to a gal with outdoor winter sports on her mind and so on and so on. Gentlemen with money or lists in the hand or on the mind will do well to use these experts and the gifts assembled in this cozy little spot for Yuletide shopping.

Negligees and lingerie, hosiery, jewelry of either the so-called "junk" variety or the precious gold, platinum, and bejeweled creations, trousseau of all colors by the yard or in the bunch, gloves worth a dictator's surrender price, cocktail and evening jackets, sweaters — everything we the women crave or need for fashion or fun, is displayed in lavish profusion, ready for the appreciative gentlemen who only once during the year dare the job of buying for "Her."

Stage Notes

Lee Shubert, co-producer of "Ten Little Indians," saw our company at the Harris Sunday night and promptly signed Robert Warwick to a three year contract. Gossip also had Mr. Shubert looking over the Great Northern and Civic theaters, possibly with an idea of adding them to the Shubert chain. . . . Robert Stevenson is the fourth member of the cast of "The Glass Menagerie," due at the Civic Christmas night. . . . "Chicken Every Sunday" is reported on its way to town, theater and date to be announced later. . . . "Sleep No More" ends its Civic theater engagement Saturday night.

ILLINOIS AND PURDUE NAME MOST VALUABLE

THIS BODES NO GOOD FOR WEBER

Coaches Bill Heiland (left), Charles (Chuck) Harvey (center), and Charles (Chuck) Palmer of the City league got together yesterday to plot the ending of the Catholic league's string of scholastic football successes in the Kelly bowl in Soldiers' field Saturday. Heiland coaches the Austin team which was crowded out of the bowl battle by the fall of a coin, but which is regarded as the City league co-champion; Harvey tutors the Tilden team which is to meet Weber Saturday, and Palmer cocahes at Fenger, the school which last gave the City league a Kelly bowl victory. WEBER PERILED BY CITY LEAGUE COACHING BIG 3

Coaches Chuck Harvey of Tilden, Bill Heiland of Austin, and Chuck Palmer of Fenger met yesterday on Tilden Tech's football practice field.

After the ayes and nays and the absentee ballots were properly recorded, it was discovered the City league was in agreement on one thing—that it again was time the public schools won a Kelly bowl game from the Catholic league, a trick that has not been accomplished since 1940.

Harvey was present at the meeting because it is his team, the Tilden High school Blue Devils, that will represent the public schools in the Kelly bowl game against Weber High school in Soldiers' field Saturday.

Austin Is Sparring Mate.

Heiland came out to the practice to have his Austin team, co-champion of the league, work out against Tilden, using the Weber plays. Austin tied Tilden, 7 to 7, in the semi-final playoff, lost a bid to the finals on the flip of a coin, but became co-champion of the circuit when Tilden defeated Fenger, 16 to 14, in the championship game. As co-champion, Austin shares all Tilden's honors, glories, laurels, and $1,500 in cash for football uniforms.

Palmer, of Fenger, was on hand to tell the boys how the business of winning from the Catholic league representative best might be accomplished.

Lane Tech Not Represented.

A representative of only one of the City league's four section winners was missing at the Tilden practice yesterday—a representative of Lane Tech's north section champions, altho it was understood that a Lane representative, believing the old adage that if they can't be licked they can be joined, was out aiding George La Cognata in coaching the Catholic league champions.

Actually, despite the Catholic league dominance in the last three games, the public schools have not fared so badly in Kelly bowl competition, and altho the bowl game was inaugurated in 1935, it was 1941, when Leo's Lions did the job, before the parochial schools came up with a winner.

Third Time in Four Years.

Harvey, going into this game, will be taking a Tilden Tech eleven into the Kelly bowl for the third time in four years, and will be searching for that charm which will give him a victory after two previous defeats. Leo's Lions whipped Tilden in 1941 and 1942, and last year, with Tilden out, St. George's Dragons of Evanston continued the Catholic league streak by defeating Wendell Phillips.

Regardless of who wins, the contest will be a success for the Chicago Service Men's centers, which will receive the proceeds. Yesterday Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, secretary of the game, said that more than 60,000 tickets already had been sold, and that if favorable weather conditions prevailed on Saturday, a crowd of more than 75,000 is expected.

Grange Heads New League in Pro Football

Headed by football's famous Harold [Red] Grange, the United States Football league yesterday announced plans for an eight team pro circuit starting in 1945.

Red Grange.

Grange, Galloping Ghost at the University of Illinois two decades ago, was elected president of the new league at a meeting in the Morrison hotel which closed with announcement that eight cities—Akron, Baltimore, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago, New York, and Honolulu—had been granted franchises.

Grange disclosed that the league was incorporated under Illinois laws, would set up headquarters in Chicago, and had collected $10,000 guarantees from each of the prospective clubs. The franchise holders were listed as:

Chicago—J. E. [Ned] Grimes, a consulting engineer, and others. Baltimore—A. H. Ehlers, president of the Interstate Baseball league. Philadelphia—J. J. Ahrin, business man. Washington—Lt. Harry L. Harris, an insurance man now in the coast guard. New York—W. S. Palmer, a contractor. Honolulu—Ralph W. Olson, business man, Dr. Samuel L. Yee, Chinese surgeon, and F. J. Brickner, a navy employee who once played football at St. Mary's, Cal. Akron—Charles Burns, representative of the Akron Rubber bowl and 50 stockholders. Boston's franchise holders were not identified.

NAME CALDWELL NEW PRINCETON FOOTBALL COACH

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 27 (AP).—Charles W. Caldwell Jr., once a Princeton star athlete and coach of Williams college teams since 1928, has been named head coach of football and baseball at Princeton university, Dean Christian Gauss announced today.

Gauss, chairman of the Princeton council on athletics, announced the resignation of Elton E. [Tad] Wieman, head coach for five seasons, who took a leave of absence in 1943 to become civilian director of the army specialized training program physical training section.

Caldwell also will succeed 76 year old William J. Clarke as baseball coach. Clarke retired last summer after coaching 35 Princeton baseball teams.

BILL HACKETT TO LEAD 1945 OHIO ELEVEN

Columbus, O., Nov. 27 (AP).—William Hackett of London, O., guard on Ohio State university's undefeated football team, tonight was elected captain of the 1945 Buckeye eleven. Hackett, junior in the school of veterinary medicine, has played three seasons of varsity football for Ohio State.

OHIO PROVES IT'S THE BEST BIG NINE TEAM

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Les Horvath and his teammates on the Ohio State football squad proved beyond question last Saturday that they are champions of Western conference football. This civilian team, divided between experienced linemen at five of seven positions and freshmen backs, except for Horvath, may even have legitimate claim to first place in national ranking. This undoubtedly will be true if undefeated Army is beaten by Navy Saturday afternoon in Baltimore's Municipal stadium.

Ohio State's nine victories, climaxed by the 18 to 14 conquest of Michigan, were fashioned around football tactics for which the midwest is famed. The attack was based primarily on execution of running plays and the climax of the season was the fourth period, 51 yard touchdown drive composed entirely of smashes into Michigan's line.

Theory Favors Army.

In theory, at least, Army still holds first place in the national rankings because of the number of excellent reserves for its undefeated varsity and because of greater experience. But Ohio State's team—16 players participated in the Michigan game—possible could be beaten only by Army, if it could be beaten, by reserve talent to wear down the Buckeyes.

Ohio State has three linemen deserving of sectional and national honors, Jack Dugger, end; Bill Willis, tackle, and Bill Hackett, guard. Dugger and Willis are seniors and have played three seasons. Hackett, a junior, has played two years; Capt. Gordon Appleby, a senior, received some relief at center when Ohio State was on defense from Charles Renner, a freshman.

Russ Thomas, the other tackle, is a sophomore in his second season. The other linemen are freshmen, Tom Snyder, guard, and Traian Dendiu, end.

3 Freshmen in Back Field.

Dick Flanagan, Bob Brugge, and Ollie Cline, all freshmen, were back field starters with Horvath, who now has won four varsity letters. Horvath did not play last year when an army student. Matt Brown, relief for Cline, played last year. Tom Keane, who replaced Brugge, also is a freshman, as is Dick Jackson, who took over occasionally for Dendiu. Warren Amling, sophomore lineman, played both guard and tackle and on either side of the line.

Here, then, is the group which had requisite power and determination to march 51 yards for the winning touchdown in Saturday's fourth period. This team's superior strength was clearly indicated by 73 rushing plays as compared to 43 for Michigan.

Recapitulation of the details of the championship game produced an unanimous observation: Michigan was excellently prepared for its defense against the Buckeyes and Michigan played to 100 per cent of its possibilities. Few actually believed the Wolverines could go into the last 10 minutes leading Ohio State.

Lacked Experienced Linemen.

Michigan lost the title game because it did not have as many good experienced linemen. During Ohio State's first touchdown assault, Michigan carried the play to third down in four series and to fourth down in another series. Thus the Wolverines were persistently overpowered. Their defense never cracked wide open.

Michigan spotted Art Renner, its best end, at the left flank. Milan Lazetich, No. 1 tackle, was on the right side. Joe Ponsetto, quarter back, backed up the right side of the six man line and John Linton, defensive center, backed up the left side. Don Lund was defensive left half, the more vulnerable position.

Early in the game Michigan tried a 6-3 line with Ralph Chubb, defensive right half, coming up and wide to support Michigan's right flank. The safety man compensated by moving wide and closer to cover the right half territory. Altho this can be a signal for successful passing, the Buckeyes never capitalized and, indeed, Michigan's first touchdown started after interception of Horvath's pass.

Derricotte Missed.

Michigan's other handicap, of course, was loss of Gene Derricotte by injury. Derricotte carried the ball only once and he easily is Michigan's fastest back. Bill Culligan played splendidly in place of Derricotte but the Wolverines had lost one more from a varsity already depleted.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 27.—The Big Ten, Big Six, Pacific Coast, Eastern Intercollegiate, and other groups are given major credit for keeping football alive when a minority element was clamoring for its abandonment at the outbreak of the war. . . . They are entitled to it. . . . It is the almost unanimous opinion of our army, navy, and marine leaders that they have made a valuable contribution to the war effort. . . . We wonder if the fans whose support guaranteed the continuance of competitive games do not merit a hand, too. . . . We are thinking especially of the Monday luncheon patrons who meet to second guess the games of the previous Saturday and to hear reports from prominent coaches and officials. . . . Nearly every big town has a Quarter Back club or a similar organization, but none, it seems to us, has been more enthusiastic than the one in Birmingham. . . . We have attended football luncheons and banquets from New York to Los Angeles, but nowhere have we found fans with greater interest in the game than those who belong to the Birmingham Quarter Back club. . . . This in spite of the fact that last year most of the Southeastern conference universities, including both Alabama schools, had no teams.

We can remember in our youth when our mother used to say, "Pay no attention to that. It's only newspaper talk." . . . There apparently is some basis for the admonition even today. . . . A couple of weeks ago we read in some of the less reliable journals that Comdr. Gene Tunney had withdrawn as operator of a franchise in the All-America Football conference. . . . Which was amusing no end; because only a day previous he had capitalized his organization for $325,000. . . . The former heavyweight champion will personally direct his club until his older son, now 13, is able to take over.

One of the reasons Cleveland has replaced Chicago as the site of big football games is the treatment accorded visiting teams by the city. . . . Illinois, which was the "home" team in its game with Ohio State, Nov. 18, was charged only $6,000 rental plus $1,000 for expenses. . . . The game drew 83,627 spectators to Municipal stadium and it's your guess as to the money that vast crowd spent in Cleveland that week-end. . . . It would cost tenants more than three times $6,000 to present the same attraction at Chicago's Soldiers' field. . . . Lt. Tyrone Power says the biggest jolt he has received from a football game was while listening to the broadcast of the Army-Notre Dame contest, Nov. 11. . . . He turned on the radio of his transport plane about 2:15 o'clock and heard the announcer say ". . . and that makes the score 20 to 0." . . . I said to myself, 'Notre Dame got going in a hurry today,'" the marine flyer explained . . . It wasn't until Army tallied again a few minutes later that he learned his mistake. . . . Hotel congestion in Atlanta last week-end was said to be the worst in the city's history. . . . It has been a year since Commissioner K. M. Landis banished Bill Cox, owner of the Philadelphia National league club, from baseball. . . . Many thought Cox would be reinstated after a year's suspension. . . . Financially, the C. Y. O. boxing finals in Ashland Auditorium, Chicago, Dec. 6, probably will be the most successful that organization has promoted, thanks to the scores of friends of Bishop Bernard J. Sheil who bought blocks of tickets at $10 apiece.

Our Legacy.

Ours is a teeming world as each day proves,
Yet small may be the round in which one moves,
With thoughts so often filled with petty things
While for our ears the lark exulting sings.
Tho trivial our task may seem, and gray
And drab the daily tenor of our way,
Yet thru the passing seasons, earth and skies
Unfold their changing beauty for our eyes.

Thru centuries rare gifted men have wrought
With chisel, pen, and palette and have brought
And laid their priceless talents at our feet
And we have learned that dull monotony
Dwells not with him whose mind is ever free,
For in our legacy of countless things
Lies all we need to lend the spirit wings.

CHICAGO AGAIN TO BE WORLD'S TENPIN CENTER

Tribune Tourney to Open Saturday.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The All-Star individual match game championship tournament, which will open Saturday and continue thru Dec. 10 in the Auditorium Service Men's center under the sponsorship of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America, has established Chicago as the bowling capital of the world in the three years of its existence. That position has been recognized as the result of the interest which the All-Star has created and because it has proved another example of the Windy City's No. 1 ranking for hospitality to folks in the services.

'Twas nigh on to midnight Sunday when Chicago's position in tenpin competition was further strengthened with the victory by which Paul Krumske, 150 pound star of the Meister Braus, took away the championship from Ned Day in a stirring finish over Ned's own West Allis, Wis., lanes.

Day's First Loss.

The decision was the first the personable Badger had lost on a home-and-home basis in seventeen such duels. This in itself was quite a compliment to Krumske's brilliantly steady performance over the two alleys to which Day is supposed to have the combination. The final score of the 60 game block found Paul in front by 287 pins and by five points and 37 pins on the Petersen point sytem. Krumske wound up with a 60 game aggregate of 12,530 against Day's 12,243.

Day, a real champion in any league, was the first to congratulate Krumske, who must put his title on the line when the field of top flight stars from every section of the country begins rolling next Saturday morning. Ned and his wife, Fran, entertained Paul and Ev Krumske in their West Allis apartment immediately after the struggle was over.

Krumske's Job Remarkable.

Krumske's work thruout the Wisconsin phase of the match was remarkable in that he refused to permit Ned's proven talents on the latter's favorite planks to keep him from being outdistanced. He had come in with a 22.13 point advantage over the champion, off of their first 30 games at bowling lanes here, with the knowledge that no other man ever had beaten Day on his home grounds in a home-and-home match of this caliber.

Krumske's triumph added another to the list of major championships held by Chicagoans as of today. These include Paul's conquest of Day, the doubles title shared by Bill Flesch and Buddy Bomar, and the Victory five man crown won by the Meister Braus, of whom the co-captains are Krumske and his able second in the Day challenge match—Bill Hargadon. In addition, Chicago won the last A. B. C. team championship captured by the Budweisers in Columbus, O., in 1942. That quintet included Hargadon and Joe Wilman, and many citizens are curious as to whether Wilman, now in the army, may not be on hand when the firing starts Saturday morning.

PLANNING BOARD CONSIDERS ILLINI SPORTS BUILDING

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 27 (AP).—Gov. Green said today that a proposal by an alumni committee that the state erect a University of Illinois sports building was being considered by the state post-war planning commission, but he made no direct reply to a question whether his Republican administration would back the measure in the legislature.

"I don't believe the proposal was incorporated as a part of the university's post-war budget," the governor told a news conference. "It is, however, being considered by the University trustees and by the post-war planning commission."

The alumni association committee has announced it would ask a legislative appropriation next year for a $1,500,000 building that would seat 20,000.

JOY OVERFLOWS AGAIN IN HAWKS' HEADQUARTERS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

A spirit of absolute giddiness prevailed yesterday at the Chicago Blackhawk headquarters and joy and grief studio on N. La Salle st. as the officials and players gathered to gurgle over the breaking of the team's long victory fast. Without exception the Monday sessions in the studio previously this season had been occasions for wailing, moaning, and guttural noises indicating complete frustration. Yesterday there was naught but ecstasy in the wake of the grand 6 to 5 triumph over the Detroit Red Wings Sunday.

The team performed so brilliantly, rapidly, and relentlessly Sunday night that Manager Paul Thompson didn't ask the boys to put on their skates yesterday. They were permitted to just sit around and talk about the first victory the team had won this year before one of those famous Sunday night crowds in Chicago Stadium. Today, tho, the lads will start sharpening up for the Boston Bruins, who, on Thursday night, will make their second apearance of the season in Chicago.

Top Scorers Meet.

The game Thursday will bring together the two top point producers in National league ranks—Bill Cowley, of the Bruins, who has registered 8 goals and 14 assists for 22 points and Clint Smith, of the Hawks, who has scored 6 goals and 15 assists for 21 points.

A part of the rejoicing at Hawk headquarters was because of the fact the Hawks' first line, as a line and individually, headed the league scoring last week. Smith's two goals and seven assists for nine points was individual tops. Pressing Clint's mark for the week was Bill Mosienko's five goals, including three which formed half of the total in that 6 to 5 conquest of Detroit.

Pete Skates But Ignores Rules.

Mosienko now has scored 11 goals, to give him a tie with Sweeney Schriner of Toronto, but leaving him one behind the leader, Maurice Richard, who has made 12 goals for Montreal. Mosienko, however, has 18 points to Richard's 15, the Frenchman having accounted for only three assists.

Rookie Pete Horeck made six points during the week, but his effectiveness has been tempered considerably by his flair for sitting in the penalty box. There are times when he indicates he never has read or heard a reading of the National league rules. But this young man really has started to skate and is expected to familiarize himself with the rules before adding many more minutes to his penalty total of 18.

BILL PARSONS BEATS HUNT IN MARIGOLD BOUT

In supporting matches Mike Sopko, Indiana Harbor middleweight, stopped Joe Harris, Cincinnati, in four rounds; Claude Ellison, Des Moines heavyweight, knocked out Walter Radcliffe, Indianapolis, in one; Roland Hopp, 160 pounder, also of Indianapolis, beat Jimmy Bishop in six, and Tommy Graham, Wichita, Kas., lightweight, defeated Sam Scully in four rounds.

BUDDY YOUNG, DIMANCHEFF 1ST TO BE CHOSEN

Honor Roll

THE list of players selected by their teammates as candidates for The Chicago Tribune Silver Football, which will go to the most valuable player to his team in the Western conference during the 1944 season, includes:

Illinois—Claude [Buddy] Young, back.
Purdue—Boris [Babe] Dimancheff, back.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 27 [Special].—In keeping with their youthful traditions, the University of Illinois football players today selected a freshman half back, Claude K. [Buddy] Young of Chicago, as their most valuable player for the 1944 season and the Illini candidate for The Chicago Tribune Silver Football award.

At the same time the Illini named a sophomore guard, Ralph [Babe] Serpico of Melrose Park, captain for 1945. It will be the first time in modern Illinois history that any one other than a senior has been captain.

Averages Nine Yards.

A year ago the Illini named Eddie Bray their most valuable player, the first freshman to be so honored since the award was established by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in 1924. Bray was runner-up to Otto Graham of Northwestern in the final voting.

Young's selection came as the climax to a brilliant year in which he led the Big Nine in yards gained per rush and paced Illinois in scoring. He averaged 9 yards each time he carried the ball and made 13 touchdowns in 10 games. This equals the Illinois season touchdown record, set by Red Grange, who scored 13 touchdowns in 1924, his junior season. Grange played in six games.

He's Sprint Champion, Too.

Young is the National A. A. U. and National Collegiate sprint champion, undefeated at 100 and 220 yards since he entered Illinois.

Just a year ago, Young was a student at Phillips High in Chicago, an all-state prep half back, and the state 100 yard dash and low hurdles champion. He recently became 18 and will be inducted soon.

Serpico, the captain-elect, is a product of Proviso High school in Maywood. He alternated between a position in the line and linebacker.

PICK DIMANCHEFF

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 27 [Special].—Boris [Babe] Dimancheff, Purdue's versatile back field star who led the Big Nine in scoring and was one of the nation's leading ground gainers this fall, today was named by his squad mates as the most valuable player to the third place Boilermakers during the season just closed. This makes him eligible for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Silver Football, to be awarded to the most valuable player in the conference.

Dimancheff's value was heightened by his pinch hitting performance as full back, signal caller, and acting captain in the last four games of the season after the Boilermaker back field had been disrupted by service transfers and injuries.

Scores 72 Points in 10 Games.

The 22 year old Bulgarian, an honorably discharged army veteran, was well up in the scoring race nationally as well as topping the Big Nine. In addition to the nine touchdowns he scored in six conference games, he added three more in non-conference contests to give him a total of 12 touchdowns and 72 points for the 10 game season.

Babe's ground gaining more than kept pace with his scoring. In 10 games he carried the ball from scrimmage 175 times for a net of 830 yards, an average of 4.77.

He's Pass Receiver, Too.

The former Washington High school, Indianapolis, star, who has 178 pounds well distributed over a 5 foot, 11 inch frame, also is a deft pass receiver and was on the terminal end of touchdown heaves against Great Lakes, Iowa Seahawks, Wisconsin, and Indiana.

In addition to being named as the Boilermakers' most valuable player, Dimancheff was elected honorary captain for the 1944 season.

Myth of Invincibility Is Strong in East.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 27.—Reverberations of the Chicago Bears' violent handling of the Philadelphia Eagles yesterday needed no help from hearing aids today. The Bears may have lost some prestige among their western rivals this season, but they're still the fearsome old Bears to the easterners.

Buddy Parker, the Card-Pitts' assistant coach who scouted the Bears' 28 to 7 victory over the Eagles, hit the right key before this game which knocked Greasy Neale's Philadelphians out of the lead in their sector.

They Still Mesmerize Opponents.

"Look at them," he said as the white trousered Bears rumbled on the field for pre-game exercises. "Just look at them. When they take the field they do something to the other team, sort of mesmerize it. They have an edge before a ball is kicked—like the Yankees had when Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig were at their peak.

"We've sort of become used to playing the Bears as have the other teams in our division and this invisible percentage doesn't pay off out west like it does in the east. Here the Bears make only occasional appearances and even tho they've lost many of those pre-war giants their name and past history is enough to give the opponents the shivers."

Just Can't Stop 'Em.

On past performances the Bears had no business handling the Eagles that way. Philadelphia's line had restricted opponents to an average of 1.8 yards per try. This you couldn't believe, when, in the fourth quarter the Bears turned on power drives with no attempt at deception. The Eagles knew that Gary Famiglietti or Jimmy Fordham would run with the ball. Gary and Jim just stood there like kids awaiting their turns to slide down a chute or bob for an apple.

Just as spectacular in reverse was the performance of the touted Eagle backs. Steve Van Buren looked far from the hottest freshman article in the National league. He had little drive, but in justice to him it must be said he seldom had a chance to show his speed. It seemed that the Eagle quarter backs, who retreated a couple of steps on each play, were too slow in shoving the ball to runners. Two or three Bears usually were right there to ride down the carrier before he could get started.

Badger Coach Seeks Coast, Big 9 Series

Harry Stuhldreher, director of athletics and head football coach at the University of Wisconsin, yesterday voiced a plea for a post-war football home and home series between the champions of the Western conference and the Pacific Coast conference.

Speaking before the final 1944 Quarter Backs' luncheon session in the Morrison hotel, Stuhldreher said:

Opposes One Game Arrangements.

"I have always been opposed to a Western conference or any other mid-western eleven competing in the Rose Bowl games in California on New Year's day for the simple reason that any team from this section of the country would be playing at a great disadvantage because of the climate.

"Teams on the west coast are acclimated and playing in their own sunshine, while teams coming from the middle west lose considerable vitality thru the sudden shift from a cold to a warm climate. I played with the Notre Dame team against Stanford in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1, 1925, and I know that the climate took something out of us. If we hadn't taken a lead in the early part of the game we probably would have lost that game.

Series Evens Competition.

"However, I believe that a series between the champions of the Pacific Coast and the Western conferences would be fairer to both teams, provided the game is played early in December. The game could be played on the coast one year and possibly in Chicago, the hub of mid-western football, the next. With such an arrangement the climate in the midwest would not be too rigorous for either team and the west coast heat would not be sufficiently advanced to place the midwestern eleven at such a disadvantage."

Stuhldreher shared the speakers' program with Wes Fry and Johnny Kovatch, assistant footbal coaches at Northwestern and Indiana respectively.

St. Louis Beats Chicago in Roller Derby, 20 to 18

St. Louis defeated Chicago, 20 to 18, in the roller derby in the Coliseum last night and now has won two games to three for the Chicagoans. Sixteen games will be played. Approximately 2,800 fans watched last night's game, in which Buddy Atkinson and Evelyn Karrin of the Chicago team led the men's and women's divisions, respectively, in scoring with four points each.

Maroon Quintet Defeats Gardiner Hospital, 41-33

The University of Chicago basketball team defeated the Gardiner General hospital five, 41 to 33, in the Maroon's fieldhouse last night after trailing, 23 to 19, at the half. Ray Krzoska of Gardiner was high scorer with 15 points, one more than was scored by George Raby of Chicago.

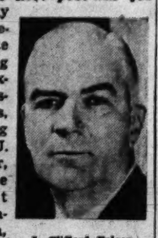
CORPORATE TAX CUT ADVOCATED AS A JOB MAKER

Simpler SEC Rule Asked by I.B.A.

Putting idle capital back to work is the country's first post-war job and the best way to do it is by reducing corporate taxes, simplifying securities and exchange commission regulations, and encouraging small business, J. Clifford Folger, president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, said yesterday.



J. Clifford Folger.

"The best encouragement for venture capital will come with tax relief," Folger told the association's 33d annual meeting in the Edgewater Beach hotel. "Based on present tax laws, no banker can conscientiously put his client's money in anything but more or less risk-less investments.

"Security offerings in the last 10 years tell the story. Ninety-five per cent are of senior securities, mostly bonds. The flow of real venture capital has slowed down to a trickle. What we need is a real stream.

Asks System of Averages.

"Some things can be done taxwise to help business. Averaging losses and gains backward and forward over a period, say of five years, would be most beneficial.

"The capital gains tax should be lowered or eliminated. No satisfactory basis for its collection has been evolved. Give the large investor his chance at capital gains, avoid soaking corporations with confiscatory taxes before the money ever gets to the stockholders, help new and little business taxwise, and we will do more than anything else to get venture capital out into the open."

Altho investment bankers regard the present SEC staff "as well as anything they have ever had," Folger said "most informed people think the securities act needs streamlining."

Would Raise Exemption.

"Simplification of the rules would be encouraging to venture capital, and especially to small business," he said. "A lifting of the present exemption on registration for security issues of $100,000 and less to 1 million dollars should be considered.

"Encouragement is needed for little business. Here is the most popular and appealing call of all. Events of the last 15 years have not favored little business. Recently the commercial bankers have set up their own credit pool. This, in itself, offers great promise.

"We wish we had more domestic bliss between government and business," he commented on broker-government relations. "No one can say that business welcomed this marriage. But advice to the lovelorn holds that even with shotgun weddings it is better for both sides to look for good points rather than faults."

He said the answer to how far government may go in public banking lay partly in what steps bankers are prepared to make in a "real bid for a place in the sun."

7 WHITE LEAD FIRMS NAMED IN FTC COMPLAINT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—Seven companies described as the source of 85 to 95 per cent of the country's white lead were listed today in a federal trade commission complaint alleging monopolistic pricing.

The companies were National Lead company, Anaconda Copper Mining company and its subsidiary, International Smelting and Refining company, all of New York; Eagle-Picher Lead company and its subsidiary, Eagle-Picher Sales company, both of Cincinnati, and the Sherwin-Williams company and the Glidden company, both of Cleveland.

The complaint charged that National Lead monopolized interstate sale of white lead, acted illegally to obtain monopolistic price control and conspired with the other companies to reduce price competition, and that the companies have practiced price discrimination by systematically selling white lead to many purchasers at prices higher than a similar grade and quality was sold to other purchasers.

Illinois to Ask Sales of War Plants Intact

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

The Illinois post-war planning commission decided yesterday to recommend that the federal government, when the time comes to dispose of its war plants, offer them as complete production units rather than sell off machinery and then endeavor to dispose of empty factory buildings.

Members of the commission, meeting in Chicago, said they believed their proposal would encourage employment of labor in the state and at least it would offer business men an opportunity to make something of the government's 17½ billion dollar plant investments.

The commission's committee on industrial plant and opportunity suggested an intensive study of the convertibility of war plants in Illinois, keeping in mind long term potentialities and their effect on local economy.

Complete Program Sought.

The commission has the task of recommending a complete post-war program of expenditures for the state, with particular attention to the state tax surplus, which is expected to reach 127 millions by June.

Beside peace time industrial conversion and plans for assisting returned service men, the organization has delved into a number of state problems that are acute or will be acute in a few years. These include public education, health, welfare work, transportation, and water conservation.

Walter A. Rosenfield, state director of public works and buildings, called attention to the danger that much productive land might become too arid for farming if drainage and levee construction were carried along with only navigation and power projects in mind.

Half Billion Already on Paper.

The road and building program outlined showed that buildings to cost 287 millions and highways to cost 209 millions were in the planning stage, with 261 millions more in improvements asked by downstate areas.

Anderson Pace, commission chairman, set the next meeting for Dec. 27, when he said definite recommendations suitable for putting into law should be ready. A suggestion by Frank M. Lindsay, Decatur newspaper publisher, to discuss the proposal to have a constitutional convention at the December meeting was approved.

LET U. S. STEAMSHIP FIRMS OPERATE AIR LINES, HOUSE ADVISED

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—The house merchant marine committee unanimously recommended today that American steamship companies be given the right to participate in overseas air traffic. It reported to the house a bill which would give shipping companies the right to establish air line service in foreign commerce and said the civil aeronautics board had "ample authority" to grant such rights.

The committee report said these steamship lines had applied for air service certificates: Atlantic, Gulf, and West Indies, American President, Grace, Matson, Moore-McCormack, Seas Shipping, United Fruit, and Waterman Steamship.

The civil aeronautics board had withheld full operational air certificates from the steamship companies, contending the law gave them the right to air traffic "incidental" to regular shipping lines, the report said, adding:

"The civil aeronautics board has unwittingly fallen into the grievous error of regarding itself as the godfather of the air lines rather than the impartial judge between all classes of applicants for certificates."

FEA SUPPLIES FARM MACHINES TO FREED FRANCE AND BELGIUM

New York, Nov. 27 (AP).—Farm machinery has been distributed in liberated areas in France and Belgium which already have started to produce a portion of their food needs, Serge G. Troubetzkoy of the foreign economic administration said today.

Troubetzkoy, who arrived by plane from five months in London, said the speedy retreat of the Germans from France prevented their destruction of harvesting machinery.

"The problem of supplying farm machinery to the liberated areas was not as bad as we thought at first," he said. "There is a great need for repair parts for machinery which had been imported, particularly tractors."

The combined raw materials board announced the allocation of 146,000 South American cattle hides to liberated European countries with the understanding that they would not enter the Argentine market for additional purchases. It covered this month, December, and January.

YEARS OF PROFIT PREDICTED FOR AUTO BUILDERS

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 27 [Special].—A series of 10 billion dollar years for automobile dealers after the war was predicted today by Joseph W. Frazer, chairman of Graham-Paige Motors corporation. He said dealers will enjoy "the biggest sellers' market in history when peace comes, eclipsing the buying rush which gave retailers a 7 billion 800 million dollar business in 1941."

Speaking at the annual convention of the Oklahoma Automobile Dealers association, Frazer said his prophesy is based on the belief the industry will produce more than 6½ million units in its first year of unrestricted production, and possibly 30 million cars in the first five years after the war.

37 FIRMS NAMED IN CORNED BEEF PRICE RULE SUIT

New York, Nov. 27 [Special].—Thirty-seven meat firms, said to be responsible for above ceiling prices on corned beef and tongue in delicatessens thruout the country, today were sued by the OPA for nearly 5 million dollars in treble damages.

The companies, most of them in New York, include some of the largest meat processors and wholesalers. They were alleged, in complaints filed in Manhattan and Brooklyn federal courts, to have overcharged retailers more than $1,600,000 in the last 12 months, selling at 10 to 20 cents a pound above ceilings for corned beef and tongue.

Wurlitzer Votes Share for Share Stock Dividend

Rudolph Wurlitzer company yesterday voted a dividend in capital stock payable Dec. 20 at the rate of one share for each of 414,923 shares outstanding. The company will transfer $4,149,230 of earned surplus to the stated capital account.

Income News, Dividends Lift Stock Prices

New York, Nov. 27 (AP).—Modest support for various favorites appeared in today's stock market and, altho many leaders had to contend with a dearth of bids, the close was higher.

Earnings and dividends again served as a mild buying incentive, but no rush to expand commitments developed. Speculative and investment forces leaned to the conservative side on the belief that the allied push on virtually all fronts might mean earlier consideration of reconversion problems at home. Expectations of more year-end tax adjustment also were a restraining influence.

List Tends to Irregularity.

The list tended toward the irregular from the start and, altho advances were well distributed at the finish, numerous issues were down fractions. Some prices improved in the last few minutes. Dealings were quiet most of the session but picked up in the final hour.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.2 at 55.2. Of 857 issues traded, 371 advanced, 240 declined, and 246 were unchanged. Transfers were 737,534 shares compared with 677,880 Friday.

With the exception of Union Pacific, which dropped a point, rails added fractions. Among these were North Western, at a new 1944 high; Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, and Southern railway.

Declining were Consolidated Edison, Dow Chemical, United corporation preferred, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, Boeing, American Smelting, and International Harvester.

On the Curb Pierce Governor jumped 2 points and Fansteel 2⅛.

RAIL BONDS CLIMB.

New York, Nov. 27 (AP).—Railroad bonds monopolized attention in today's market and many gained major fractions to more than 2 points. Generally the market was steady. Buyers were in no rush to acquire favored issues and changes were small.

CHICAGO LIST ADVANCES.

Prices were mixed in turnover of 21,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume leaders included Middle West corporation and General Finance, each up ¼; Chicago corporation and Belmont Radio, both unchanged, and Standard Dredging, down ⅛. Among three stocks reaching new 1944 peaks was Harvey Hubbell, up 2.

GRAINS UNEVEN; DECEMBER RYE, WHEAT DECLINE

Grain prices were mixed yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade after liquidation developed in December wheat and rye. Oats and barley showed independent strength. Wheat closed ¾ cent a bushel lower to 1¼ cent higher, the latter on September. Corn held within narrow limits and finished ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Oats gained ⅛ to ⅜ cent; rye was off ⅛ to ⅛ cent, and barley advanced 1⅛ to 2¼ cents.

The permit system for regulating the movement of corn to Chicago, in effect since Nov. 16, was abolished last night after a conference of the transportation committee of the Chicago Board of Trade and the railroads. Smaller receipts and colder weather which facilitated unloading resulted in the accumulation of grain on track being cleaned up. Other leading markets were expected to take similar action.

Institute to Hear Army, WFA on Butter Program

Butter programs of the army and the war food administration will be discussed tomorrow at the American Butter institute's annual convention in the La Salle hotel. Brig. Gen. Carl A. Hardigg of the quartermaster corps will speak for the army, and Dr. T. G. Stitts, chief of the dairy and poultry branch of WFA's office of distribution, for WFA. The convention will continue thru Thursday.

ASSEMBLY LINE HOMES BID FOR PEACE MARKET

Gunnison Stresses Speed and Price.

BY AL CHASE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Albany, Ind., Nov. 27.—More speed and higher efficiency are the two manufacturing factors which may make the "prefabricated house" industry a possible competitor with the automobile in the post-war industrial market, Foster Gunnison, president of Gunnison Homes, Inc., said today.

Foster Gunnison.

His big plant in this little city across the Ohio river from Louisville, Ky., is the world's only house manufacturing plant using the assembly line methods developed by the motor industry to make more, better, and cheaper cars.

Gunnison today told how his assembly line production of factory built homes had been both quickened and improved in a few years.

Electric Eye Spots Delays.

A little six horse power electric motor recently installed handles the work formerly done by 120 men, he said. An "electric eye" in the production manager's office spots all machinery trouble. Because one delay on an assembly line can tie up the entire plant, speed in locating the trouble is important.

Gunnison plans to concentrate on homes costing $3,000 to $7,500—the mass income market of families with incomes of $25 to $60 a week.

He is the only factory home builder using the timed flow, conveyor production system perfected by the motor industry. Raw materials arrive in freight cars at one end of the plant, and all parts for a complete house arrive at the other end every 25 minutes to be "packaged."

The idea of selling homes as packages originated with Gunnison and is said to have caught public fancy. In addition to all structural elements, each package contains the heating, sink, and cabinet units plus electric fixtures.

Can Be Set Up in a Day.

The local dealer supplies foundations, basement excavation if desired, wiring, plumbing, and one exterior coat of paint in addition to the two sprayed on in the factory. A house can be set up in one day and ready for occupancy in a week. Three carpenters, two laborers, and no hoisting or special equipment are required to erect the home.

Gunnison homes are built with factory made interchangeable panels constructed on the stressed-skin principle of engineering used in airplane wings.

Each panel is made of raw lumber and hardwood veneers. They are bound together with phenolic resin in huge hot-plant presses which convert the phenol into a plastic that penetrates all thru the veneers and bonds them permanently.

All panels, including floors, exterior walls, ceilings, and even the partitions between rooms have rock wool insulation sealed within them.

Speed Making of Panels.

Gunnison has speeded the panel making process so that instead of each requiring 25 minutes, five are placed in each press at once and turned out in five minutes.

Switching from old time "quantity" methods where a group of men work on one unit and then start on another, to assembly line mass production was a tough job, Gunnison said.

In addition to speeding the assembly line, Gunnison said he gradually was reducing the number of parts required to make a prefabricated home.

"In our earliest home models we had 157 panels for each house. Today we have only 42. Our 16 different floor plans are less than we started out with.

Exteriors Widely Varied.

"By attaching porches, wings, garages, and arcades or 'breezeways,' to different parts of the house, and by using different ornamentation, and different roofings, we can have an almost infinite variety of exteriors.

"But we don't have 'modern' designs. We learned some time ago that the public doesn't want them. We stick to the conventional."

Gunnison homes are sold from catalogs which are supplied by the local dealer, who supervises the actual construction. Ownership of a lot is usually considered a down payment.

Control of the company, which has built 2,800 units for the federal government, recently was purchased by United States Steel corporation.

CHICAGO FIRMS INCORPORATE AS BUYING COMPANY

Twenty-five Chicago merchants have incorporated as the Chicago Coöperative company under the Illinois coöperative act of 1915 to facilitate the purchase of scarce merchandise, especially liquor and tobacco, George S. Porikos, attorney for the organization, said yesterday.

"These merchants have found it difficult to obtain certain merchandise and are forming what might be termed their own wholesale setup to get their rightful share," he said. "They are grouping their purchasing power so that they will not be at the mercy or whim of the wholesaler."

Porikos said that altho federal tax laws appeared to be more favorable to coöperatives than the usual corporate business form, this factor was a minor one because the organization's primary objective was the acquisition of scarce products and not profits which might accrue from a wholesale business.

N. Illinois Public Service Adds 400 Farm Outlets

More than 400 farm customers were added to the rural electric lines of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois during the first nine months of 1944, bringing the total number of farm and rural units served to a new high of more than 24,800, the company said yesterday. The additions lengthened the company's rural lines 50 miles to more than 6,260 miles in 16 counties.

Chicago's Housing Shortage Blamed for Lack of Labor

Charging that lack of proper housing is a direct cause of Chicago's man power shortage and that federal plans for emergency housing "will make no appreciable improvement," the Metropolitan Housing council and four other housing organizations yesterday appealed to federal authorities for immediate emergency housing for the city, especially in south side Negro districts.

Federal Plans Rapped.

Criticizing the limited federal action proposed, Ferd Kramer, president of the council, a private organization, said: "We understand that John Blandford, administrator of the national housing agency, is going before this session of congress to ask for 18 million dollars for emergency housing. Chicago would be allotted funds for 750 family dwelling units. A minimum of 5,000 units for Negro occupancy alone is needed if Chicago is to contribute its maximum effort to war production."

Kramer said that Chicago has been handicapped in war production by housing scarcities which prevent recruiting of workers in other areas and affect efficiency of those here.

Need Termed Crucial.

Robert R. Taylor, chairman of the Chicago housing authority, commenting on the telegrams, said, "The need for immediate additional housing in Chicago to further the war effort is crucial. The Chicago housing authority has completed 500 new dwellings in the last six weeks; in the next 60 days it will have 1,250 more ready for occupancy; it plans 600 more. These are a drop in the bucket."

Coöperating with the council in its telegraphed appeal to Blandford and to Philip Klutznick, commissioner of the federal public housing agency, were the Chicago Industrial Union council, the Chicago Council of Negro Organizations, the south side AFL housing committee, and the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association.

SERVICE MEN TO HELP RAILROADS WITH RUSH OF HOLIDAY TRAFFIC

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—Military personnel will be available again this year to help out the railroads during the Christmas rush. Both the army and navy have authorized their personnel to take jobs with the railroads while absent on pass and during off duty periods, only when civilians are not available to do the extra holiday work, the office of defense transportation reported today.

FOSTER WHEELER DIVIDEND RATE SET, PAYS EXTRA

Foster Wheeler corporation, manufacturer of steam plant and oil refinery equipment, yesterday voted an extra dividend of 50 cents and authorized another disbursement of 25 cents which was termed a regular quarterly declaration. Interim payments of 25 cents were made in July and October, the first since 1931.

Decca Records corporation declared an extra dividend of 30 cents and a regular disbursement of 30 cents to bring the total for 1944 to $1.50, compared with $1.40 in 1943.

Other companies ordering extras included W. F. Hall Printing, E. J. Brach and Sons, Northern Illinois corporation, A. Hollander and Son, and Cooper Bessemer. Among companies increasing disbursements over 1943 totals were Micromatic Hone, Udylite, and Navarro Oil. Consolidated Coppermines voted a 10 cent dividend, first this year.

VALLEY GROUP RAPS PLAN FOR MISSOURI BASIN

Supports Present Flood Curb Setup.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 27.—Proposals to establish a Missouri valley authority along the lines of the Tennessee valley authority were criticized today by Rep. Whittington [D., Miss.] who insisted development of the Missouri and other rivers should be retained in the hands of existing agencies. He spoke before the 26th annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association.

Rep. Whittington.

Holding that the TVA is in the experimental stage, Whittington said it provided for the development of power, but that this power development had been made possible by the appropriation of more than a half billion dollars of the taxpayers' money.

Held "Realm Within Itself."

"The TVA is a realm within itself," he said. "Its revenues are not turned into the federal treasury; it is supervised by no other agency. It is free from the auditing of the general accounting office. The connection between congress and the TVA is that annually congress makes lump-sum appropriations. Such appropriations should not be made in a republic. One authority is enough until that authority has been proved thoroly successful."

Clear thinking on all proposals to set up river authorities was essential because seven such proposals have been made, he argued. Any authority for the Missouri river basin patterned after the TVA would be entirely impracticable, he said, because reclamation and flood control are the objectives of Mis-

Contradicting those who hold that the TVA has value in flood control, Whittington said that before the TVA was authorized the largest area that could be flooded was 420,000 acres, but that 360,000 acres, or six-sevenths of that area, were under water in the reservoir bottoms of the Tennessee valley.

He said supervision of flood control and reclamation development should be retained under the army engineer corps and the reclamation bureau.

The association adopted unanimously a resolution offered by Gov. Sharpe of South Dakota urging that the senate pass immediately the house flood control bill and recommended acceptance of the coördinated plan for the Missouri basin agreed upon by the army engineers and the reclamation bureau.

Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of army engineers, told of the important role of the waterways in war transportation.

Other Lines Relieved.

"Our thousands of miles of improved inland waterways have relieved other modes of transportation of vast tonnages that might have broken the back of our transportation system, one of the greatest tragedies that can come to a nation at war," he said.

"They have permitted large segments of our shipbuilding industry to move to interior points. They have helped to make it possible for other types of war production to be decentralized from labor critical and industrially concentrated areas, thus making our mobilization for war more uniform and more complete."

H. J. Schroeder of Moline, Ill., made a plea for the development of the Hennepin canal which would connect the Mississippi river with the Illinois river between Rock Island and Bureau. He said the canal would save 400 miles in moving freight between Chicago and Minneapolis.

Shipping Needs Listed.

After the war the United States will be able to use 15 to 20 million deadweight tons of its 50 million tons of war built shipping, Vice Adm. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, told the association at its annual dinner. He placed the needs of domestic commerce at 3½ million tons for the Great Lakes, 2½ million for the rivers, 3,800,000 tons for coastal and intercoastal shipping, and 7½ million for foreign.

Land said it would be good insurance to spend $3,000 to $4,000 a year per ship to lay up about 1,000 ships for emergency use. The approximately 4 million dollars total would be small compared with the cost of building a new fleet, a cost which has reached 15 to 18 billion, including approximately 40 per cent of added war costs, he said.

REJECT COMMISSION PLAN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27 (AP).—The senate rejected today a proposed Missouri river advisory commission as part of the billion dollar post-war flood control bill. Defeat of the amendment was a triumph for advocates of a Missouri valley authority on which Senators Murphy [D., Mont.] and Langer [R., N. D.], demanded a vote, it was said.

Accepted was an amendment by Sen. Gurney [R., S. D.] to authorize expenditures up to $500,000 for emergency flood relief. The senate put aside the flood control bill until tomorrow because of the absence of Sen. Austin [R., Vt.]. Austin is proposing changes in the Connecticut river program including an amendment taking from the army engineers authority to modify projects.

HOG PRICES DIP DESPITE BUYING BY BIG PACKERS

Hog prices yesterday averaged 5 cents lower despite active buying led by the three biggest packers. All offerings were sold. Altho receipts were third largest for a Monday in five months, they were slightly below a week earlier and a disappointment to the trade, which had expected a moderate rise.

Steers sold slowly at weak to 25 cents lower prices. Most sales were made from $14.25 to $17.50, with $18.40 the top, the lowest for Monday in three weeks. Lambs brought mostly steady prices, with $14.65 the top.

CHARGE OLD AGE TAXES BUILD UP NEW DEAL FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—The administration's proposal to allow social security taxes on workers' wages to double on Jan. 1 was denounced by Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.] at a house committee hearing today as a thinly disguised effort by the New Deal to raise more taxes for general government spending.

Meanwhile, Rep. Jenkins [R., O.] introduced a bill calling for a permanent freeze of the pay roll tax at 1 per cent for both employes and employers. These are the current rates, but under present law, the tax would double in 1945 and go up to 3 per cent for each by 1949. The taxes are for old age benefits.

Tells of Huge Reserve.

Knutson, at a hearing of the house ways and means committee, said official figures from the social security board show reserves in the benefit fund at present are nearly 6 billion dollars, or 2 billions more than the board estimated they would be by now when the program was started in 1935.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the board, testifying before the committee in support of the proposed increase, said the higher reserve results largely from swollen pay roll taxes collected during the war boom.

Taxes 7 Times Outgo.

Figures submitted by Altmeyer showed that current pay roll tax collections of 1½ billion dollars a year are more than 7 times the outgo for benefits. He testified that, even if the current tax rate is frozen, the security's fund's income would exceed its outgo for the next 10 years.

Committee Chairman Doughton [D., N. C.], noting that the board's original estimates of reserves were "far wide of the mark," said he was not confident that the present request for doubling the tax was "sound" either.

R. T. Compton, representing the National Industrial council, opposing any increase in the security tax, told the group that the social security fund now has revenues "far in excess of anything that was expected" even tho original estimates counted on a doubling of the levy on Jan. 1, 1943. The latter scheduled increase was postponed by congress.

RECOVERY HELD MAJOR PROBLEM IN RECONVERSION

Reconversion must effect "genuine recovery" from the economic conditions of the 1930's, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York said yesterday in its monthly publication.

The war boom has obscured the fact that the depression which began in 1929 was present when the war began, and has postponed but has not solved the problem of sound and lasting recovery, it said.

"War time experience has demonstrated as perhaps nothing else could, and far more clearly than did the record of the first World war, the enormous potential productivity of American industry," the bank continued. "What has not been demonstrated, unfortunately, is our ability to organize our human and material resources to convert this potentiality into a permanent peace time reality."

"In 1939 the national income was 15 per cent smaller than it had been 10 years earlier and less than half the estimated figure for this year," the bank said. "Millions were seeking work despite the fact that billions had been borrowed and spent by the government in an effort to increase production and provide employment.

War Boom May Be Interlude.

"As far as can be seen now, the war boom may appear in retrospect as merely an interlude in the long struggle for business recovery."

Predicting that large scale reconversion would start in 1945, it urged reëstablishment of the national economy upon a firm and workable basis and the reconfronting of the problems of peace.

WESTERN AUTO SUPPLY.

I notice Western Auto Supply company [Mo.] is mentioned among industries with favorable post-war sales outlook. How much is it earning?—J. G.

A large post-war demand is accumulating for the restricted items among the automobile accessories, including tires, of which the company is an important distributor. Altho the outlook for sales in the period when restrictions shall have been lifted is favorable, earnings, of course, will depend on selling prices and profit margins. Western Auto Supply of Missouri has 1,465 wholesale accounts and operates 239 retail stores.

A down trend in sales beginning in 1942 continued thru the first half of 1944, but improvement occurred subsequently both in volume and in comparison with 1943. This was attributed to larger quantities of goods becoming available.

Profit margins in the first nine months of 1944, however, were lower both in the wholesale and retail divisions. Net income decreased to 79 cents a share on the 751,368 shares of $10 par value from $1.80 in the preceding year. Per share earnings in recent years were: 1943 $2.68, 1942 $3.16, 1941 $4.26, 1940 $3.88, 1939 $4.22. The dividend rate in 1944 and 1943 has been $1.

Net sales, which had exceeded 71 million dollars in 1941, dropped to $46,205,000 last year. Net working capital at the close of 1943 was $24,337,000. Outstanding 3¼ per cent debentures, due in 1955, amounted to $5,725,000, of which $275,000 was redeemed last September.
